U. OF C. ADOPTS RADICALLY NEW EDUCATION PLAN

Time Not a Factor in Graduation.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

The University of Chicago announced yesterday that the trustees and faculty have sanctioned the beginning of a new and radical experiment in educational and teaching methods.

The antiquated machinery of a fixed and formal education is to be scrapped, and in place of the present undergraduate course, with its four years, certain number of credits and degree at the end, a new type of college is to be created in which the student will be able to graduate whenever he can pass a comprehensive examination.

No Time Limit Set.

A genius may get through in two months, a brilliant student in a year. One who enjoys the social side of college life may loaf along for four years. Then there is a passing and weeding, but no degree. The students upon whom the university thinks it worth while to spend more time and money will then go on in special courses, but still with no time limitations, where they will be given degrees.

The present graduate school is to go and in place of this and the present undergraduate courses the nonprofessional training will be divided into five main sections, each with a dean. These are the social sciences division, the physical sciences division, the biological sciences division, the humanities division, and the college.

This reorganization forms the framework around which the new educational method is to be built. It may be extended, if found successful, into the professional schools, shortening courses there so that it will not take so long to become a doctor or a lawyer, but one will be a better doctor or lawyer.

Attracts Eye of World.

This experiment challenges the attention of the whole educational world, for it is an effort to answer the question of whether college is worth while and to put the burden of this largely upon the individual. It is a flowering of tendencies which have been noted for the last few years in several American institutions. It began at the University of Chicago several years ago in the honor courses under Dr. Max Mason's presidency.

It is now looked upon by President Robert Maynard Hutchins and the university authorities as a sort of "five year plan"; for, if by that time its good effects are not apparent in the student world and in research and in teaching, it may be exchanged for a better plan or abandoned.

Hutchins Tells of Changes.

Dr. Hutchins gave his ideas about the change last night. This tall, grave young president looked out from the windows of his office in the great hall built in memory of William Rainey Harper upon the sunset sky and the bare November branches of the campus. From near by came the hammering of many workers on the new buildings that are arising. The dream of the first president had come true and now it was changing form. In his mind President Hutchins had taken apart the whole mechanism of education created through the years, tore down the old walls, and fashioned a new institution with the human product as the great objective.

"If one were building a hypothetical university," he said, "he would go at it just this way. I do not mean to say that by taking down all walls we can produce a new character in teaching or in students, but we can open the way and watch the result. If in five years' time it is not up to expectations we will know what not to do.

Tells Influence of University.

"Take the teaching end, particularly. There is no institution in the middle west that has the influence upon teaching that the University of Chicago has. This is in mere point of number, at least. The complaint has been in many quarters that teachers were too narrow and specialized, that they did not have a sufficiently broad outlook, and were not able to change quickly.

"In this new institution which we are starting we hope to teach the teacher how to teach as well as the student how to study. In the old method the courses were arbitrary and the doors were closed to many related subjects. In the new school they will put through a wide area and take

Shots Fly in $2,500 Gold Coast Holdup

A holdup in the heart of the Gold Coast last night netted $2,500 in cash and jewelry for three young bandits, who fired their revolvers as they rode away after completing the job.

The victims were Mr. and Mrs. Dudley Chapin Palmer of Winnetka, Mrs. Warren McArthur of Phoenix, Ariz., and Mrs. Charles S. Dennis, widow of a lawyer, living at 1214 Astor street. The holdup was staged in front of that address. Mrs. Dennis is Mrs. Palmer's mother.

Bandits Surround Party.

With Mrs. Dennis as hostess, the party had returned from the Blackstone theater. Paul Pasquale, Mrs. Dennis' chauffeur, was at the wheel of the car. Mrs. Palmer, whose husband is president of Percival B. Palmer company, wholesale women's apparel, 367 West Adams street, had just stepped from the car. The others were preparing to follow her when the bandits drove up and surrounded them.

Leveling their guns in the faces of their victims, they forced them to sit in the car while one of the bandits searched their clothing for cash and the hands of the women for rings. The Palmers were the heaviest losers. Mrs. Palmer gave up three rings and a pin valued at $2,350 and $35 in cash.

Woman Saves Her Rings.

Mrs. Dennis was robbed of her handbag, containing $30, and Mrs. McArthur gave up $8. The latter saved her rings, valued at $3,500, as well as an imported bag by slipping the former off her fingers and telling the bandits the bag wasn't worth anything.

After they had finished with the last victim the bandits issued to warning not "to call the police for a half hour," fired some shots, and drove away in a westerly direction.

Three Rusty Tin Cans of Gold Are Miner's Hoard

Saguache, Colo., Nov. 19.—[Special.]—Three rusty tin cans, packed with $20 gold pieces, part of the hoard of Johnny O'Neil, who for years was noted as the "man who had more gold than any bank in the San Luis valley," were found today. O'Neil, pioneer miner, died three years ago. The total is more than $15,000. It is believed there is more gold coin hidden on the ranch.

RECORD BROKEN AS TEMPERATURE RISES TO 74.9 DEG.

All time temperature records for late November were established yesterday in Chicago and other parts of the central states while a blizzard howled its way eastward out of the Rocky mountains in Nebraska and Kansas.

The mercury in Chicago reached 74.9 degrees between 3 and 4 p. m. surpassing the previous high mark for late November set on Nov. 29 1913, when 72.8 was recorded. Indianapolis rein temperatures above 80.

The weather bureau attributed the unseasonably warm weather here to warm winds blowing up from the Gulf of Mexico and a low pressure area extending from Texas to Minnesota and Lake Superior.

The western cold wave is moving east rapidly, however, according to the weather man, J. R. Lloyd, who predicted rain today, adding that it might turn into snow tonight. It will be much colder tonight and tomorrow.

Tryst at Old Mill Ends in Banker's Death

Cortland, N. Y., Nov. 19.—[Special.]—Clayton W. Seeber, banker and farmer, wrote his own death warrant when he told his son to call the police because suspicious persons were found hanging around their old mill at Marathon, ten miles from here.

For tonight the banker was shot to death while keeping a tryst with Mrs. Myra Mudge, a widow, in the old mill. Mrs. Mudge also was shot and has small chance for recovery.

Carter Seeber, the son, had left the family mansion and had gone on a tour of his father's farm. Dusk settled; he saw forms in the old mill. The boy remembered what his father had said, so he hurried to town.

On the way he met Kenneth Parker, the sheriff elect. He told him strangers were in the old mill.

Armed Posse Called.

Parker got on a phone and called together a posse of 18 men, all armed mith rifles and shotguns.

When the mill was surrounded Parker tossed a brick through a window. Mrs. Mudge came rushing through the doorway. She turned to the road. Some one cried "Halt!"

Mrs. Mudge kept going and was shot down. Meanwhile the banker-farmer went to a window to hoist a white handkerchief of surrender and tell the possemen of their error. He was slain.

Capitalist in the Toils.

Portland, Ore., Nov. 20 (Thursday).—(AP)—District Attorney Stanley Myers early today announced he had ordered the arrest of Nelson C. Bowles, 34, retired capitalist, and Mrs. Irma Loucks Paris, 25, his former secretary, on first degree murder charges in connection with the death last week of Bowles' wife, Leone, 33, Portland society matron.

EARTH TREMORS ARE FELT NEAR PONTIAC, MICH.

Pontiac, Mich., Nov. 19.—(AP)—A large section near Oxbow lake was shaken tonight by what was believed to be an earthquake. The shocks were most severe in the regions of Oxbow, Union, Green, Cass, Orchard, and Straits lakes, near here.

At Kego Harbor houses were shaken so violently that many persons ran into the streets. Dishes were rattled and scores of persons, aroused from sleep, telephoned the police and fire departments.

28 SAVED FROM WRECKED SHIP BY MAURETANIA

Passengers Cheer Rescue at Sea.

BY W. H. ROBERTSON.

[Copyright: 1930: By The Chicago Tribune.]

ABOARD S. S. MAURETANIA, Nov. 19.—Via R C A, Chatham, Mass., Station.]—A thrilling rescue of a sinking vessel in mid-Atlantic was accomplished successfully at noon today.

After nine hours of steaming full speed through heavy seas the Mauretania arrived alongside the Swedish cargo steamer Ovidia, which at 2:30 this morning startled Atlantic shipping by an S O S call. She was leaking in the forward hold and was in a sinking condition with 28 passengers aboard, including one woman, Mrs. Carlsson, wife of the captain.

Two other U. S. vessels, the Endicott and America, picked up the S O S within rescue distance and started for the scene. Both are much slower than the Mauretania, which was 216 miles from the Ovidia when the call for help came. Capt. S. G. S. MacNeill immediately altered his course, put on full speed and the famous dowager queen of the Atlantic sped on its errand of mercy all unknown to the passengers.

Mauretania Outstrips Others.

The three ships kept in constant touch by wireless with the Ovidia, but the Mauretania, true to her record, arrived nearly two hours before the S. S. America. A wonderful piece of wireless direction finding enabled the Mauretania to steam full speed to the right spot.

The Ovidia was found wallowing in heavy waves, her decks awash, and water in the hold.

The Mauretania circled around her for an hour, then was advised by Capt. Carlsson of the Ovidia that he had decided to abandon ship. By this time the America's hull showed on the horizon. This was an hour after the Mauretania arrived.

First one lifeboat, then another, put off from the Ovidia, now obviously sinking. Launching of the small boats was a dangerous operation with such heavy seas running.

With masterly seamanship Capt. MacNeill brought the Mauretania within fifty yards of the doomed vessel. At times the small boats completely disappeared from the view of the hundreds of passengers lining the rail of the Mauretania.

Even Ship's Cat Is Saved.

Finally the crew of the Ovidia clambered up rope ladders to safety amid cheers from the passengers waiting to receive them. Even the ship's cat was saved.

The last view showed the Ovidia dipping bows in the sea where she will sink within a few hours.

Capt. Carlsson of the Ovidia told THE TRIBUNE correspondent on board the Mauretania:

"Thank God we were on the track of big liners. All last night the ship seemed uneasy. She developed a very heavy list to starboard and we found water in No. 2 hold. About midnight the deck cargo of two tons of timber shifted and I decided to send out an S O S. Later the prospects grew hopeless, and we gave a great sigh of

Jurors Order Sullivan and Bell to Chair

Frank H. Bell and Richard Sullivan, confessed robbers, were found guilty by a jury yesterday of the murder of Christ Patras, manager of the Villa Rica café at 2572 North Clark street. Their punishment was fixed at death in the electric chair. The jury, which had heard the trial in Judge Joseph Sabath's court, returned the verdict within fifty minutes after it had been sent to the jury room to deliberate.

The jurors announced that the question of guilt of both men was never in doubt. This question was decided within a few minutes after the jury left the courtroom. The death penalty for both men was decided in two ballots. One or two of the jurors, it was said, were in favor of life imprisonment at first.

Prosecutors Are Encouraged.

Assistant State's Attorney Walker Butler and Ross Lee Laird, who had charge of the prosecution, said that the verdict was a record for the Criminal court. The jury action, they said, was an encouragement to the prosecution and an assurance that the citizens are at last beginning to realize the necessity of heavy punishments for gunmen.

Patras was shot and killed in the restaurant early on the morning of June 16. An attempt was made to rob the safe and when he resisted with his own revolver the bandits, according to the evidence, opened fire on him. He was shot four times and then a parting shot was fired into his body by one of the men as they were leaving the restaurant, according to the state's witnesses.

The Verdict Is Read.

As James J. McGrath, 3650 North Lincoln street, the jury foreman, led his fellow jurors into the courtroom, several spectators said they knew the death penalty had been decided on. The jurors appeared unusually solemn.

The defendants were taken into the courtroom and after a general warning by Judge Sabath that no demonstration was to be tolerated, the verdict ordering Bell to the electric chair was read. Bell's eyes were focused on Judge Sabath. His jaw was set and he apparently was prepared for any emergency. He did not flinch as the verdict was read.

Sullivan, who was under the guard of three bailiffs at the other end of the courtroom, then heard the clerk read the same verdict for him. A smile of satisfaction seemed to spread over his face. He had said many times that he did not care what punishment he received if Bell was given the same.

Attorneys Appear Upset.

The defense attorneys seemed more upset than the defendants. Attorney Joseph Riskind, one of the lawyers for Sullivan, appeared pale as he asked Judge Sabath to have the jury polled.

Public Defender Benjamin Bachrach, who was experiencing a death penalty verdict for the first time in his long legal career, sank into a chair. He was defending Bell. Although Attorney Bachrach as public defender has several assistants he took the responsibility of defending Bell rather than sending some of his less experienced aides into the courtroom.

Before the reading of the verdict a dozen policemen from the state's attorney's office were scattered through the courtroom. This precaution was taken because of the ill feeling between the defendants and their friends. No demonstration occurred, however.

The bitterness between the defendants grew out of a confession made by Bell before the trial. Bell charged

Aid to Returning Prosperity Is an Obligation

Every loyal American has an interest in a prompt return of normal business conditions. That's true whether he is a manufacturer, a merchant, a mechanic, or one who lives on income from investments. For when business is normal, enjoyment of the fruits of production is widespread, contentment prevails, crime is reduced, and property and government are more secure.

What can a loyal American do to speed the return of normal conditions? He can do his share. And that is to increase his purchases of articles so that his buying creates the same demand for labor it normally does. Under normal conditions full employment is general. Unemployment is created when some fail to buy their usual amount of goods. The responsibility rests upon every loyal American with established income to increase his buying now up to normal.

FACES 15 YEARS IN PRISON FOR U. S. TAX FRAUD

Vice Collector Third to Be Convicted.

Jack Guzik, public enemy, was found guilty last night on three counts of evading the federal income tax. The reputed general manager of Al Capone's booze, gambling, and vice syndicate is subject to a possible maximum sentence of fifteen years in Leavenworth penitentiary and a fine of $30,000. He was charged with defrauding the government of more than $200,000 in taxes on an income of over $1,000,000 in three years.

The jury returned its verdict before Federal Judge Charles E. Woodward at 10:30 p. m., after deliberating six and one-half hours. The case went to the jury at 4 o'clock, and at 9 o'clock a note requesting a copy of the evidence was sent to the court. Judge Woodward informed the jurors that their request could not be fulfilled and that they must determine the facts from their memories.

Does Not Seem Surprised.

Guzik, on whose countenance amused tolerance and sometimes sorrow was evident during the trial of a full week, did not appear visibly affected by the verdict. Although he insisted he paid the government every cent of income taxes he owed, he apparently was not surprised by the decision that he was guilty.

When the verdict was read, Attorney William F. Waugh, chief of defense counsel, moved for a new trial and the court agreed to hear arguments on Dec. 5. Waugh announced that he would appeal the case in the event his plea for a new trial is denied.

Third Victory for Prosecutors.

Members of the prosecuting staff, Cassius Poust, Dwight H. Green, and Jacob I. Grossman, expressed satisfaction over the verdict, which marked their third successive victory in the two years since District Attorney George E. Q. Johnson launched his "flank attack" against gangsters and grafting politicians, using the income tax law as a weapon.

Mr. Johnson was not in the courtroom but his policy in the income tax campaign was expressed by his first assistant, Mr. Poust. "We expected this verdict," Mr. Poust said, "because we never indict any one unless guilt is evident or the presumption great."

Previous trials on indictments charging evasion of income taxes have resulted in the conviction of Ralph Capone, brother of Al, and of County Assessor Gene G. Oliver.

Faces 15 Years in Prison.

Guzik was convicted of willful attempts to defeat and evade income taxes for the years 1927, 1928 and 1929. The maximum penalty for such an offense in each year is five years in the penitentiary and a fine of $10,000.

The total amount of the evasions was fixed in the government charges at $229,000 on Guzik's alleged income of more than $1,000,000 for the three years. This allegation of income was predicated on Guzik's deposits in the Equitable Trust company and the Congress Trust and Savings bank during the three years.

Evidence in the case showed that Guzik financed and managed gambling houses throughout Chicago and Cicero. The government's star witness, Fred Ries, who was cashier for half a dozen of the Cicero gambling houses, testified that the average net monthly profits of a place were from $25,000 to $30,000.

Taxes Paid on $60,000.

Guzik filed returns and paid taxes on income of $18,000 for 1927, $24,000 for 1928, and $18,000 for 1929. Judge Woodward, whose instructions to the jurors consumed almost an hour, declared that they must consider first whether the defendant's net income exceeded those amounts and second whether he willfully attempted to defeat a tax through filing fraudulent returns.

Judge Woodward instructed the jurors that they might consider the testimony of Ries that a total of $149,000 in cashier's checks, drawn on the Pinkert State bank, Cicero, represented profits from Guzik's gambling houses, in determining whether all the deposits of the defendant constituted profits. The judge made it plain, however, that gross receipts could not be presumed to be net income.

Defense Challenges Evidence.

This was the crux of Defense Attorney Waugh's address to the jury. He charged that the government had shown through bank records, evidence of deposits of more than $1,000,000 during the three years $641,000 during 1927, but that none of this was shown to be net income.

He referred to the ledger sheets of Guzik's accounts for the three years, which, he said, showed that more than twenty of the defendant's checks were returned for insufficient funds and that the balance carried forward at the end of each month was seldom more than a few hundred dollars.

"The government is assuming that gross receipts are net income and asking you to convict this man on that assumption," Attorney Waugh declared. He attacked the credibility of Ries, who identified the checks which he declared represented Guzik's profit. The lawyer charged that Ries had been kept in custody and forced to testify for the government.

U. S. Assails Guzik Witnesses.

Prosecutor Grossman, who opened the final arguments for the government, attacked the testimony of the gambling associates of Guzik, who testified that most of his enterprises resulted in losses.

"The defense has brought in dope fiends and gamblers from Halsted street and Cicero," Mr. Grossman said. "All they could remember was losses. One of them talked about losing $110,000 in one year. Yet, on cross-examination, they couldn't remember details of the losses. They might as well have said they lost a million."

In closing for the government, Prosecutor Poust discussed Guzik's returns, which did not detail the sources of his income or specify what deductions were claimed.

"The defense has attempted to show that Guzik did not show the sources of his income since he was afraid of incriminating himself in the state courts because he was a gambler," said Mr. Poust. "Even if he had, a $100 fine is the worst that could have happened."

Points to Documentary Evidence.

Mr. Poust declared in effect that Ries told the truth because he was taken into court under custody. The prosecutor said the witness' testimony was supported by documentary evidence, whereas he declared the defense testimony of Guzik's gambling associates was "conjured up in the last minute in an effort to meet the government's overwhelming documentary evidence."

Guzik is free on $50,000 bond pending his attempts to get a new trial and a probable appeal. His brother, Sam, is under indictment on income tax evasion charges and will be tried soon, although State Representative Lawrence C. O'Brien is expected to be the next defendant on trial for violation of the income tax law.

Members of the jury refused to divulge the number of ballots taken, but indications were that considerable argument was necessary to arrive at a verdict. At 8 p. m. the jurors called for food and a bailiff delivered them sandwiches, coffee and pie after a careful inspection to avoid a possible message.

Milwaukee Av. Viaduct Over Tracks to Be Wider

Authorization was granted by the Illinois commerce commission yesterday for the widening of the overhead grade separation at Milwaukee avenue [State road 21] and the Chicago and North Western railroad tracks two miles west of the village of Glenview. The Cook county board has let contracts for the improvement, which will permit four traffic lanes on the viaduct across the railway tracks instead of two.

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 19.—(AP)—Booth Tarkington, novelist, who has been undergoing treatment since Aug. 26 at the Wilmer Eye institute of Johns Hopkins hospital here, has returned to his home in Indiana, it became known today. During the time he was at the institute several operations were performed to improve the failing sight of his right eye.

Youth Saved by Coast Guard as Canoe Upsets

William H. Townsend, 19 years old, a sailor from the U. S. training ship Wilmette, was saved from drowning by Capt. John O. Anderson and his crew from central coast guard station yesterday when his canoe capsized off Randolph street. The overturned canoe was seen by the lookout at the coast guard station who called Capt. Anderson.

RECORD SHOWS U. S. TAX LAW EFFECTIVE IN WAR ON RACKETS

The government's campaign against income tax dodging politicians, hoodlums, and contractors, instituted two years ago by United States Attorney George E. Q. Johnson, has resulted in the following indictments, the first three defendants having been tried and convicted:

County Assessor Gene G. Oliver, sentenced to eighteen months in the penitentiary and fined $12,500.

Ralph J. Capone, brother of Alphonse, sentenced to three years and fined $10,000.

Frank Nitti, reputed treasurer of the Capone gang.

Thomas P., Raymond R., and John J. Dowdle, contractors, who allegedly received $4,000,000 worth of contracts from the sanitary district under the regime of Timothy J. Crowe.

$55,725 IN REWARDS.

FALLING LADDER STARTS STORY OF M'BRIDE ATTACK

A reported second attempt Tuesday night at the Westlake hospital in Melrose Park on the life of Sergt. James McBride, the state's chief witness against "Three Fingered" Jack White in his pending murder trial, was disclosed yesterday as without basis in fact.

Investigation by Detectives Joseph Keating and William Nihill of the state's attorney's office showed that what was imagined to be gunmen walking about a roof, was merely a stepladder falling down. It had been placed against a window by the janitor and the wind blew it over.

Ship Blocks North Branch of River for 12 Hours

After blocking the north branch of the river at its junction with the main channel for twelve hours the steel freighter Sweden of Oswego was freed early yesterday. The release of the vessel was accomplished with the assistance of three tugs after the current into the south branch had been abated by closing the locks at Lockport. The boat, owned by the Great Lakes Steamship company, is 414 feet long and was loaded with 4,700 tons of coal.

BARKER SHIFTED TO JOLIET CELL BY COURT ORDER

Judge David Admits State Prosecutors Capable.

CRIMINAL COURT.

Dominick Landando, Frank Ianno, Dan Mancine, conspiracy, sentenced to 1 to Mancine, conspiracy, sentenced to 1 to 5 years each in the penitentiary by Judge Philip Finnegan.

George [Red] Barker, until recently one of the leading labor racketeers, was transferred from Pontiac reformatory to the penitentiary at Joliet yesterday on order of Chief Justice John P. McGoorty of the Criminal court. The order was issued as a result of a petition filed by Rodney Brandon, superintendent of the state department of public welfare, alleging that Barker had long since passed the reformatory age limit of 26 years. Barker is 34 years old.

Barker, who appeared before Chief Justice McGoorty, expressed his displeasure at being sent to an institution, where he may be put to work in a stone quarry or a factory. At Pontiac he was rated as a class A prisoner and assigned to kitchen duty in the officers' division.

"You are prejudiced against me. That's the only reason you're sending me to Joliet," said Barker. Under his breath he was reported to have referred to the judge in uncomplimentary terms.

Judge David and Swanson.

While Chief Justice McGoorty was thus getting rid of one public enemy, Judge Joseph B. David of the Criminal court was telling the grand jurors that he was in no way hindering the work of the authorities. Along with the grand jurors, Judge David had summoned State's Attorney Swanson. Before the proceeding ended the judge admitted to the prosecutor that Mr. Swanson's assistants are capable and doing their duty.

Judge David told the prosecutor and jurors, that he had called them in because of an editorial appearing in THE TRIBUNE, but the judge did not name the paper.

"In a morning newspaper editorial this morning, I was quoted as saying that the state's attorney's office was not coöperating with the courts, and I was challenged to give my reasons," said Judge David in opening the proceedings. "In the last two months, I say that the state's attorney has not been coöperating with me."

Maddox Case Discussed.

The judge then said that indictments were returned in cases which should have been disposed of in the Felony court. He said that the state's attorney's office had refused to accept his offer to act as an examining magistrate to hear the case of Claude Maddox, gangster, who is charged with an assault to kill Sergt. James McBride of the Bellwood police.

In the Maddox case Magistrate George F. Lee of Maywood held the gangsters in $100,000 bonds after Judge David had released him on a lowered bond. The grand jurors called Magistrate Lee before them yesterday as Judge David had ordered them to do. The jurors, it was reported, were satisfied with Magistrate Lee's handling of the Maddox case.

Judge David spent some time criticizing the Felony court for not disposing of minor cases. Assistant State's Attorney Abe Marovitz said that the grand jury, if it wished, could petition Chief Justice Olson of the Municipal court to send another judge to the Felony court to replace Judge John H. Lyle.

State's Attorney Swanson at this point asked Judge David if he had any complaint to make against Prosecutor Marovitz, who is assigned to Judge David's court. The judge said he had no complaint against Marovitz or against Prosecutor Frank Mast in the Felony court. The grand jurors said Prosecutor Edwin . Spiro, who conducts the cases before them, was competent.

"We have had many cases where we thought a conviction was justified, but your honor thought otherwise," continued State's Attorney Swanson. "I suppose your honor makes mistakes at times. We have had many cases in which, if they had been in another court, we feel that we could have obtained convictions."

Judge David denied that he had used the word "ballyhoo" in describing the vagrancy drive against the public enemies. Later he admitted using the word ballyhoo, but said it did not apply to the vagrancy drive and that he would be glad if all gangsters were in jail.

LAW ENFORCERS OF CHICAGO DISTRICT TO ORGANIZE TODAY

Representatives of nearly every law enforcement agency within 50 miles of Chicago's loop will meet at the University of Chicago this morning to perfect an organization to combat organized crime.

The 115 city, township, county, state, and federal officials will include 45 police chiefs from Racine, to the Michigan state line.

The meeting will be the first of its kind in the United States, according to August Vollmer, professor of police administration at the university, and the first active recognition of the fact that crime is no longer a local problem.

Acting Police Commissioner Alcock, Frank J. Loesch, president of the crime commission, and Chief Justice Olson of the Municipal court will be among the speakers.

MAXIE EISEN IS SEIZED; CHARGED WITH VAGRANCY

Maxie Eisen, dean of Chicago racketeers and boss of the Fish Peddlers union, was in a cell at the detective bureau for several hours last night charged with vagrancy in a warrant issued by Judge John J. Lyle. At midnight he gained his release on a $5,000 bond approved by Judge Harry Hamlin.

His trouble started when a car belonging to him was reported lost. Joseph Skirus, 1406 South 49th avenue, Cicero, made the report and described himself as the car's owner. However, when Sergt. John E. Doherty recovered the car yesterday at 24th street and California avenue, he conducted an investigation and found it really belonged to Eisen. He telephoned to him that he could have the car if he called at the detective bureau.

Eisen put in an appearance yesterday and was immediately arrested on a charge of disorderly conduct. He obtained his release on that charge, but just as he was preparing to leave the bureau he was served with the vagrancy warrant.

HOLD UP HOTEL WITH SHOTGUN.

Two men armed with sawed off shotguns entered the lobby of the Harper Plaza hotel, 5129 Harper avenue, early yesterday and after forcing the night clerk, C. H. Reins, to open the cash box, fled with $36.

CAPTAINS TELL JURY PINOCHLE IS THEIR WORK

'Siberia Detail' Testifies at Police Inquiry.

Three police captains told the grand jury yesterday they have no duties to perform, they are without commands, and their nearest contact with crooks is through eight knaves of the deck with which they have eight hours of pinochle every day. They are of the "Siberia detail" and they were questioned by the grand jurors as part of the investigation of the police department which is under way.

Four of the jurors visited the abandoned and unheated North Halsted street police station for a personal inspection. The six captains who report there every day, and the sergeant who acts as timekeeper over them, as well as two other captains who are "on the bench" at the first deputy's office downtown were subpenaed to appear and tell the reason for their inactivity.

Report Applause for Stege.

Capt. John Stege, former deputy commissioner in charge of the detective division, was the first witness and as he emerged from the grand jury room the sound of hand clapping could be heard. It was later said he was applauded for his testimony. Capt. Charles Larkin, formerly a chief of detectives, and Capt. John Ryan, recently removed from his office as deputy chief of detectives, followed Stege. Capts. Richard Gill, William Kennedy and Albert Christenson were told to return today. Capt. Daniel Gilbert and Joseph Johnson of the first deputy's office, did not appear, Gilbert being on furlough and Johnson sick.

Assistant State's Attorney Charles J. Mueller, who was put in charge of the secret investigation that followed the jury's calling of Col. Henry Barrett Chamberlin, operating director of the Chicago Crime commission, said Acting Police Commissioner Alcock will be summoned Friday to tell why the captains are given no work to do. Alcock is also to be asked, according to Mueller, about the transfer of six members of a Warren avenue raiding squad who told of being threatened by a gambler and a politician.

Unable to Find Lieut. Kelly.

The jury sent for Lieut. John Kelly yesterday in some connection with the testimony he had given the day before that Alcock had ordered him to make a report about the raiding of the gambling house. Prosecutor Mueller said Kelly could not be found nor could his whereabouts be learned.

Capt. Stege said he had been questioned about crime conditions in Chicago and he had offered several suggestions, but beyond this statement he would not divulge what transpired in the grand jury room. Policies he had put in effect at the detective bureau have been discontinued, he was reminded and he nodded assent when asked if he had been asked about them.

Capt. Ryan was asked about the "missing list scandal" of the detective bureau and his statement was reported to be that he knew nothing of the disappearance from his office of a list of hoodlums for whom warrants were to be obtained—a list that later was found in the possession of a Capone gangster. His record was given to the grand jurors, five pay raises for meritorious service and 30 creditable mentions.

Outside the grand jury room Prosecutor Mueller asked if Capt. Ryan had not been under consideration for the position of commissioner of police at the time of the disappearance of the list. It was understood the answer was "yes."

Larkin Veteran of Bureau.

It was reported the jury questioned Capt. Larkin about methods of supervising the work of the detective bureau. He is a veteran of the department and for years was intrusted with presenting to the legislature all matters pertaining to the Chicago police force and its pension funds, but he said he was asked nothing about that service.

Some questions were reported to have been asked about rumors that cash payments were required for promotions in the police service. The jurors were informed that one member of the civil service commission is now under indictment, A. J. Carey, colored bishop.

Opinions expressed at the Criminal court building were that the present grand jury may recommend a further investigation of the police department by the December grand jury or by a special jury, although this jury may take some action itself. The jurors are said to be greatly interested in the manner in which the department is organized to combat a wave of crime and to cope with gangsters and that they expect to render an opinion as to the department's efficiency.

ACQUIT BATTAGLIA, ACCUSED IN HOLDUP OF MAYOR'S WIFE

Sam Battaglia, who was accused by the police of being one of the men who robbed Mayor Thompson's wife, was acquitted on the first ballot yesterday by a jury in Judge Peter Schwaba's Criminal court. Mrs. Thompson failed to appear as a witness.

Although Mrs. Thompson was robbed of $18,000 worth of jewelry, the indictment on which Battaglia was tried charged him only with the robbery of Policeman Peter J. O'Malley, Thompson's chauffeur. It was reported at the time that the policeman had first said he could not identify Battaglia, but Commissioner Alcock said he had made an identification. Attorney Julius Resnick for the defense charged that O'Malley was coerced by the commissioner in making the identification.

INJURED BOY SCOUT WILL BE HOOVER GUEST

San Francisco, Cal., Nov. 19.—(AP)—Tommy Watson, 13 year old Boy Scout, can never play football for Stanford university, but he is going to live in the home of the President of the United States on the Stanford campus.

Tommy, brother of Mrs. Herbert Hoover Jr., was injured in a street car accident a week ago. His dreams of being a Stanford football star were shattered when a leg was amputated.

Today Mrs. Douglas Watson, Tommy's mother, received a long distance call from the White House inviting Tommy to live in President Hoover's Stanford home until he recovers.

SHOPS ABOUT FOR CHEAP FUNERAL, THEN ENDS LIFE

After hunting funeral bargains for several weeks Dr. Isadore White, 38 years old, a dentist, committed suicide last night at his home, 2556 West Division street, by shooting himself in the head. Lieut. Patrick O'Connell of the West North Avenue police found that White had planned his death carefully. Indications were that he had used a looking glass to make sure of his aim, sat down in a chair, and fired. The bullet entered the right temple, passed through the left temple, and shot out a window.

Letters left to the widow, Mrs. Lillian White, told of the contemplated act and revealed that for weeks White had been consulting undertakers on prices, viewing chapel services, and getting pointers on funeral technique.

In one of the letters he requested that not more than $150 be spent on his funeral, that the rabbi be dispensed with, and suggested that any other precautions might be taken to save money.

White was a former dental surgeon in the army with a rank of major. Surviving the dead man, besides his widow, are a daughter, Caryolyn, 8 years old, and a boy, Sherwin, 8 months old.

TWO MEN AND GIRL KILLED IN CRASH OF PLANE

Burbank, Cal., Nov. 19.—(AP)—Officials of Pacific Air Transport, whose night mail plane had been missing since Monday midnight with two men and a young woman aboard, announced late today all three had been killed in the crash of the plane on a rolling hillside seven miles east of the Ridge route highway in the Tehachapi mountains.

Company officials said searching aviators reported they had seen the bodies of the three near the wrecked Boeing biplane. They added that the ship's 319 pounds of mail was intact, as the plane had not burned. The victims were Miss Jean Markow, 18, of Los Angeles, lone passenger on the night flight; Pilot F. A. Donaldson, and Mechanic George Rogers.

The scene of the tragedy, slightly off the mail plane's usual course, was eight miles beyond the northern rim of Antelope valley, into which Donaldson apparently had attempted to head for safety. Tejon airport, an emergency air field, lies in the valley not far from where the plane crashed.

ENDS LIFE WITH GAS.

Michael Shields, 50 years old, 4810 North avenue, an insurance salesman, committed suicide yesterday by turning on all the gas jets in the kitchen range in his home.

3 BYSTANDERS SHOT IN BATTLE WITH A BANDIT

Three bystanders were wounded in a gun battle early this morning between a bandit, attempting a holdup, and Earl Danielson, owner of the South Town garage, 1315 West 63d street. The injured men are Glenn Neilsen, 23, 7217 Stewart avenue, shot in both legs and left hand; William Fitzgerald, 47, of 4201 South Union street, shot in the left leg and right hand, and Clarence Lozeau, 23, of 1533 West 77th street, shot in the back. All are employés of the garage.

As the bandit walked into the garage he poked a gun in Danielson's face and said, "This is a stickup." Danielson, a holdup victim twice last week, recognized the robber as the same man who had held him up before. He grabbed a revolver and opened fire, the bandit returning his volleys. The aim of both was poor, and after the three bystanders had dropped, one by one, the bandit fled.

Police are hunting Edward Nolan, 6041 South Elizabeth street, as the robber and believe he is responsible for a holdup earlier in the night at the Forskamp garage, 1250 West 59th street. He has been sought for a month for south side robberies.

No. 10 Feet Are a Clew to Shoe Store Robbers

After Frank Santell, clerk in the A. J. Krom Shoe store at 1603 West Madison street, had fitted a customer with a pair of No. 10 shoes last night the customer's companion drew a pistol, tied Santell to a chair in a rear room, and took $111 from the cash drawer.

BRITISH NOBLE GOES BANKRUPT; OWES $2,000,000

Reveal Premier Marquess in Grip of Usurers.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 19.—The marquess of Winchester, Henry William Montagu Paulet, whose ancient title graced the directorships of several of Clarence Hatry's mushroom companies, has gone busted to the tune of $2,000,000, his official receiver told creditors today. The marquess holds the oldest title of his rank in England. It was created in 1551.

MARQUESS OF WINCHESTER.

The premier marquess of the realm is in the clutches of professional money lenders for $100,000, which is but a small part of the total liabilities of $2,013,910. He has only approximately $4,000 in negotiable assets.

Owes Tradesmen $5,000.

The 68 year old marquess, who is living in a French chateau near the Somme, is up to his neck in financial troubles. Besides his debts to money lenders, he owes tradesmen $5,000. His estate, in which he had only a life interest, is mortgaged to the hilt.

He has no free assets with the exception of 500 shares in a company, valued at $5 each, and an automobile worth probably $1,500. The landlord in possession of his London house has had all his furniture moved out, although there is a wine cellar giving the marquess access to a rare stock of vintage wines and Havana cigars which the lawyers suggest the creditors might share to improve their spirits after their losses.

Lost in Financial Crash.

The marquess' statement to his creditors revealed that he became associated in a financial way with the Hatry interests in 1926 at the time Clarence Hatry was building up his operations which finally led to a sensational collapse on Sept. 19, 1929, for between $100,000,000 and $150,000,000. Hatry is now serving 14 years in prison. The marquess was elected director in four Hatry companies and drew $40,000 in fees each year.

The aged peer has informed the receiver that his present difficulties are due to raising large sums of money on shares of Hatry stock which are now and always will be valueless. Securities given him by Hatry are claimed by third parties which are now suing for between $1,000,000 and $1,500,000. Besides this he said he had speculated and is liable for $375,000.

NEGRO MARATHON DANCE IS ENDED; RENT NOT PAID

The all colored marathon dance in the north hall of the Coliseum was halted in its 456th hour at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon. H. B. Hall, secretary of the building, made the announcement that the contest was over because Henry C. Miller, promoter, 1646 Albion avenue, had failed to pay hall rent. Twenty-two couples were still on the floor when the contest ended.

Every part of boys' clothes gets hard wear, so every part must be husky enough to resist it. Just reinforcing here and there isn't enough.

Therefore, the boys' clothes Rogers Peet makes are hand-sewn throughout; every seam, buttonhole and pocket is made as strong as every other one, and that's as strong as can be.

Added to which are the sturdy all-wool fabrics they use. Naturally, R. P. clothes for boys give exceptional service. Yet prices are no higher.

HOOVER SPEAKS AS PRESIDENT; AND A FATHER

Child Health Delegations Are Welcomed.

BY GENEVIEVE FORBES HERRICK.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 19.—[Special.]—Herbert Hoover, parent and President, happily combined these two important jobs tonight when he stood up in Constitution hall and welcomed the 3,000 delegates and associates to the White House conference on child health and protection.

As the grandfather of three lively youngsters on their way to spend Christmas with him, he softened the statistics of research with these words:

"We approach all problems of childhood with affection."

As the chief executive of the United States he stiffened the gentleness of the child into the vigor of a governmental factor when he urged:

"If we could have but one generation of properly born, trained, educated and healthy children,a thousand other problems of government would vanish."

Scoffers Are Rebuked.

Then, rebuking the scoffer who might charge that the tonsils and the teeth, the manners and the morals of a mere child are impudent intrusions on government, he said soberly:

"Let no one believe that these are questions which should not stir a nation; that they are below the dignity of statesmen or governments."

The welfare of the child, a pertinent concern in any country, is particularly appropriate in this country, he feels, and for this reason:

"The passion of the American fathers and mothers is to lift children to higher opportunities than they have themselves enjoyed. It burns like a flame in us as a people. Kindled in our country by its first pioneers, who came here to better the opportunities for their children rather than themselves, passed on from one generation to the next, it has never dimmed nor died.

Speech Reveals the Man.

Affectionate, earnest, this speech tonight stands out as one of the most humanly revealing addresses the President has ever made, as well as one of the most felicitously phrased. Untouched by the shadow of any political blue pencil, the words are autobiographical of the man in the White House.

The audience consisted of experts: Doctors, lawyers, social workers, and educators. But until the President and Mrs. Hoover took their places on the platform it seemed to consist of two factors: Mr. and Mrs. Charles Augustus Lindbergh in box No. 3 and all the Boy Scout ushers grouped admiringly around that box.

Then the President appeared. Secretary of the Interior Ray Lyman Wilbur, who is chairman of the conference, introduced him as "the wise friend of the children of America," and everybody turned their gaze away from box 3, everybody but the Boy Scouts.

Health Workers Praised.

Reviewing the work of more than a year, in which these "skillful and devoted friends of children" have given their time and talent to research, the President said:

"I wish to express my profound appreciation to all those who have so generously contributed the time and thought and labor to this preparation. The reward that accrues to you is the consciousness of something done unselfishly to lighten the burdens of children, to set their feet upon surer paths to health and well-being and happiness.'

Presently his voice lifted and lightened as he paid his tribute to children:

"Theirs is the province of joy and good humor. They are the most wholesome part of the race. Whimsical, ingenious, mischievous, we live a life of apprehension as to what their opinion may be of us; a life of defense against their terrifying energy." And, over the laughter, softly, "We put them to bed with a sense of relief and a lingering of devotion.

Fear for Disappointments.

"We envy them the freshness of adventure and discovery of life; we mourn over the disappointments they will meet."

Conferences and charts are to help, not supplant, the mother. The President made that point very clear.

"After we have determined every scientific fact, after we have erected every public safeguard, after we have constructed every edifice for education or training or hospitalization or play yet all these things are but a tithe of the physical, moral and spiritual gifts which motherhood gives and home confers.

"None of these things carry that affection, that devotion of soul, which is the great endowment from mothers. Our purpose here today is to consider and give our mite of help to strengthen her hand that her boy and girl may have a fair chance."

U. S. Mothers Competent.

He paused; then went on with conviction.

"Our country has a vast majority of competent mothers."

Another pause, a glint of amusement in his eye and this:

"I am not so sure of the majority of competent fathers."

Efficient as the modern mother is, she needs the help which science can give her. For instance:

"She cannot count the bacteria in the milk; she cannot detect the typhoid which comes through the faucet, or the mumps that pass around the playground. She cannot individually control the instruction of our schools or the setting up of community-wide remedy for the deficient and handicapped child. But she can insist upon officials who hold up standards of protection and service to her children—and one of your jobs is to define these standards and tell her what they are. She can be trusted to put public officials to the acid test of the infant mortality and service to children in the town—when you set some standard for her to go by."

The general consideration of the conference, as the President outlined it, is triple: Protection and stimulation of the normal child, aid to the physically defective and handicapped child, and the problems of the delinquent child. Of the 45,000,000 children, our own and our neighbors' with 000 "reasonably normal, cheerful human electrons radiating joy and mischief and hope and faith. Their faces are turned toward the light—theirs is the life of great adventure. These are the vivid, romping, every day children ,our own and our neighbors' with all their strongly marked differences; and the more differences the better. The more they charge us with their separate problems, the more we know they are vitally and humanly alive.

"From what we know of foreign countries, I am convinced that we have a right to assume that we have a larger proportion of happy, normal children than any other country in the world. And, also, on the bright side, your reports show that we have 1,500,000 specially gifted children. There lies the future leadership of the nation, if we devote ourselves to their guidance."

Keynote Sentences Given.

Here are some of the keynote sentences of Mr. Hoover's reflections on the underprivileged, underendowed children of America.

"And these children, less fortunate as they are, have a passion for their full rights which appeals to the heart of every man and woman."

"Moreover, one good community nurse will save a dozen future policemen."

"The ill nourished child is in our country not the product of poverty; it is largely the product of ill instructed children and ignorant parents."

"Delinquency increases with congestion."

"Cheerless homes produce morbid minds."

"Our growth of town life unendingly imposes such problems as milk and food supplies, for we have shifted these children from a diet of ten thousand years' standing."

"Architectural wizardry and artistic skill are transforming our cities into wonderlands of beauty, but we must also preserve in them for our children the yet more beautiful art of living."

Problems Summed Up.

Summing up the many sided problems of the 1930 child, and making them dovetail with the many sided researches of this 1930 conference, the first of its kind, President Hoover said:

"In the vision of the whole of our social fabric, we have loosened new ambitions, new energies; we have produced a complexity of life for which there is no precedent. With machines ever enlarging man's power and capacity, with electricity extending over the world its magic, with the air giving us a wholly new realm, our children must be prepared to meet entirely new contacts and new forces. They must be physically strong and mentally placed to stand up under the increasing pressure of life.

"These are a part of the problems that I charge you to answer. This task that you have come here to perform has never been done before. These problems are not easily answered, they reach the very root of our national life."

TRIBUNE EMPLOYES' CO-OP BANK WILL DISTRIBUTE $162,000

Nearly 1,500 employés of THE TRIBUNE will share in the distribution of $162,000 by the Dearborn Mutual Benefit association at the annual disbursement of the employés' coöperative benefit fund next Monday. The amount to be distributed is the largest in the more than 20 years' history of the association, and the number of employé members participating also is greater than ever before.

The association is an organization consisting solely of employés of THE TRIBUNE, having its own officers and board of directors among the workers in the various departments of the newspaper. It is in the nature of a coöperative bank and Christmas savings club, operating for 50 weeks each year. A short time before Christmas each year the association's funds are distributed among the members and two weeks later a new fund is started for the next year. All employés are eligible to join and are permitted to make weekly deposits in any amount from 25 cents to $2.50. This year the average amount paid out to each member exceeds $110.

Ah! Steaming, fragrant coffee! free from the thing that so often caused regret! > >

ARE you one of the millions who love coffee, but have had to pass it by? Have you had to deny yourself coffee's tempting fragrance and satisfying flavor just because coffee contains caffein?

If so, then rejoice. For now you can enjoy delicious coffee from which 97% of the caffein has been removed. Drink Sanka Coffee. From it is gone all fear of sleepless nights—of jumpy nerves—of indigestion. But in it remains all of coffee's old-time goodness.

That "second cup" flavor!

Sanka Coffee is real coffee. Nothing is added—only caffein is removed. You make it as you've always made coffee. A blend of the choicest beans from Central and South America, Sanka Coffee is as rich in flavor, as fragrant in aroma, as any coffee you ever tasted. Coffee experts recognize that no other blend is finer in quality or flavor.

Thousands of physicians here and abroad endorse Sanka Coffee wholeheartedly. Your grocer carries it—ground or in the bean—in pound vacuum cans that preserve its freshness and its fragrance. He sells it with this guarantee: "If, after a thorough trial, you are not fully satisfied, simply return what's left and we'll cheerfully refund the full purchase price." To enjoy all of coffee's delights—with none of caffein's penalties, get a pound of Sanka Coffee to-day!

MAKE THE NIGHT-TEST! . . .

The first time you try Sanka Coffee drink it at night. It won't keep you awake. Next morning you'll know, from actual experience, that you've discovered a delicious coffee that you can enjoy morning, noon and night—without regret!

Second Victim of Bridge Crash Succumbs.

The young woman companion of William H. Severin, an attorney, who was killed early yesterday when he drove an automobile into an upright on the State street bridge, died yesterday at the Passavant hospital.

She was Mrs. Gladys Mitchell Coleman, a manicurist living at the Maryland hotel, 900 Rush street, and was separated from her husband.

Severin, who was 38 years old and lived at 805 Clinton place, Evanston, was married and the father of two children. He was a partner in the law firm of Siebel & Severin at 1 North La Salle street. Mrs. Coleman was employed in the same building.

Borrowed Car Delays Identification.

Identification of the victims was delayed when police found that the license plates on the car had been issued to F. D. Kuchenbecker, president of the Asbestos and Magnesia Materials company. Kuchenbecker told police he had loaned the car to Severin.

Two witnesses testified at the inquest yesterday that Severin started across the bridge at high speed and that he was driving with one hand and that the other arm was around Mrs. Coleman.

Widow Is Ill.

Severin was dead when removed from the wreckage and Mrs. Coleman was so badly injured that she never regained consciousness. Severin's widow, whose mother died only three days ago, is ill.

These deaths and four others raised the Cook county motor toll for the year to 968. The victims:

Frank Hoey, 63 years old, 3229 Warren avenue, a clerk. Died of a fractured skull received on Nov. 12 when struck by the auto of Bernard Lipin, 3627 Lexington street, at Madison street and Central Park avenue.

Joseph C. Mudroff, 45 years old, of Techny, Ill. Died at the Highland Park hospital of injuries received on Monday in an accident in which Henry Carlson of Glenview was also fatally injured.

Edward Fitzgerald, 70 years old, 2724 West 39th place. Died at the County hospital of injuries received on Tuesday when struck by a hit and run motorist at 39th place and Archer avenue.

SHOT TO DEATH DURING QUARREL AT DRINK PARLOR

A man believed by the police to be James Mulloy, 4021 North Whipple street, owner of a tombstone cutting plant, was shot to death last night in a soft drink establishment at 3243 North Western avenue. Rudolph Sachs, the proprietor, surrendered to the police, saying he had shot Mulloy in self-defense because Mulloy was intoxicated and abusive.

His story was supported by Louis Goldstine, taxicab chauffeur of 3743 Argyle street. Goldstine told of receiving a call for a cab at 4509 North Keeler avenue. Arrived there, Mulloy got in and told him to drive to Sachs' place.

Mulloy refused to pay him, Goldstine said, and he followed him into Sachs'. There Mulloy started pushing him around, he said, and Sachs remonstrated with him. Goldstine called the North Damen avenue police. Sergt Joseph P. Haller responded. In the meantime the shooting had occurred. Sachs was waiting to surrender when Sergt. Haller arrived.

$600,000 Express Terminal to Be Started at Once

President F. E. Williamson of the Burlington railroad announced yesterday that work will be started immediately on the new express terminal at Roosevelt road and Canal street for use of the Railway Express agency, which is operated by the railroads. This project involves the expenditure of $600,000 and probably will be completed by the middle of March.

Kills 150 Pound Buck with Bow and Arrow

Duluth, Minn., Nov. 19.—(AP)—Charles E. Brown, St. Louis county deputy sherff, today returned from Lake Kabetogema, where he killed a 150 pound buck deer with a bow and arrow. Brown is the first of a dozen Duluth men who entered the north woods to hunt deer with bow and arrows to report a kill.

18 DIE, 100 HURT WHEN TORNADO RIPS INTO TOWN

School Building Razed; 4 Pupils Killed.

BULLETIN.

Ola, Ark., Nov. 19.—(AP)—A storm of tornado proportions tonight caused the death of a city official and injury to several other persons. Half the business buildings in this town of nearly 1,000 inhabitants were destroyed.

Oklahoma City, Okla., Nov. 19.—(AP)—A tornado cut a swath of death and destruction today through the little church colony of Bethany, seven miles west of here.

Eighteen persons were killed. At least 100 persons were injured.

More than 200 buildings were destroyed.

Striking during a heavy rainstorm, the tornado leveled a 200 yard wide path through the eastern edge of the town, burying many persons in the splintered wreckage of their homes.

All ambulances in Oklahoma City were rushed to the scene and the dead and injured were brought to city morgues and hospitals. Red Cross and Salvation Army workers rendered first aid.

Guardsmen at Scene.

Five companies of Oklahoma National Guardsmen went into the area after the storm had cleared to protect the scattered valuables from vandals.

Dropping first a few miles south of Bethany, the twisting funnel of death wrecked the Camel Creek schoolhouse, killing four pupils and injuring the teacher and ten other children.

Floyd Roettger, 12, one of the pupils, described how Miss Mary Proctor, the teacher, attempted to save the children and how he himself called an ambulance and removed two dead from the ruins.

"It kept getting darker all the time," he related. "I was looking out the window. Soon I heard a loud noise. I shouted:

"'Here it comes!'

Crashes on Pupils.

"The kids screamed. Miss Proctor told us to be quiet and all to fall to the floor. Every one did. But before we were all down, it seemed the school was sliding. Then all of a sudden it crashed.

"The next thing I remember was a man telling me to call an ambulance. When I got back I carried Delbert Sharp to the Zorline house. I knew he was dead. Then I found Marguerite Zorline, also dead, and carried her to her mother."

The tornado whipped on north, through the eastern side of Bethany, state headquarters of the Nazarene church and home of Bethany Peniel college, a denominational school.

Like a gigantic scythe, the storm cut a sharply defined swath through a residential section, reducing frame houses to splinters and toppling brick buildings like toy block houses. Most of those killed were here.

There were many stories of heroism.

The first organized relief unit to attack the wreckage was the football team of the nearby Putnam Consolidated school. Two members of this group alone carried eight dead from the wrecked homes.

Yates Hoover, an ambulance driver, found the body of his father where their home once stood. Unable to find his mother, he removed his father to the morgue and then rushed back in search for her.

When Mrs. W. L. Burton saw the storm approaching, she caught her baby in her arms and sheltered it as the house collapsed. Her husband found her, shivering in the rain, the child still clutched in protection. The baby escaped with minor scratches, but Mrs. Burton was badly lacerated.

Sixteen Children Injured.

Hays, Kas., Nov. 19.—(AP)—Sixteen school children were injured, none dangerously, by a tornado which demolished a rural schoolhouse 14 miles northeast of here today.

TEN DROWN, THIRTY MISSING AS FLOOD SWEEPS HONOLULU

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HONOLULU, Nov. 19.—A cloudburst in the mountains 2,000 feet above Honolulu last night caused a sudden flood which washed away houses and destroyed roads and bridges.

Ten bodies were recovered today and 30 are reported missing in the north section of Honolulu. A preliminary estimate of property losses in Honolulu totals $150,000. King and Queen streets were blocked with wreckage.

Most of the drowned are orientals. Others were Hawaiians and Portuguese. Many children are among the missing. They were carried away by the flood before mothers had a chance to rescue them. Officers and navy yard workers abandoned hundreds of automobiles between Pearl Harbor and Honolulu.

Flood Wrecks Persian Town.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TEHERAN, Persia, Nov. 19.—Floods from a heavy hailstorm destroyed the greater part of Khurramabad, the chief town of Luristan province. Most of the inhabitants escaped, but heavy losses were reported in live stock. Many families are homeless and without food.

SUITOR STOLEN BY MRS. GRADY, EX-FRIEND SAYS

Woman Tells of How She Introduced Pair.

The divorce case of Grady vs. Grady proceeded yesterday. A witness was the woman who introduced Mrs. Eileen Grady to Robert Robinson, with whom Mrs. Grady was trailed and spied upon by her husband, Thomas J. Grady, while he was disguised in long mustachios. Allying herself with the complaining husband, the woman claimed that she was jilted by Robinson because of Mrs. Grady's charms. The hearing will continue today before Judge Marcus Kavanagh.

Mrs. Grady, a plump, middle aged woman with graying hair, impassively viewed the witness, Mrs. Marie Van Ornum of Crystal Falls, Mich., as the latter identified Mrs. Grady's handwriting in two letters addressed to Robinson at 1622 Pratt boulevard, Chicago. She testified that she and Mrs. Grady were the best of friends and that she stayed at Mrs. Grady's home often until the letters were shown to her by an employé of Mr. Grady.

Tells of Introduction.

Last April, she said, she was with Mrs. Grady and Robinson. "Mrs. Grady, meet my friend, Mr. Robinson," she said, according to her testimony. At that time, she said, she saw Mr. Robinson two or three times a week.

"And what was the object of that?" Grady's attorney, Edwin Hamilton, asked.

"We were keeping company with each other," she replied, compressing her lips.

In cross-examination, John E. Crahen, Mrs. Grady's counsel, asked:

"After you saw the leteters you had a change of heart toward Mrs. Grady?"

"Why, naturally," she said, explaining that she and Robinson had intended to be married. She said she had not seen him since.

Letters Read in Court.

The letters were written from Kuntz Lake by Mrs. Grady. The first contained the statement, "I think of you all the time," and:

"I only wish you were here. We would have some grand times. . . . Be a good boy until I see you and don't do anything I wouldn't do." The attorney, reading the letter, raised his voice to quote the close:

"With 'dash,'" he said, "Eileen."

A second letter read: "Thanks for the package. Bob, it was certainly beyond my expectations. . . . I am counting the days until I see you. The swimming is great. . . . I have learned to be very brave.'"

Thomas Rogers, a painter, 1435 Devon avenue, was the next witness.

"What were you doing on April 5, 1929?" Attorney Hamilton asked him.

"I was painting the windows at 6334 North Francisco avenue, as Mr. Grady told me to do," he said.

He asserted that when he rapped on the window and asked that it be opened so that he could paint the sash, Mrs. Grady, attired in nightclothes, came out of a bedroom to open it. A little later, he said, a man he knew by the name of William C. Wentzel emerged from the same room.

"How was he dressed?" asked the counsel for Grady.

"In underclothes," murmured Rogers.

Bernard J. Shanley, an employé of Grady, who is a real estate operator, and who, with Grady, donned false whiskers and trailed Mrs. Grady on many occasions, also testified. The defense attorney asked him:

"Did you observe her with the naked eye?"

"No, with field glasses," Shanley said sternly.

At that juncture in the court proceedings Grady, who is tall and blonde, took out a pair of sweeping black mustachios from his pocket and absent mindedly adjusted them to his upper lip.

There's No Open Season on Constables' Pet Roosters

Leo L. Riley, who farms a quarter section two and a half miles northwest of Barrington, and also is a township constable, was very fond of his Plymouth Rock rooster. He was admiring it yesterday afternoon as it sat on the fence crowing.

Unbeknown to Mr. Riley, others were also admiring it. They were Dr. Charles H. Eye, an eye specialist, of 4357 North Western avenue, and his friend, H. J. Schmelzer, jeweler, of 4749 North Linder avenue. They were in Dr. Eye's car on a hunting expedition for Thanksgiving dinner supplies.

It's His Swan Song.

The rooster was stretching his neck for a high C at the climax of his solo, when he suddenly wabbled, the crow died away in a squawk, and the rooster toppled off the fence. Simultaneously Constable Riley's ears were smitten by the loud bang of a shotgun. He ran to the fence, vaulted it, flung back his coat to display his star, and said:

"I arrest you for the unlawful shooting of domestic fowls, in the name of the law. That was my best rooster."

Constable Riley then looked in the back of Dr. Eye's car, discovering a cock pheasant and two plump turkey hens. The open season for pheasants closed last Saturday.

Turkey Mystery Solved, Too.

"Those turkeys look familiar, too," said Constable Riley, and telephoned to a neighboring farmer, M. C. Beymer. Yes, Mr. Beymer had just missed a couple. Whereupon Constable Riley escorted Dr. Eye and Mr. Schmelzer to the court of Justice of the Peace Harry L. Hammond at Barrington.

Each of the nimrods was fined $200 with costs of $11. They didn't have enough to pay the fines, so Dr. Eye left his car with Justice Hammond, remarking as he and Mr. Schmelzer started out to hitch hike to Chicago: "The Eyes have it—in the neck."

COMPLETE 95TH STREET PAVING; OPEN BY DEC. 10

The paving of 95th street between Yates and Cottage Grove avenues was finished yesterday and will be opened to automobile traffic by Dec. 10. Ald. William A. Rowan [10th] announced yesterday. The pavement, 20 feet wide, is the first to be laid in Chicago out of the gasoline tax fund. Another 20 foot strip will be laid in the spring.

DEATH IN CHAIR IS VERDICT FOR 2 CAFE KILLERS

Jury Convicts Bell and His Foe, Sullivan.

that the Patras murder was committed by Sullivan because the café manager had failed to make good on his promise to pay for the murder of Alfred Lingle, which, Bell declared, had been committed by Sullivan and two other men. In this confession Bell indicated that he had nothing to do with the slaying of Patras except that he was a companion of Sullivan.

The prosecution, however, said that Bell's story was a fabrication made up in order to escape responsibility for his share in the Patras murder. It was shown at the trial that the fatal bullets were fired from a revolver similar to that found on Bell when he was arrested. Bell confessed taking part in many robberies, but denied any participation in the murder.

Sullivan at the time of his arrest confessed the murder of Patras, but said that the motive was purely robbery. He was willing, he said, to plead guilty to the murder charge if assured that Bell would do the same and get the same punishment.

The men put in no defense because at the last minute the attorneys wrangled as to whether Bell or Sullivan should be given the first opportunity to testify before the jury. They could not agree and neither defendant testified.

"I wish to extend to this jury the thanks of the people of this community," said Prosecutor Butler after the verdict was read. "The speed with which the verdict was reached certainly is encouraging to the state's attorney's office. It shows that the citizens are beginning to enter wholeheartedly into the drive to get the crimials out of this community. This verdict, coming after the vagrancy conviction of James (Fur) Sammons, is certainly encouraging."

"At last I have obtained justice for my husband," said the widow of Patras as she congratulated the prosecutors.

A defense motion for a new trial will be argued on Dec. 6. The prosecution said it was ready to argue the motion at any time.

CONFESSES SHOOTING WIFE.

Raymond Frensel, 25 years old, a truck driver out of work, was held by the police yesterday when he confessed that he shot his wife, Mary, an expectant mother, in a struggle for a revolver in their home at 1902 Fullerton avenue. She was not seriously wounded.

Roosevelt Road Bridge Completed; Plan Parade

Completion of the Roosevelt road bridge over the new channel of the south branch of the river will be celebrated on Saturday by city officials with a parade. The parade will proceed down Clark street from Wacker drive to Roosevelt road, where a speakers' stand will be erected. The bridge over the new channel was started in 1927.

BOX CARS AFIRE FROM STOVE.

A stove in the caboose of a freight train, which backed into empty box cars yesterday near West 26th street and South Kostner avenue, fell apart and started a fire that partly destroyed the two cars.

UNCLE SAM HAS 100 MILLIONS IN WHEAT MARKET

Foresight or Folly? Time Will Tell.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUENOS AIRES, Nov. 19.—Yellow rust is responsible for the shrinkage of the Argentine wheat crop by 80,000,000 bushels, according to a ministry of agriculture report, published tonight.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 19.—[Special.]—With 104 million bushels of wheat already bought with government funds and the federal farm board contemplating further purchases if necessary, the experiment of attempting to peg the price of American farm products in the American market above the world price is progressing toward a crucial stage.

That the volume of wheat purchases under the auspices of the farm board has risen in the last few days to a total of 104 million bushels transpired today on the eve of the assembling of the agricultural sub-committee of the house appropriations committee to begin framing the agricultural appropriation bill for the next fiscal year. The question of additional appropriations to finance purchase of more wheat and to aid the co-operative marketing of farm products generally will come before this committee.

Legge Assured of Cash.

For several days Alexander Legge, chairman of the federal farm board, has been discussing with leaders in congress the question of substantial additional appropriations in support of the government effort to stabilize the price of wheat at home on a higher level than that of the world market. He has been assured of the appropriation of additional funds at the approaching session of congress.

When congress passed the federal farm board act it authorized the appropriation of 500 million dollars to be used to stabilize farm products prices. Of this amount 250 million dollars has been appropriated to date. Approximately 100 million dollars is actually or potentially invested in the 104 million bushels of wheat so far purchased at prices ranging from 75 cents to $1.25 a bushel. Nearly all of the remaining 150 million dollars has been devoted to the uses of a revolving fund for the aid of co-operative marketing.

Who'll Buy Wheat Hoard?

The fate of this great economic experiment depends upon the disposition that can be made of the surplus wheat the government is buying and withholding from the domestic market. The effect of these operations has been to keep the price of wheat on the American market from following the decline of the price on the world market.

This effect has created a favorable impression of the experiment. The sponsors of the surplus control plan are saying that the practicability of the scheme is being demonstrated.

The coarse grains advisory committee reported to the farm board today that it "strongly indorses the action of the grain stabilization corporation in re-entering the wheat market to prevent further declines in wheat prices, under the influence of foreign markets, to an extent unwarranted by domestic conditions. Declines in wheat prices have carried down prices of coarse grains. A check to this decline has been essential if coarse grain prices are to show the strength warranted by the feed shortage this year."

Who'll Pay the Piper?

Whether the government can continue to peg the price of wheat except at enormous cost to the taxpayers is the question the answer to which will determine the fate of the experiment.

The authors of the surplus control plan contemplated the sale of the surplus abroad at the world price. In that event, if the operation cost the taxpayers anything, it would be only the difference between the world price and the higher price at which the wheat was purchased on the American market. Now, however, it appears problematical whether any substantial amount of the surplus so far purchased for the government can be sold abroad.

Other countries are putting up the bars against American wheat in the form of anti-dumping legislation and decrees. Inquiries from London and other foreign capitals received by the state department indicate fears abroad that Mr. Legge intends to dump American wheat across the Atlantic at prices possibly below those prevailing on the world market.

Britain Apprehensive.

The British government is reported to be greatly exercised over the situation and inspiring intimations that it would never tolerate an operation that would be so disastrous to British wheat growers.

If Mr. Legge should be unable to sell his wheat surplus abroad he would be compelled to carry it over to the next crop. If the 1931 crop should fall materially short, either in America or in other wheat producing countries, a large part of the American surplus now in hand, or perhaps all of it, would be absorbed by the market at prices which would represent little if any loss to the taxpayers. But if there should be another bumper wheat crop next year at home and abroad, and if efforts to sell the 1930 surplus abroad were a failure, the government would be up against the necessity of buying another surplus to stabilize the price, with no assurance that the taxpayers ever would be reimbursed for the outlay.

The experiment then would take on the aspect of a subsidy to agriculture, pure and simple.

WHEAT, BUOYED UP BY U. S. BUYING, KEPT AT 73 CENT LEVEL

Wheat prices in Chicago yesterday remained at the 73 cents a bushel value placed upon the December futures market last Saturday as a result of heavy buying by the federally financed stabilization corporation and maintained steadily through a drastic slump in other world markets on Tuesday. Little change from the record low prices, far below Chicago quotations, was reported in other American or foreign markets during the day.

George S. Milnor, head of the stabilization corporation, on his return from Washington yesterday, met with officers and directors of the Chicago Board of Trade. Following the session he and President John A. Bunnell of the Board of Trade both declared no differences or irregularities had appeared in the corporation's voluminous trading of the last week.

Mr. Milnor also declared yesterday that the stabilizing efforts had been extended into Kansas City and Minneapolis, and "all domestic markets." Prices prevailing in these markets usually adjust themselves to Chicago prices, and it is assumed they will do so this time, he said.

Canada Premier to Return.

WINNIPEG, Man., Nov. 19.—[Special.]—Answering last minute appeals by long distance telephone from London, Premier Bennett has agreed to reconsider the position of the federal government with regard to the wheat situation in western Canada, it was learned today. He has canceled his tour of the continent and will hasten back to Ottawa. Wheat closed 1⅞ cents higher in Winnipeg today than yesterday.

GLENCOE WOMAN IS THROWN BY HORSE; INJURED

Mrs. Irene Otter, 974 Eastwood road, Glencoe, was taken to the Evanston hospital yesterday after she had suffered serious injuries to her back in a fall from a horse on Willow road at Linder street, near the Indian Hill Riding club.

Benjamin Leslie Behr Jr., 17 years old, 80 North Waukegan road, Lake Forest, suffered a broken collar bone yesterday when his horse rolled on him while practicing jumps at Milburn preliminary to joining in the Onwentsia club fox hunt.

2 MISSING BOBS SURRENDER; ARE FREED ON BONDS

Partner Also in Court; All Indicted.

New York, Nov. 19.—[Special.]—Charles V. Bob, the financier who mysteriously disappeared in Chicago on Oct. 9, on the eve of an investigation by the attorney general into his complicated financial affairs; Beverly W. Bob, his brother, and Louis P. Judien, one of his partners, surrendered today to the district attorney to plead to indictments for grand larceny found against them yesterday.

After being booked, finger printed, and photographed at police headquarters, they were arraigned this afternoon in the Court of General Sessions.

The Bobs were represented by former District Attorney Joab Banton and Thomas F. Sheridan and Judien by George Z. Medalie. All pleaded not guilty. Bail was fixed at $35,000 for Charles V. Bob, at $5,000 for his brother, and at $2,500 for Judien. The bonds were promptly furnished.

There are three indictments against Charles V. Bob, charging misappropriation of $97,000, one against his brother charging larceny of $30,000, and one against Judien charging him with misappropriating $20,000.

The alleged thefts were committed on Nov. 18, 1929, in connection with the sale to investors of shares in Metal and Mining Founders Shares, a concern managed by Charles V. Bob.

District Attorney T. C. T. Crain said the grand jury has not completed its investigation into the concerns promoted by Bob, in which investors are said by the attorney general's office to have lost about $6,000,000. Other indictments may be expected, according to the prosecutor.

Charles V. Bob was asked where he spent his time after his disappearance. Mr. Banton replied for him as follows: "He has been in New York for the last week."

MAIL ORDER CO. GIVES $100,000 TO JOBLESS FUND

Employer and Employes Take Equal Burden.

Officers and employés of Sears, Roebuck & Co. made the first substantial contribution to the $5,000,000 relief fund being raised for Gov. Emmerson's unemployment commission yesterday when E. H. Powell, treasurer of the company, presented Philip R. Clarke, director of the drive, a check for $100,000.

The check represented the subscriptions of both the company and its workers—$50,000 being pledged by the employés and the employers matching it dollar for dollar. Individual subscriptions received included $2,500 from Warren Wright, president of the Lincoln park board; a like sum from Charles A. McCullough, $1,000 from Leonard S. Florsheim, and $19,350 from two afternoon newspapers.

Sears, Roebuck & Co., which added $50,000 in the name of its employés to the $50,000 given by the corporation, will take six months to collect the total pledged by the workers.

Praises Coöperative Action.

"This is the type of coöperation between employer and employé which will immediately provide the governor's commission with funds from employé subscriptions," said Mr. Clarke as the check was handed to him. "If this method is generally adopted by both large and small concerns throughout the city it will not be long until we can report complete success."

The mail order house followed the suggestion of Mr. Clarke's committee in raising its contribution, each employé pledging a day's pay a month until the $50,000 is reached.

"Many business firms," said Mr. Clarke, "which have never, as a matter of policy, allowed their employés to be canvassed for funds, recognize that the present emergency transcends policy."

"I have received a number of letters from small wage earners who say they heartily favor the idea of subscribing through their firms if permitted to do so. Some of these people say that the burden should not be shared by clerks. To them I point out that our use of the word 'employé' means every one on the pay roll from the president down."

Discontinue Charities Drive.

In order not to interfere with the fund drive of the governor's commission, the United Charities announced yesterday that it has discontinued its appeals for contributions to its $1,150,000 budget, after obtaining about $750,000 toward the goal.

"It is more important to raise $5,000,000 to meet all the needs in the community than to continue within this group which interfered with the larger campaign of the governor's commission," said John F. Gilchrist, chairman of the charities fund campaign, at a luncheon in the Palmer house.

Other Groups Continue.

The United Charities emphasized that the discontinuance of the trades group solicitation in no way affected the campaign of the church committee and the woman's committee.

Scott Brown, committee chairman on organization, urged the members of the trades group to join in the work with the governor's commission.

See Work for Hundreds.

Yesterday the Cook county board took action on $2,825,000 worth of public projects, which, it was said, would put hundreds of persons to work within 40 days. The board awarded contracts on 16 road projects and on the first 15 shelter houses to be constructed in the forest preserves, and authorized the printing and sale of $2,350,000 in bonds for the speedy construction of the new nurses' home at the county hospital, which will be a seventeen story dormitory building.

The governing committee of the Chicago Stock Exchange yesterday authorized the appointment of a committee to solicit subscriptions from exchange members and member concerns for the $25,000 quota set by the governor's commission. The soliciting committee is headed by Robert J. Fischer. Last week employés of the exchange decided to turn over a portion of each week's salary to the United Charities and it was announced yesterday that 100 per cent of the employés had subscribed to this fund.

The Railway Express agency announced yesterday that a committee had been formed to solicit officials and employés for funds to care for needy families of their employés who have been laid off.

Sally Joy Brown's representatives at The Tribune public service office, 1 South Dearborn street, will give any information about the Friend in Need department.*

A 22 year old woman applied to Sally Joy Brown of THE TRIBUNE for work. Sally, who helps the unemployed by turning over offers for jobs to the Illinois free employment agency, 116 North Dearborn street, sent the woman, Miss D., there.

When she had almost despaired of getting work, the P. A. Auto Sales company called Sally to fill a permanent $95 a month job running a billing machine and typing. Miss D. was one in a long line of applicants when the order came through.

"I know that machine so well I can take it apart," she said.

She Gets the Job.

She got the job. It was a jubilant day in her home. She is one of ten children and is the only one of them now who has a job.

But that isn't all of the story about Miss D. When she applied for work she had apologized for her dress. Sally outfitted her with a pair of shoes contributed by a society matron, a purse, a coat, and a blue jersey dress.

Varied Work Is Offered.

The diversity of the jobs offered through Sally's service yesterday may be seen by this listing:

The D. auto parts company on West 17th street asked for an expert truck mechanic, and specified a man with dependents. The company offered $30 a week.

Mr. K., in the 3500 block on North Plainfield avenue, said he could use a baker's helper.

A job in Chinatown was offered by the Y. C. company in South La Salle street. Because of the neighborhood, a young girl was not wanted, but a middle aged woman who could do bookkeeping and stenography. The pay offered was $25 a week.

A dressmaker, Mrs. C., in West 83d street said she would pay 50 cents an hour or more for an assistant.

A hotel in the 2700 block on Pine Grove avenue offered a month's work at $25 a week to an upholsterer.

A tailor in the 200 block on North La Salle street said he would pay $25 a week to a man or woman who could do hand weaving on men's suits of a well known brand.

Police Seize Horse After It Bites a Pedestrian

Charles Prior, 32 years old, 2932 Milwaukee avenue, a painter, was bitten on the left forearm yesterday by a horse as he was preparing to leave a fire engine house at 3000 Elbridge avenue. The horse, owned by Fischel Vine, junk dealer, was impounded by the Shakespeare avenue police for examination, while Prior went to the county hospital for treatment.

NEW IDEAS HELP GOOD FELLOWS CARE FOR NEEDY

And More Pledges Insure Support for Work.

More assistance to the Good Fellows in their family rescue work was reported yesterday.

The Oriole Shoe Shoppes, Inc., for a week or so starting today, will conduct a charity sale, accepting old shoes as part payment on new pairs, the worn but still wearable shoes being donated to the destitute through the Good Fellow management.

"We expect to get at least 2,500 pairs of men's, women's and children's shoes for the poor through this sale," said Irving A. Einhorn, secretary of the company. "At any of our five stores an old pair of shoes will be accepted as a 50 cent payment on a new pair."

Arrange for Distribution.

The Good Fellow headquarters, in THE TRIBUNE offices at Dearborn and Madison streets, has arranged for the distribution of the shoes through the governor's relief commission, which plans to repair those that are badly worn.

Another plan for helping the unfortunate was found in the Steger building at Jackson boulevard and Wabash avenue. Cans have been distributed through the offices of the eighteen story building and these coin receptacles bear a sign reading, "You have a job; help the fellow who hasn't any."

The authorship of this plan was traced to Miss Vera McMahon, secretary to John E. Bryan, traffic manager for Wisconsin paper mills.

In the meantime more contributions and pledges continue to be received at the Good Fellow headquarters and the latest report shows they are now able to care for 220 families, consisting of approximately 1,100 persons, mostly mothers and their children.

"Poor Woman" Sends $1.

A paper dollar was received in a piece of writing paper that said merely, "From a poor woman."

A check for $30, signed Emma C. Dresser, was found in a letter that opened: "Appreciating the generosity of THE TRIBUNE in paying the cost of administration of the Good Fellow fund for the needy, I am sending my check to you."

Two checks for $100 each were received from C. R. Dashiell of the Dashiell Motor company, dealer in Dodge Brothers motor cars, and from Niblack Thorne of the Thorne Motor corporation, manufacturer of delivery trucks. Another large donation, $100 a month, is that from John B. Mallers Jr. and his son, C. E. Mallers, of the Mallers building, 5 South Wabash avenue.

GOTHAM RELIEF GETS BIG BOOST FROM BROKERS

New York, Nov. 19.—[Special.]—A quarter of a million dollars, contributed by 107 houses on the New York Stock exchange, was added today to the growing fund of the emergency employment committee as the third day of its campaign for $6,000,000 to furnish work for 20,000 jobless heads of families was brought to a close.

The report of this contribution, which brings the committee's total to $1,650,000 to date, was made to Chairman Seward Prosser by John W. Prentiss of Hornblower & Weeks, who is head of the organization's stock exchange committee.

Mr. Prentiss said the response came from a single bulletin sent to business houses and that actual solicitation had not begun yet. Names of the contributors were not made public.

CREDIT BUSINESS 20 BILLIONS, BUT BILLS ARE PAID

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 19.—[Special.]—Despite the nation's retail credit business of 20 billion dollars annually and avoidable credit losses of 200 millions, "the American people are paying their bills," Edwin B. George, chief of the marketing ser[illegible] division of the department of commerce, told a meeting of retail credit men here this evening. The figures used by Mr. George were based on a national retail credits survey by the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce.

"We can breathe a sigh of relief," said Mr. George, "at the discovery that with all of the open credit and installment commitments the American people are not hopelessly mortgaged. Although people are buying from 4 to 5 billion dollars installment goods a year and some 15 billions more of goods on open credit, the fact remains that the grocer, the butcher and the candlestick maker usually get their money."

How An Economic Law—Limits What You Need Spend To Eat Well

Up to a certain point the amount of money put into food and its preparation will buy better quality. Beyond that point it will not.

Economists call this the "law of diminishing returns," for if you pay more you get no more value.

Take, for instance, a ham of the very best quality—an "Oscar Mayer" hickory smoked ham, bought direct from the packer to roast and serve in the Triangle Restaurants. Roasted by expert chefs, it emerges browned, in a gleaming encrustation of its own luscious juices. . . .

Your generous portion, with southern candied sweet potatoes, or a genuine Idaho baked potato, with hot muffins and fresh bread and butter will cost you 55c. And you'll say—"I could pay much more, but it couldn't be better."

And you'll know then why the scores and scores of substantial people about you choose the Triangle Restaurants in preference to more pretentious establishments.

BOY OF 18, KING WITHOUT NATION, CROWNED TODAY

Ex-Royalty Bends Knee to Otto of Hapsburg.

BY ANN SOMERS HOUSE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BRUSSELS, Belgium, Nov. 19.—From 11 a. m. until noon tomorrow Otto, archduke of Hapsburg, will be a mere sophomore listening to a professor on political science in a classroom of the Catholice university at Louvain.

ARCHDUKE OTTO.

At 7 o'clock tomorrow night the same round faced, dark haired youth will place the eight centuries old crown of Hapsburg on his brow and solemnly open a gala ceremony as head of Europe's oldest dynasty, the Hapsburgs.

Princes and Dukes Galore.

The sombre chateau at Steenockerzeel, near Brussels, now the residence of ex-Empress Zita of Austria and Hungary and her eight children, fairly hums with princes, princesses, and archdukes to celebrate Otto's coming of age tomorrow. Curtsies and bows of the old Vienna court days will be reviewed at the chateau of the exiles as clans of the former Bourbon princes and Austrian and Hungarian aristocrats, forty altogether, meet.

Old ladies, like the duchess of Saxony, and also some of Zita's ten brothers and sisters, are lodged in twenty rooms in the chateau. Other guests are putting up at inns in the village, where there is no running water or electricity. Years of poverty, have accustomed most of them to such inconveniences.

Family Jewels Sold.

Poverty also keeps Zita from celebrating Otto's birthday in a brilliant manner. Most of the family jewelry has been sold. Otto has only the Hungarian crown, a picturesque braided Hungarian uniform which his father, King Charles, once wore, and a precious saber to go with it.

Tomorrow morning the former Vienna court preacher, Bishop Seidel, will celebrate mass, thanking the Lord for having so far protected the only legitimate heir to the Hapsburg throne and praying that the crown of Hapsburg, now lost, may be returned to him.

In the afternoon Otto will hold his first reception. According to old Vienna etiquette, he will have his right white gloved hand kissed by his family, courtiers and aristocrats.

Celebration in Hungary.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUDAPEST, Nov. 19.—Celebrations of Archduke Otto's 18th birthday began here at 6 o'clock tonight with a religious service in St. Stephen's basilica. Later the Hungarian theater staged a gala performance, the proceeds from which will be used to help the unemployed.

U. OF C. ADOPTS RADICALLY NEW EDUCATION PLAN

Graduation No Longer Time Matter.

in related information wherever it is to be found.

"It has been the complaint in this country that too much time is wasted in education, and that it is not worth while. We can at least save time for the average student and give him a better education than he now gets, although the question of just what is a good education is one that will have to be worked out in the course of this experiment.

"It will permit a student to make an honorable exit from college after he has passed satisfactory examinations. For those of high degree of excellence the way will be clear to higher and more special scholarship. And here is where we hope to find the answer as to whether it is worth while. In the upper divisions the classes will be smaller and the teachers will be on closer terms with the students. They will enter an atmosphere of serious effort and I think they will react to it."

Wait to See Effect.

Whether this new system will flood the university with new students and what the effect will be in various college activities and how the examinations will be prepared are matters that Mr. Hutchins did not care to discuss at this time. The system itself, however, presents no obstacles to a great number of students in the initial lecture courses, as it concentrates its efforts on the upper divisions.

There may be a series of comprehensive questions to answer in examination, an essay form, or a problem which the student is left to work out in the laboratory. These are matters which the faculty is working upon. They have had this reorganization in mind for several years and have been working toward it. The present change is only a beginning.

In the upper divisions the student will be graduated by passing an examination whenever he is able. The nonprofessional degrees will be awarded here, including the equivalent of the B. A. degree, now granted at the end of four years' work. The professional schools will award all professional degrees. The bachelor's, master's and doctor's degrees are to be granted on the recommendation of the entire division and not one department.

One of the important changes introduced will be in the budgeting system. Divisional rather than departmental autonomy will mean the encouragement of undergraduate teaching. The job of the college will be that of teaching and its funds will be devoted to that purpose. Under the old system, in many institutions, attention to teaching has usually meant a sacrifice, as it was regarded as a sideline and research as the main objective. The present assignment of the various departments is as follows:

Social Sciences—Psychology, Education, Economics, Political Science, History, Sociology, Anthropology, Home Economics, Geography.

Physical Sciences — Mathematics, Military Science, Astronomy, Physics, Chemistry, Geology.

Biological Sciences—Botany, Physical Culture, Zoölogy, Anatomy, Physiology, Physiological Chemistry, Hygiene and Bacteriology, Pathology, the clinics group.

Four of the deans of the five new divisions were named yesterday. They are:

Humanities—Prof. Gordon J. Laing, formerly dean of the Graduate Schools of Arts and Literature.

Physical Sciences—Prof. Henry G. Gale, formerly dean of the Ogden Graduate School of Science and associate of Prof. A. A. Michelson in his light velocity experiments.

Biological Sciences—Dr. Richard E. Scammon, who recently came from the University of Minnesota as professor of anatomy.

College—Prof. Chauncey S. Boucher, formerly dean of the undergraduate colleges of arts, literature, and sciences, will continue as dean of the college.

Dr. Frederic Woodward, vice president of the university and dean of faculties, will be temporarily in charge of the social sciences division.

THREE DAY RIOT ENDS AS SPANISH STRIKE SUBSIDES

200,000 Will Resume Tasks in Barcelona.

BY HENRY WALES.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BARCELONA, Spain, Nov. 19.—The three day general strike, which has paralyzed Barcelona since Monday, was officially called off tonight by the Junta Sindicato Unico which precipitated the walkout. A notice calling on 200,000 workers to return to their jobs will be published tomorrow morning.

Today a few street cars, auto buses and subway trains started operating. Owners of private cars, who were able to procure gasoline, also ventured into the streets. There were no taxis. Cafés and smaller shops opened, but all the big stores and the movies remained closed.

Mobs Mill in Street.

During the day thousands milled through the streets and open plazas of the town, which were guarded by civil guards and scattered detachments of troops. There were no disorders, except for clashes in the suburbs where workers became imbued with fiery red Spanish wine and insulted the police, only to be ridden down and dispersed. One child was wounded by a stray bullet.

Students demonstrated in front of the university again today. Fifty civil guards drew guns and the students fled.

The strike, which began in sympathy with the general walkout in Madrid, was continued by a row between the Sindicato and dockworkers, who quit last Thursday demanding higher wages. This was responsible for the gasoline shortage, as the longshoremen refused to transport barrels from the docks to gas stations.

Garbage piled up in front of homes and overturned park benches are the only evidence that remains to indicate the disorders, as the street car which the strikers burned has been removed. At the car barns laborers are replacing 2,000 broken street car windows.

Suffered No Privation.

Despite the strike's completeness, Barcelona has not suffered privation, as milk, fruit, and vegetables have been brought into the city by farmers and the bakery and butcher shops remained open. Tobacco shops stayed open to sell lottery tickets and water, gas, electricity, telephone, and railroad services did not suffer.

Five dead and 40 injured, two critically, was the toll, and it is believed that the casualties would have been much higher but for the extreme moderation of the authorities.

No Bloodshed; Police Warned.

Gen. Vestuiol, customs director, ordered the troops to avoid bloodshed in subduing rioters, if possible. Ordinarily the civil guards are very quick at the trigger. If any one happens to get shot in escaping or resisting arrest there is seldom an investigation and the killer is always exonerated.

All Spain is anxiously awaiting the next move to the Sindicato Unico. Originally a trade organization, it became an anarchistic society in 1923, with ambitions to rule the city and province.

Primo de Rivera, during his dictatorship, shackled the activities of the Sindicato, imprisoning dozens of its leaders and kicking out its "pistoleros"—gunmen.

Since the fall of the dictatorship the banished leaders of the Unico have returned, and this strike is their first test of strength in seven years.

Madrid Students Riot.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MADRID, Nov. 19.—Premier Damaso Berenguer tonight told this worried capital why he had posted the heaviest armed force in seven years about the capital last night. In an official statement he declared that he desired to show Madrid what military strength he could muster in case of an emergency.

The government is said to have mustered its array of machine guns on the information that bakers would be prevented from returning to their ovens.

Several hundred striking chemistry students rioted in their buildings at the University of Madrid tonight. Students at Salamanca also rioted, shouting:

"We want a republic!"

Strikes in Ten Other Cities.

Dispatches of further labor disorders reaeched the capital. At Seville, largest city in southern Spain, a general strike was reported. By nightfall all public utility services were paralyzed. Police charged rioting mobs, using the flats of their sabers.

Strikes have spread to ten other cities. Street fighters in Alicante, the seaport, ran into the sea to escape police charges. Some were almost drowned before police rescued them. Five thousand sausage makers quit their jobs in the town of Vichy, and 15,000 industrial workers threw down their tools at Manresa, a town near Barcelona.

AGREE TO EXTEND LONDON TREATY TO FLEETS OF WORLD

GENEVA, Nov. 19.—(AP)—The preparatory disarmament commission today adopted a major part of the draft agreement for limiting the world's fleets.

Three articles approved today and one yesterday are parallel to the principles embodied in the Washington and London treaties. They provide a general global limitation of warship tonnage, additional limitation by classes of ships, right of transfer of a portion of the tonnage from one class or category to another and limitation of displacement and gun armaments of battleships.

Tomorrow the commission will take up aircraft carriers, which the Washington treaty limited to 27,000 tons, and details of naval limitation.

An effort by Maxim Litvinov, chief Russian delegate, and supported halfheatedly by Japan, Great Britain and France, to limit capital ships to 10,000 tons and 12-inch cannon, failed.

Deaf Hear Again Through New Aid

Earpiece No Bigger Than Dime Wins Enthusiastic Following Ten-Day Free Trial Offer

After twenty-five years devoted exclusively to the manufacture of scientific hearing-aids, the Dictograph Products Co., Inc., Dept. 509M, 180 North Michigan Blvd., Chicago, Ill., has just perfected a new model Acousticon that represents the greatest advance yet made in the re-creation of hearing for the deaf. This latest Acousticon is featured by a tiny earpiece no bigger than a dime. Through this device, sounds are clearly and distinctly transmitted to subnormal ears with wonderful benefit to hearing and health alike. The makers offer an absolutely free trial for 10 days to any person who may be interested, and a letter will bring one of these remarkable aids to your home for a thorough and convincing test. They will send you as well details of their special Christmas offer, which represents a saving of $10 in the cost of your renewed hearing. This offer expires December 10th. So clip this advertisement and send it to them with your name and address today! Advt.

COL. McCORMICK CALLS DRY LAW CRIMINALS' ALLY

Tells of Chicago's Drive Against Gangs.

New Haven, Conn., Nov. 19.—[Special.]—"Chicago will never rid itself of its crime problem until it has first rooted out prohibition," said Col. Robert R. McCormick, publisher of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, in an interview here today.

Col. McCormick asserted his conviction that prohibition is an instrument in the hands of gangsters and racketeers that has brought them to their present state of tremendous power.

"Chicago is making a genuine and fairly effective effort to rid itself of its gangsters," he added, "and it is quite conceivable that it will get at least the present crop out of the way. The most successful weapon the city has so far used is its stratagem of arresting them for nonpayment of income taxes. They have managed to cover themselves up pretty well in other ways, but they have left themselves open on that flank. The courts proved, for instance, that one gangster had an income of $30,000 a month on which he was paying no tax whatever, so they promptly put him in jail.

Prohibition Supports Crime.

"It is the best try at suppressing the crime wave that Chicago has made, but its not enough. We may get rid of the present gangsters, bu that will only clear the ground for another crop—there are plenty more ready to take the places of these men.

"At the bottom, root and source of the whole thing is prohibition. It has given to these men the tremendous power that they now wield. Out of the profits of liquor selling comes the money that finances all the other activities of the gangs, giving them political power, unlimited resources—all the strength that they need, and until prohibition is repealed they will continue to ride firmly in the saddle.

Thinks Dry Laws Will Go.

"I am convinced dry laws will eventually be discarded. When this will be, and how drastic the discarding process will be, I don't know. Personally, I think the problem is one for the states, themselves, to settle. In any event, the fight is on. The newspapers have now gotten over their first timidity and have joined in the fray. In the beginning they feared the stick that prohibitionists wielded over them, and took the dry blustering seriously. Now they have discovered that there is no real power behind the noisy threats of the drys and have begun to fight back.

SAYS RIDGWAY SUBWAY PLAN IS TO BE ADOPTED

Michael J. Faherty, president of the board of local improvements, yesterday announced that the Ridgway subway plan, which calls for a height of nine feet from floor to roof of the mezzaline level, will be adopted at a board meeting tomorrow. The requests of State street merchants, he declared, will be disregarded. He said that the merchants had proposed a height of 7 feet 6 inches.

The announcement was made at a meeting of the North Central association at the Virginia hotel. Faherty explained that with the lesser height the ceiling of the subway could not be beautified nor could the subway be properly ventilated at times when large crowds are in it. A conclusion on the subway problems must be reached at the meeting, he said, if the digging is to be started soon.

HEAT With Coke

it's much cleaner and it's much cheaper

. . . As thousands of good housekeepers know through happy experience.

THE economy of heating with Coke is at once recognized. Its quick, clean fire is immediately evident. But to fully appreciate the lasting economy of Chicago Solvay Coke you have to burn it for a few weeks time.

The price per ton is no more than that of the best grade of soft coal.

Chicago Solvay Coke is uniform in size—it is light and easy to handle. It will not disintegrate. It leaves only a small amount of ashes.

Your home and your neighborhood will be a healthier place to live in—when you burn coke—it is a smokeless and sootless fuel. The smoke and soot producing elements have been driven off in its manufacture, leaving pure heat producing carbon.

Heat with Chicago Solvay Coke and you will at once notice its cleanly virtues. It comes to you DUSTLESS. The monthly cleaning of smoke pipes and flues is not necessary.

There will be no soot to mar the clean appearance of your home—none deposited on your draperies, rugs and furniture. Burning this clean coke makes housekeeping easier.

Decide to burn Coke now. Then your home, free from smoke and soot, will cost less to live in.

Call one of the 360 Chicago or suburban Solvay Fuel Dealers. He is ready to have a Solvay Service Man show you how easy it is to burn coke in your present heating plant. This service is FREE.

If you have never burned Chicago Solvay Coke—and have never ordered fuel—Telephone Wabash 6100—Service Department. Ask for the names of Chicago Solvay Dealers in your community.

LAW EXPERTS AGAINST THE 18TH AMENDMENT.

The American Bar association vote on the repeal of the eighteenth amendment is, of course, the most important and the most significant event that has occurred in the course of the great controversy over the prohibition experiment. Seventy-five per cent of the membership expressed itself through this referendum and the vote was two to one for repeal. Probably the twenty-five per cent who did not vote were in the main from districts in which the most demoralizing and destructive consequences of prohibition have not occurred. But a seventy-five per cent response in any referendum is a very high proportion, and in this case shows a gratifying sense of responsibility.

Many of the nonvoting twenty-five per cent doubtless held the opinion that the bar association is a body existing solely for the consideration of purely professional questions, a view we are very glad is not shared by the great majority of the association. In holding the referendum and voting upon it the American bar accepts its larger responsibility for public leadership in the field of government and the administration of law, a responsibility it cannot evade without seriously injuring the just influence and prestige of the profession and refusing a service the nation greatly needs and rightly expects from it.

As to the emphatic verdict returned by this instructed body of citizens, it will not surprise any one who realizes that the experiment in governmentally imposed teetotalism involves the basic principles not only of the American constitutional system but the very nature of law and political government. The adoption of the eighteenth amendment was a sharp departure from the design of the national government, which in its original, profoundly considered form was strictly limited to those powers and responsibilities that clearly belonged to a central authority, leaving to the widely various local authorities, as the more efficient agency, all other powers and responsibilities. Upon this farsighted assignment of the duties of government our political and social harmony has firmly rested up to the beginning of the prohibition experiment. Through a decade of experience with this experiment the wisdom of the original plan has been made increasingly manifest, and it was to be expected that the profession of the law should take the lead in emphasizing this truth and in demanding a restoration of a principle of American government approved by the experience of nearly a century and a half; in fact, throughout the life of the republic.

No more vital issue has arisen since the adoption of the constitution. It transcends the special question of the efficient control of the liquor traffic and implies more far reaching questions of free government, of social progress, of political and social peace and efficiency. These wider implications in the science of government are obscured to most laymen by the concrete and immediate consequences of the prohibition experiment, but they are greater and of more lasting concern to the welfare of the people, to their peace and progress through freedom. It is, therefore, the special duty of the legal profession, given to the study of laws and their operation in human affairs, to insist upon them and to lead opinion so that in the making of laws, as in their administration, these issues shall be regarded and thoughtfully determined.

We congratulate the American Bar association upon its high service to the cause of American government, to sound law making, and to the American faith in progress through the freedom of the individual.

CHICAGO NEWS ABROAD.

An incidental survey of what constitutes the general run of Chicago news abroad indicates that it is derogatory or nothing. European impressions and opinions are based on a news service which finds interest in the phenomenon of this city's criminal events and in nothing much else. There are, of course, a number of reasons for this emphasis on lawlessness. For one thing, ill repute generally goes faster and further than good. The average human finds it more fascinating. Virtue frequently makes a dull chronicle. One people must make an effort to be interested in the good deeds of another. Naturally, they prefer a chronicle which gives them a comparative sense of superiority.

The most notorious Chicago lawlessness has been spectacular. That it does not reveal the average life of the average citizen is not indicated in the narratives. The implication conveyed is that it does. The legend of the American bad lands is an old one and Europe has always taken it as typical and characteristic. Chicago is made to appear as the new Tombstone.

Considerable European news is derived from British foreign news service. That satisfies parochial European instincts. British foreign news, frequently as a semi-official purveyor of policy and seductive derogation, is an old device of much British foreign policy. It may be less employed now than in other days, but it is still employed, and it does not need much encouragement. The island superiority is sufficient to give a distinct bent to the reports gathered of other nations.

The war revealed the British as masterful users of publicity for purposes of state. They were so good that they later felt free to be candid about it and to disclose the derivation of some of the superb falsehoods which were bolted whole in the United States and had great effect upon American opinion.

A skillful use of publicity does not begin cold in an emergency to change generally accepted views into contrary ones, but has prepared for a general acceptance of opinions when it is necessary to work upon sentiment. For instance, the prevailing ideas held in the English speaking world of Hindu character and habits do not date from the time when Gandhi first made the nationalist movement one of serious concern to the British government. The groundwork all had been done, by such distinguished journalists as Kipling making the British raj heroic and self-sacrificing, and by lesser lights showing the Hindu on his own as quite impossible.

That preliminary work is Britain's salvation in a world of moral sentiment today and the English speaking peoples are entirely undisturbed by such reports of violent repression as manage to escape the censors.

It would not accord with this old line policy to give such an active American city as Chicago anything like a break in the news of the world. It may be an interesting and adventurous city, but its claim to interest must be its criminality and its adventures must be lawless. The implication is one of inferiority in civilization and that always can be used in foreign affairs.

A VICTORY FOR THE PUBLIC.

The jury in the Sammons vagrancy case, Judge Jonas, who presided at the trial, and the state's attorney's assistants in charge of the prosecution, Mr. Ditchburne and Mr. Brown, deserve public gratitude for the conviction of the notorious defendant. It is believed by the prosecution and the civic agencies engaged in the war upon organized crime that the result will be felt at once in the underworld to the public advantage.

We do not anticipate in this case the reversal of the verdict if an appeal is taken, through a narrow and technical interpretation of the statute on vagabonds. The tender feelings of some critics of the application of the vagrancy law for malefactors who after years of vicious life may have acquired some lawful mode of livelihood can hardly be relevant to the case of Sammons. He was not able to show or to induce the jury to believe in any such reform, and his record is such as fully to justify to any sensible mind that refusal. His police record begins thirteen years ago, when he was arrested with others and escaped after firing at a policeman. Later captured and sent to Joliet, he was paroled in 1923, and in 1925 was arrested with other men in a car in which were found three guns and a brief case containing plans of certain banks. He was sent back to the parole board, but three months later was arrested in Chicago in a car with three others. Four guns were found in the car. Returned to prison, he was released on parole three months later, and two months thereafter was arrested in a room on Roosevelt road, where eleven steel jackets and two revolvers were found. About seven months after this he was arrested in Chicago and held for the Baltimore police on a robbery charge. Six weeks later, Dec. 20, 1926, he was arrested again, and on March 4, 1927, he was arrested by Capt. Grady while siphoning whisky through a garden hose from Morand Bros.' warehouse. There were three guns, and shots were fired. He was arrested twice again that month.

If Sammons is not punishable under the plain and inclusive terms of the statute on vagabonds, the next legislature should make it its first task to place in the criminal code a provision by which men of such records can be locked up. A habitual malefactor, who has been caught repeatedly with deadly weapons, though not in the actual commission of crime, should not be left at large until he can be convicted of some act of violence. His possession of deadly weapons proves that he has criminal intent, and it is a mischievous quibble of law which permits him to remain at large. We are confident the vagrancy law was intended to reach such cases, but if there is the slightest doubt of it, it should be removed as soon as the legislature can act.

Meanwhile citizens will read Sammons' record with indignation at a state of law administration which permits the repeated parole of such an offender. It can only be explained on the assumption that organized crime and politics have an alliance which must be destroyed. Of the existence of this alliance we have plenty of conclusive evidence.

Editorial of the Day

A DEEP CUT IN IMMIGRATION.
[Kansas City Star.]

The next session of congress, it now is evident, may be saved a considerable amount of trouble and discussion on one issue, the further restriction of immigration, particularly as it applies to Mexico. The latter phase of restriction has been the chief concern with respect to the western hemisphere. It has meant a troublesome situation because of this country's desire to maintain thoroughly amicable relations, not only with the southern republic, but with other countries to the south. And if restriction were undertaken, it could not be applied to Mexico alone, but to other western hemisphere nations as well.

Now, however, an announcement from the state department brings out the fact that Mexican immigration has already been so restricted that the problem it offered has disappeared. Existing laws have served for a settlement of the issue. On the ground that aliens seeking admission to the United States with no certainty of employment were likely to become public charges, entries from Mexico have been reduced more than 90 per cent in recent months. The number of entry visas granted in September was only 438, and more than one-half of those were students for enrollment in institutions of this country. In the preceding five months total entries were less than 2,500, which indicates an annual rate of less than 5,000, compared with an average annual rate of 56,747 in the previous five years.

This development applies in some measure to European immigration, which also has been reduced, though not to a comparable degree. A policy of approving entry visas from those countries in accordance with dependable opportunities for employment in America was inaugurated last summer, several months after the policy with respect to Mexico had been made operative. It seems possible, therefore, that the selective principle of immigration may be employed with little, if any, additional legislation. This is a fortunate development for America. It should help to lessen the country's unemployment problem and diminish the necessity for restriction agitation which always is the occasion of considerable friction and ill feeling.

DIABETES.

ALTHOUGH the number of lives lost through diabetes continues to increase, the importance of diabetic coma declines each year. If the people become somewhat better informed as to the feelings and other symptoms which give warning of coma, and if physicians become somewhat prompter and surer in giving insulin, diabetic coma may be reduced to a minimum.

The same may be true of puerperal convulsions, puerperal coma, and even unconsciousness and convulsions in acidosis in children.

The diabetic's part of the program is to diet with two ends in mind. The first, in order to keep his urine sugar free and his blood sugar low; the second, to so balance the fats and starches in his diet as to prevent coma, all the while maintaining nutrition. Among the signs which give warning of impending coma are the following: Sweetish odor of the breath and body, headache, mental heaviness and dullness, and tendency to sleep perhaps following a period of irritability, a lessening of the quantity of urine. Of these signs the most dependable is the sweetish body and breath odor and the mental heaviness. If the urine is examined it is found to be rich in acetones and other acid bodies of the kind found in coma.

If a diabetic develops sore throat, bowel trouble, carbuncles, boils, gangrene, or other complications, he must watch for signs of impending coma. He is in the watch tower, and if he is intelligent and wise he will call for help before the enemy attacks.

In the cure of diabetic coma insulin is a specific. It is even more serviceable in warding off an attack which is on the point of breaking. It should be given instantly and in full dose. As the lawyer would say, "Time is the essence of the contract." A diabetic who has a tendency to coma should keep things prepared for a quick shot of insulin.

One of the good books for the diabetic is "Diabetes" by Dr. Benjamin F. Smith. It tells the diabetic how to avoid coma, as well as how to diet at other times.

FIGHTING THE ITCH.

B. M. writes: I am a young girl, 20 years of age, and for the last two years have had an itch all over my body which comes every few days. First my sister was troubled with it, and after a while I got it from her.

We went to a clinic for the skin and we were told at one time it was scabies and another time it was seven year itch. However, we followed very closely the prescription that was given us, namely, using some kind of sulphur ointment after a very hot bath, but with no results. It seems now that the itch has traveled to the scalp, with the result that I am losing all my hair.

REPLY.

Scabies and seven year itch are the same. Sulphur ointment will cure this disease, if used properly. Danish itch ointment is more pungent and penetrating than is the ordinary kind. Your job is to get the sulphur down to where the bugs are. It may be necessary to sterilize the clothing.

TUBERCULOSIS AND ASTHMA.

J. M. writes:
"1. What are the symptoms of tuberculosis and asthma?
2. At what age do most consumptives develop their disease?

REPLY.

1. Among the early symptoms of tuberculosis of the lungs are afternoon fever, loss of weight, fatigue not otherwise explained, cough, and sometimes tubercle bacilli or blood in the sputum. Among the symptoms of asthma are cough, expectoration, spells of difficult breathing, being short winded.
2. Between twenty and thirty years of age.

MAKE SURE OF THE LAW.

L. B. writes: Can a party whose husband died of tuberculosis, and who has it herself, run a grocery store and sell fresh meats and candies without violating the law?

REPLY.

Laws vary. There are cities in which what you describe is forbidden by city ordinance. However, there are not many such.

FINANCE CHARGES.

Chicago, Nov. 10.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I signed a contract to buy an automobile for $70 on the installment plan. After making $25 down payment I was mailed a bill acknowledging the payment with a $55 balance, $10 being the financing charges of which I had no previous knowledge. Should I pay this finance charge? P. G.

You are not obliged to pay such charges unless they were authorized by the wording of the instrument that you signed.
TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

CITIZENSHIP STATUS.

Chicago, Nov. 4.—[Friend of the People.]—My mother secured her citizenship papers in 1925. Does this make me a citizen or not? I am now 21 years old and would like to know if I should apply for papers or not. Some people tell me I am a citizen through my mother. Is this true? P. O.

If your father was dead when your mother was naturalized before you were twenty-one years of age you became a citizen through her naturalization; but if your father was living you were not naturalized through your mother's naturalization.
FRED J. SCHLOTFELDT,
District Director, U. S. Department of Labor.

YOUR WILL.

Chicago, Nov. 10.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—A man has real estate held in joint tenancy with his daughter. He also has a son whom he wishes to have share equally in the estate. If he were to make a will stating his desire to have the daughter and son share equally in the estate, would the will hold good in that the son could claim his share in event of the death of his father?
M. J. S.

Yes, but we advise you to employ an attorney in the drafting and execution of so important a document.
TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

BUILDS ON WRONG LOT.

Chicago, Nov. 10.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—A man built a cottage, valued at $850. He used concrete posts for the foundation. Some time after having completed the house the owner found that he had built on the wrong lot. Can the owner of the lot claim the house? A. C.

Yes. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

THIS AND THAT.

Bet Senator Glenn of our state makes the W. C. T. U. girls awful mad. He comes straight out for "wholesome beer." Oh, how the girls will groan at that phrase, "wholesome beer"! They are sure, in fact they know, that any man who drinks a single glass of beer will go right home, beat his wife, set fire to the house, break open little Bobby's toy bank, roll for hours at a time in the gutter, and then shoot his dear old mother. And all that on one single glass of beer. Well, if you don't believe it just ask 'em. And that's why they're going to give three horrible groans when they hear Senator Glenn speak of "wholesome beer." They'll say you might just as well speak of a wholesome rattlesnake or a kind-hearted hyena or a benevolent earthquake. Honestly, senator, you're in for a lot of trouble. . . . And, anyhow, the near approach of snow, ice, blizzards, and all that is terrible when you think it over, but it's done one good thing—it's closed up the peewee golf courses. . . . And just look who's been elected head of the National Association of Broadcasters, none other than Walter J. Damm of Milwaukee. And we've always understood that sort of language wasn't allowed over the radio. We tried it two or three times, that same word, and the people in charge of the station shook their heads and said tck, tck, tck, and likewise no, no, and then the broadcasters go to work and elect him president. All right, if they can get by with it. But, anyhow, maybe they'll just call him Walt.

ICY WINDS.

The dun and gold clouds float along
The pale blue of the sky,
A white moon like a silver gong
Is hanging far on high,
A flock of wild geese honk their song
While sedges bend and sigh.

The grass is sere, the trees are bare.
There is a bitter chill,
As north winds from their icy lair
Come storming at the hill.
White snowflakes slanting down the air
Find rest upon the sill.

The ice is forming at the edge
Of brook and pond, the breeze
Is changing to a gale. The ledge
Is piling high, the trees
Are whitening, and now the hedge
Seems crouched, on shivering knees.

CLARA EDMUNDS-HEMINGWAY.

THAT IDEA of jugging gangsters on the charge of vagrancy is working out fine. But what about another thing that has defied any solution for years? Here's the idea: Why not say that any citizen who doesn't vote is guilty of vagrancy—loafing around the house, smoking a cigar, and listening to the radio when he ought to be over at the polls might be construed as vagrancy. Judge Lyle please write.

And It Was Mighty Nice of Edward.

ATTENDS RECITAL.

Edward Ossowski, organist of St. Hyacinth's church, returned home from Chicago, where he attended the piano recital by Mr. Paderewski at the Chicago Civic Opera house. About 4,000 were in attendance at the concert, and Mr. Ossowski reported that the concert was very nicely given and greatly enjoyed by those in attendance.

BELLICOSE DAN MOODY, the governor of our great sister commonwealth of Texas, says if he were governor of this mighty state of Illinoy he would send the National Guard into Chicago, declare martial law, and thus put down the w. k. reign of terror by the gangsters. Listen, Dan, did you ever read a quaint bit of poetry called The Walrus and the Carpenter? Well, if you haven't, look it up. There's one little fragment of that poem goes like this:

"If seven maids with seven mops
Swept it for half a year,
Do you suppose," the Walrus said,
"That they could get it clear?"
"I doubt it," said the carpenter,
And shed a bitter tear.

Quite a Popular Sport.

RHL: I says to Ole Miller, I says, "Well, Ole, I see the hockey season is starting." And Ole says to me, "Yaas, peoples they bane hocking everything they got." JAZBO OF OLD DUBUQUE.

"DEATHS OF THREE in Car Crashes Laid to Liquor."—Chiherex. Which gives us a bright idea—why not a law absolutely forbidding the sale of liquor in the U. S. A.? And better yet, why not cinch the thing by having an amendment to the constitution to that effect? And then, of course, if the sale of intoxicating liquor were forbidden by the law of the land, there would be no more drunken people driving automobiles. Write to your congressman today.

WHY TARRY?

RHL: Well, if you won't tell us when the Linebook will be out, maybe you'll break down under cross-examination and say whether it's too early to send our twelve cents each for copies wanted. I've got a list as long as your arm of people scattered from hell to breakfast who would consider the year practically wasted if I didn't send them a Linebook along about this time. Spoilt, I calls 'em. But there you are. And the sooner I dig for the umpty-steen times twelve cents required, the better chance you'll have of not getting the check back marked N. S. F. CHEERIO.

SAGACITY.

I try and try to think of you
And feel a little sad,
But what's the use? There always is
Some other ardent lad.

No longer shall I weep each day;
I'll brighten up again
To curl my hair and rouge my lips.
The cure for man is men!

DAVIDA.

LAGNIAPPE.

GOV. ROOSEVELT of New York says his personal expenses in the last campaign were $5,006. We haven't heard what Jim Ham Lewis' personal expenses were, but they should be more than that, because Gov. Roosevelt is smooth shaven, and Jim Ham's had to be trimmed. And trimming whiskers costs more than a shave. R. H. L.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

NOVEMBER 20, 1914.

PETROGRAD.—It was announced that a division of the Black sea fleet, returning to Sevastopol from its cruise, near the coast of Anatolia sighted a Turkish detachment consisting of the Goeben and Breslau. It gave battle to the Goeben, which was disabled by an explosion following a salvo of twelve-inch guns from the Russian flagship, but the Goeben escaped. The Breslau did not enter the engagement.

OTHER WAR NEWS.—The battle in Flanders and in France has become an artillery duel. The Germans have abandoned the infantry attacks and the kaiser is constantly bringing up more big guns with which to shell the British and French. The battle has been in progress for 35 days without material gain for either side. On the eastern front the Russians continue hammering at the Germans in East Prussia and at the Austrians at Cracow, despite the advance of the Germans toward Plock in Russian Poland.

PASADENA, Cal.—Dr. Robert J. Burdette, noted writer, pastor and humorist, died at his home here at the age of 60.

CHICAGO.—The city's horde of burglars and holdup men opened up their winter campaign, and, judging from the robberies which the police cared to report, their day's operations must have furnished one of the most lengthy chapters in Chief Gleason's "Squeal Book."

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

NOVEMBER 20, 1900.

CHICAGO.—A crowd of infuriated men attempted to assault Justice De Young in his courtroom at South Holland yesterday and was held at bay at the points of revolvers in the hands of Constable De Young and Attorney Trainor. The trouble arose in a case in which Jacob Friesma was accused of selling liquor illegally. Justice De Young says he was offered political advantages if he would deal leniently with Friesma, and when he refused the outbreak by Friesma's friends followed. Friesma took a change of venue.

CHICAGO.—The city council took a hand in the fight for the suppression of crime and passed an order for the addition of 121 policemen to the force. Chief of Police Kipley was instructed to appoint the men from the civil service lists. Nearly 400 arrests were made in the drive against the "carnival of crime," and 30 well known thieves, pickpockets, burglars and highwaymen were among the prisoners. "Straw bailers" are reaping a harvest at the Harrison street police court.

CINCINNATI.—Eugene Zimmerman received a cablegram from his daughter Helene announcing her marriage to the duke of Manchester, and the millionaire railroad man cabled back his blessings. It is understood that he will have a reception for the duke and duchess upon their arrival here, although he openly opposed the match.

50 YEARS AGO TODAY

NOVEMBER 20, 1880.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind.—Gen. Ben Harrison has announced in a letter to an Indianapolis politician that he is a candidate for United States senator from Indiana. His candidacy meets with much favor among the rank and file.

VIENNA.—Count Karolyi, who some time ago killed Count Zichy in a duel, has been sentenced to three months' imprisonment and the seconds in the duel to three weeks' imprisonment.

CHICAGO.—The Boston Evening Post says that the Conkling-Sprague scandal, which holds the first place in society gossip both in that state and in New York, has received a fresh impetus from the fact that Gov. Sprague is reported to have been driven to desperation by the persecution of his enemies and he now threatens to tell the whole story of his wife's alleged infidelity and Conkling's wiles and temptations.

CHICAGO.—Pardridge's West Side store, 284-86 West Madison street, just above Morgan street, announces a magnificent line of imported dolmans. Schlesinger & Mayer, Madison and Peoria streets, are holding a special sale of silk skirting. Field, Leiter & Co. offer special bargains in their black goods departments.

THE WACKER DRIVE DOUGHBOY.

Chicago, Nov. 18.—In regard to the article on the war memorial as approved by the veterans: This design was picked out, adopted, and exhibited before the Cook county council, the largest organization of service men in the county. The author of the letter you published refers to the doughboy statue in Lincoln park as surrounded with realistic implements of war. This author is evidently one of the large and self-made famous bands of pacifists who through their foolishness would try to make the total death list in our next war far greater. She tries to tells the veterans who have been "over there" that they don't know what they want. This monument does not portray realistic implements of war, but displays honored memory to the buddies who have gone west and were far better men than any pacifist who ever lived.

The "veterans" are young enough, and also old enough, to know what they want and do not have to pick out some indistinguishable futuristic or modernistic shaft as directed by some narrow-minded commission. EX-SERVICE MAN.

A REMINDER.

Chicago, Nov. 18.—Statues and monuments, on the whole, are terrible things to look at. I have lived in Chicago all my life, and the only time I ever went inside the Art institute was when I was forced to do so by my teacher, but I sure would not ask that the pacifists be denied the right to erect a few columns of marble as a reminder of the horrors of war.

If the public is dissatisfied with the type of reminder that the service men are asking to be erected as a reminder of their own, why don't they have a service man a member of the art commission? I am sure that he would not try to speak for any one outside of his own.

Speaking as a former veteran, I sincerely hope to see the memorial erected and completed before the Century of Progress, not to be an eyesore to the public but to remind the people who start wars that some one has to pay the penalty. S. T. HOLZMAN,
President Combat Medal Men's Association of Chicago.

WARNING.

Chicago, Nov. 6.—We of the Junior American Vigilant Intelligence federation ask your coöperation in explaining to the public that the communist party is a violent revolutionary party to overthrow the United States government, by violent means if necessary and masquerading as a political party, a part whose nominees are dictated by Moscow and who are chosen for ability to further the cause of the Trade Union Unity league, which openly claims itself to be the Red International Labor union.

The sooner the adult population realizes the international revolutionary nature of so-called political parties the sooner the task of our people on whose shoulders will fall the correcting of the mistakes and blunders of previous administrations will be lightened.
G. H. PAULS.
Recording Secretary, Junior A. V. I. F.

HARRISON FOR MAYOR

Chicago, Nov. 8.—Carter H. Harrison would be the man for mayor. His father was mayor the first World's Fair. Why not give the honor to the son? He has proven himself an honorable man.
J. S. MATTAS.

THE NEGRO VOTE.

New York, Nov. 13.—So much attention has been given to prohibition, economic depression, and other issues in the election just past that a very dramatic and even historic mass movement has received less than its share of attention.

I refer to the fact that for the first time since the civil war on a national scale the American Negro has broken traditional party bonds and has voted strictly on the basis of issues and men. The most striking result of this mass movement among Negro voters is the defeat of two senators who might have been elected had colored voters supported them. I refer to Senator Roscoe C. McCulloch of Ohio and Senator Henry J. Allen of Kansas, both of whom were opposed because they voted to place upon the Supreme court bench Judge John J. Parker of North Carolina, who had publicly expressed opposition to the Negro's voting.

The part played by Negro voters in the defeat of these two senators is incontrovertible. The returns show that in districts predominantly colored these men ran behind their parties and far behind the votes of previous years.

It is certain that in future campaigns political leaders no longer may safely assume that the color of the Negro's skin automatically denotes his political affiliation. Intelligent Negroes are determined not only to use their ballots with maximum effectiveness in defense of their citizenship rights, but also to help disadvantaged Negroes who live in states where, in defiance of the federal constitution, Negroes are still deprived of their votes and of their other constitutional rights. WALTER WHITE,
Acting Secretary, National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

JONES VS. BARRY.

Chicago, Nov. 16.—I protest against a statement appearing in your photogravure section today that John Paul Jones was the founder of the American navy. The weight of historical opinion is that Commodore John Barry was the father, not the founder, of the American navy. The founder was none other than the continental congress, the commander in chief of whose armies, George Washington, tendered Commodore John Barry the commission of first lieutenant in the American navy, the first command of its kind to be given during the war of independence.

John Paul Jones' real name was John Paul, the alias Jones having been assumed when the naval hero, in his early youth, enlisted on a pirate ship. History records that Jones was a soldier of fortune, who claimed prizes of war in a maritime court in France and served in the Russian navy following the revolutionary war. On the other hand, Barry was a real patriot who fought solely for the liberty of his adopted country. THOMAS A. CANTY.

DOGS POISONED.

Chicago, Nov. 15.—Recently in our neighborhood, Kingston and Colfax avenues, between 75th and 76th streets, a number of dogs have been poisoned. Within two weeks six or eight dogs have died of strychnine, picked up apparently in meat thrown about on the lawns. While we have taken such steps as are possible to find the offender, we realize it is a rather futile effort; such a person works in the dark and we cannot see him. I wonder if an appeal to his feelings might help. He has never known, of course, the loyalty, devotion and love of a dog; if he had he could scarcely act as he does. NEIGHBOR.

OPPORTUNITY FOR SALE!

THIS is one of those times when it seems desirable to emphasize the obvious.

Thus, good business in America is twelve months nearer revival than it was a year ago.

There are more people in the country now than then, more real money piling up in the banks, more wholesale, retail, consumers' shelves yawning for stock.

In the meanwhile Wear and Tear, Need and Desire—the Four Horsemen of commodity consumption—ride tirelessly on the job.

IF the combination of these obvious facts doesn't spell Opportunity in eye-smiting letters for the unafraid manufacturer of worthy goods we don't know our orthography.

A year from now many a Fabian businessman will look backward and regretfully wonder how he missed it.

The whole history of Business is golden testimony to the truth that in times like these the seeds of future growth and greatness are most fruitfully and most enduringly sown.

Even now, in almost every line, the businesses that are heeding this lesson by working instead of wishing are depression-proof and flourishing like the green bay tree!

THE SATURDAY EVENING POST feels kinship with every business that has the vision and the will to prosper.

It offers the deserving advertiser now when needed a privileged entry under matchless sponsorship into the richest, soundest market on earth.

It carries his message straight to the preferred families of America—that hub three-million-strong which turns the taste, thinking, buying of the nation—and fortifies it with the indorsement of its own tested character.

If the facts about your product will make intelligent people want it, our advertising pages can be in all truth designated "Opportunity for Sale"!

The BEST KIND of PHILANTHROPY

The best kind of philanthropy is the kind which makes philanthropy unnecessary.

This is the kind that puts money into circulation, stimulates business, creates jobs, and puts people into those jobs.

Such philanthropy begins at home—through the resumption of normal buying for normal needs on the part of everybody whose income remains steady.

People don't want charity. They want jobs. You can make it possible for them to get these jobs—by resuming your normal buying for your personal and household needs. Steady buying steadies business. Steady business means steadier jobs and more of them.

GRAPE MEN ASK U. S. PROTECTION AGAINST GANGS

Bootleg Rings Threaten Wine Competition.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 19.—[Special]—Attorney General William D. Mitchell disclosed in a written statement today that the department of justice recently conducted an inquiry upon a complaint by a grape dealer in Chicago that racketeers were interfering with interstate shipments of his product.

At the same time it was reported that a direct plea for protection against gangsters in Chicago and other cities, who are said to have threatened violence if they are not paid a tribute upon grape wine concentrate, has been laid before Assistant Attorney General John Lord O'Brian. The attorney general, however, stated that he "knows nothing" about the complaint laid before O'Brian, who today was out of the city.

Dealer Complains of Threat.

"The attorney general knows nothing whatever about whether grape growers have filed any complaint with Mr. O'Brian," said the statement issued by Mr. Mitchell. "The attorney general does know that some weeks ago a resident of Chicago, not a grape grower but a dealer, made complaint about racketeers interfering with his shipments, and an inquiry was begun, but the complaint was withdrawn and the matter dropped some time ago."

Although the attorney general disclaimed knowledge of the complaints laid before Mr. O'Brian, these were described as considerably more serious than the complain mentioned by Mr. Mitchell.

Blames Threats on Capone.

The department of justice disclosures came on the heels of, and apparently confirmed in part, an announcement by Donald D. Conn, managing director of Fruit Industries and of the California Vineyardist association, that he had appealed to Washington for protection against gang threats. Word from Chicago has been that Al Capone, king of the booze racket, told the Californians that if they came into market "somebody is going to be bumped off." It is said that the fruit industries, which now is engaged in a selling campaign in Milwaukee, expects to go to Chicago next.

The disclosures also lent strength to the evidence that the federal government through several agencies is actively aiding and abetting the grape interests in placing the ingredients for real, kicking wine into the homes of the country.

Through a $14,000,000 loan commitment to the California grape control board, the federal farm board has indirectly backed the wine campaign. The enforcement agencies have taken no steps whatever to interfere with it and California prohibition administrators have issued a permit for a new wine tonic. Beyond this, it now is revealed that the department of justice apparently is ready to furnish protection from gangsters.

Amos W. W. Woodcock, the present prohibition director, has never directly sanctioned the grape juice concentrate sales. He has said, however, that "intent" to violate the prohibition law must be proved before any arrests can be made.

Woodcock Reassures Grape Men.

The new wine juice interests seemed for a time today to have suffered a setback when it was revealed that Mr. Woodcock had put his approval on the action of St. Louis agents in raiding a grape juice store where juice was obtained which later developed a real kicking alcoholic content. Mr. Woodcock, however, hastened to explain that the St. Louis case stood out because of its own peculiarities, and his approval of the agents' raid was not to be taken as indication of any policy toward the sale of fruit juices for home making of wine which might not be intoxicating in fact.

In this particular case, Col. Woodcock said, the question of "intent" was to his mind, clearly shown. The agents bought the juice and were instructed by the vendor how to process it to make "real" wine.

WICKERSHAM WIRES W. C. T. U. HIS BOARD IS STILL DEBATING

Houston, Tex., Nov. 19.—(AP)—Mrs. Ida B. Wise Smith of Des Moines, Ia., vice president of the National Woman's Christian Temperance union, today read before the union's 56th annual convention here the following telegram from George W. Wickersham, chairman of the Hoover law enforcement commission:

"Referring to your telegram of the 16th, the press dispatches you mention are built on surmise, like many other statements regarding the work of this commission published from time to time. The commission has reached no permanent conclusions. Tentative conclusions are all subject to revision at any time before final report is made and sent to the President. It is unfortunate newspapers insist on constantly publishing surmises of our conclusions. GEORGE WICKERSHAM."

Mr. Wickersham's wire was in answer to one sent by the convention, advising the chairman of its enthusiastic reception of advices saying the commission had discarded repeal and 4 per cent beer as solutions of the prohibition problem.

U. S. BARES THREE MILLION STOLEN PROPERTY RING

New York, Nov. 19.—(AP)—Minnesota's twin cities—Minneapolis and St. Paul—were pictured today in a federal indictment and by detectives as the funnel through which poured in recent months $3,000,000 in securities stolen all over the United States.

James A. Connolly, Minnesota broker and former police reporter, who was acquitted in 1922 of disposing of $1,200,000 loot of Gerald Chapman's New York mail truck holdup, was named as the manipulator of the funnel in an indictment opened today after arrangements had been completed with Connolly to come to New York and stand trial.

It charges he sold securities to two New York brokerage houses knowing they "were stolen property."

Among the robberies in which securities were taken and which form the basis for the indictment and investigation were those of banks at Black Earth, Wis.; Cherokee, Ia.; chairman of the house committee inlac, Mich., and the robbery of a private home in Chicago.

EVANSTON AND OAK PARK NOW IN WET RANKS

With official figures for the country towns of Cook county made available by County Clerk Sweitzer yesterday it became known that the so-called dry suburbs such as Evanston and Oak Park voted with the wets in the state prohibiton referendum on Nov. 4.

Evanston voted 8,016 to 6,091 for repeal of the 18th amendment, 8,337 to 4,589 for modification of the Volstead act, and 7,666 to 5,469 for repeal of the state prohibition law.

Oak Park voted 10,284 to 6,607 for repeal of the 18th amendment, 10,571 to 5,503 for modification of the Volstead act, and 9,748 to 6,503 for repeal of the Illinois dry law.

ELECTIONS POINT DRY LAW REMEDY, MRS. SABIN SAYS

New York, Nov. 19.—[Special.]—The recent elections prove that by political action the eighteenth amendment can be removed from the constitution and that prohibition will be the supreme issue in 1932, Mrs. Charles H. Sabin, national chairman of the women's organization for national prohibition reform, told more than 800 women at the "victory luncheon" at the Hotel Astor today. The luncheon was to celebrate the anti-prohibition gains in the elections.

"Step by step," she said, "the people have come to understand that amendments of the Volstead act, mere devices to circumvent the eighteenth amendment, would in the long run be futile. Step by step the people have come to understand that the eighteenth amendment is the fountainhead of national prohibition, that a fundamental question of government is involved, and that there can be no cure for the evils of today until the fearful mistake involved in inserting the amendment into the constitution is corrected.

Repeal Is Made Paramount.

"'Repeal' or 'no repeal' has become the issue. The recent elections in such states as Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New York, New Jersey, Ohio, and Illinois demonstrate this conclusively.

"As we examine the results this thing stands out very clearly: Of all the questions confronting the American people, prohibition is paramount.

"I am not saying that the repeal of the amendment is to be inaugurated in the congress elected on Nov. 4. The advocates of repeal will not be strong enough in this congress. However, the strength of the repealists, as compared with that in the present congress, has been increased by seventy members in the house and four in the senate, making it perfectly apparent that the thing can be done."

"Temperance," Says Mrs. Belmont.

Mrs. August Belmont said that "temperance is the issue, and it is a moral issue; prohibition is not." She said that the women's reform group agreed in principle with the prohibitionists, believing in temperance.

"But we disagree with them as to the method of achieving the result," she continued. "We agree with the President, prohibition was 'a noble experiment.' But how can we call it a success when we see rum, racketeering and rebellion on all sides? I believe that prohibition does not and cannot produce temperance in the United States. That is why I am against it.

"When scientists find that an experiment does not produce the hoped for result, they scrap that experiment and try another. I think it disgraceful that when the world is in a period of economic readjustment and we are in the midst of a national unemployment crisis prohibition is the main political topic in this country. We must clean house and get rid of prohibition."

F. S. McBride's Brother Is Committed to Asylum

Carrollton, O., Nov. 19.—(AP)—Emmett McBride, brother of F. Scott McBride, head of the Anti-Saloon League of America, was ordered committed to the Massillon State hospital for the insane when arraigned here today on a charge of issuing fradulent checks. McBride was returned here from Washington, D. C., several weeks ago.

SEIZE SPEEDBOAT AND ITS $40,000 CARGO OF LIQUOR

New York, Nov. 19.—[Special.]—Coast guardsmen brought into the barge office today a forty foot speedboat, seized with three prisoners and a cargo of liquor valued at $40,000, and the story of how another rum boat escaped them by jettisoning its cargo.

The seized craft is the Chihuahua, which surrendered in Raritan bay to the coast guard patrol boat CG-2291, which overhauled her without a chase. The crew of three surrendered.

The name of the boat that escaped is not known, but she was sighted loaded to the gunwales with suspicious looking cases in the Narrows hugging the shadow of a large vessel to escape detection.

When those aboard the rum craft realized that they were seen by the cutter, they turned her nose up the bay. The cutter gave chase and was gaining on the rum vessel until those aboard the speedboat began throwing case after case of liquor overboard.

As the load was lightened the speed of the fleeing boat increased and the rum craft pulled away from its pursuer.

Caught in Storm Off Newfoundland.

relief when the smoke of the Mauretania showed over the horizon."

535 SAVED OFF PORTUGAL

LISBON, Portugal, Nov. 19.—(AP)—The ship Highland Hope was stuck fast in the treacherous rocks not far from the village of Peniche tonight, while the sea broke her to pieces. The 535 men and women taken off her just after dawn today were safe in hotels here.

She had lost her course in a heavy fog and at 5 o'clock this morning ran on the rocks with an impact which shook the passengers out of their bunks. Lifeboats were lowered quickly, S O S signals screamed through the air, and the officers and crew stood by until the last passenger was safely away.

Passenger Tells Story.

"Two Spanish emigrants, one of them a child of 4, represented the total casualties of the wreck. They were reported missing and it is feared they drowned."

J. H. Mackay, on his way to Rio de Janeiro in the Highland Hope, was one of the trainload of castaways brought here this evening.

"That first shock, when the vessel struck, threw me out of bed," he said. "I ran up to the decks, which were already crowded, and saw the ship's bow was fast on the rocks. Women were running about in hysterics, shivering in their night clothes.

"The ship seemed to work herself loose from the rocks, then a sea picked her up and threw her aground again. The men were getting the boats over and the women piled in. One boat was shoving off when some Spanish emigrants, panicstricken, jumped in and the boat tipped over. I was in it.

"Six of us struck out, while the crew saved the others. We swam half a mile until a fishing boat picked us up. All the time the ship's siren was screeching and fishing boats were all about us. Our rescuers bundled us up in warm clothes and gave us brandy and put us ashore at Peniche."

Duchess, Aged 76, Saved.

One of the hardiest of the passengers was the 76 year old duchess of Hamilton, who was bound for Buenos Aires. She was generous in her praise for the Highland Hope's officers and crew.

The Highland Hope was en route from London to Buenos Aires with 135 first class passengers, including many representatives of British business houses on their way to Buenos Aires for the British trade exposition to be opened next year. There were a number of Spanish emigrants to South America, and a crew of 149.

Five Drown in Sea Collision.

ANTWERP, Belgium, Nov. 19.—(AP)—Five seamen drowned tonight in a collision of the British steamers Continental Freighter and Hebble during a storm in Antwerp roads. The Continental Freighter sank.

The victims were members of the crew of the sunken ship, from which five others, including Capt. Scott, were saved.

Fear for Swedish Ship.

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Nov. 19.—(AP)—Considerable fear is entertained here for the Swedish steamer Tanja of 715 tons, which may have sunk in the south Baltic.

Nothing has been heard of the vessel since it left Danzig ten days ago. The Tanja participated in the Nobile relief expedition in the summer of 1928.

POSTMASTER ADMITS WRITING INSURANCE ON POSTAL BUILDINGS

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 19.—(AP)—An admission that he solicited and wrote $830,000 of insurance on the St. Paul commercial postoffice station, owned by a Chicago firm, was made by Postmaster Charles J. Moos, St. Paul, at the concluding hearing late today of the special senate committee investigating postal leases.

Moos said that he became vice president of the W. B. Joyce company, St. Paul insurance agency, in 1925, which postal regulations permitted him to do. Thereafter he obtained a contract from the Chicago firm which owned the St. Paul commercial station, in negotiations with Jacob Kulp, head of the concern, writing fire insurance and a $330,000 tornado policy.

The insurance remained in force until in the fall of 1929 when the government took possession of the building in condemnation proceedings after a federal grand jury had charged that the noncancellable lease for the building was "tainted with fraud," and that its total value was not more than $290,000, although the postoffice department paid $120,000 annual rental.

Moos also admitted that he had solicited and written insurance on two other leased stations in St. Paul, the St. Clair and industrial stations, owned by Twin Cities Properties, Inc., of St. Louis, but could not recollect the amount.

The committee, represented by Senator John J. Blaine [Rep., Wis.], its chairman, concluded its hearing after taking testimony dealing with the history of all St. Paul postal leases and the parcel post station in Minneapolis. He said hearings are not contemplated at any other point until a meeting of the committee is called in Washington in December.

HINDU CHARGES BRITAIN TREATS INDIA LIKE A COW

"Only Interest Is Fresh Supplies of Milk."

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 19.—A stinging reply to Lord Peel's speech yesterday, in which he denied, in behalf of the British Tory party, India's claim to dominion status, was made at the round table conference today by Dr. B. S. Moonje, Hindu leader. Dr. Moonje's speech was totally different from the one he had prepared two weeks ago, when he was in a conciliatory mood. He sat up all last night reviewing the speech, which became a reply to Lord Peel and an ultimatum to Great Britain.

A Master and His Cow.

Dr. Moonje declared the devotion of the British civil servants to India was the same as the devotion of a villager to his cow so he might have an ample supply of fresh milk every morning. He pointed out how British shipping was subsidized against Indian shipping, thus constituting a monopoly, and he told how British goods were forced on India by preferential duties.

Replying to Lord Peel's statement that India's aspiration to dominion status was not immediately practical, Dr. Moonje said:

"I have not yet known any British statesman to say: 'I will take time by the forelock and be an exception to this rule of the British being always five minutes too late and doing a thing when all the grace was out of it.' We are not here to ask whether the British government is going to give us dominion status or not. We have come here as a mark of a long standing friendship to tell the British people frankly and sincerely what India thinks."

Tells of Indian Suffering.

Dr. Moonje then gave a striking recital of the suffering of the Indian people. He quoted from the book of an English woman, Miss Madeleine Slade, daughter of an English admiral, who has become a disciple of Mahatma Gandhi. The book describes almost unbelievable stories of punishment inflicted on the Indians by the police. One passage quoted by Dr. Moonje described the following punishments:

"Lathi blows on the head, chest, and joints; stripping of men before they are beaten; dragging of wounded men into thorn hedges or salt water; riding of horses over men as they lie on the ground."

"India wants to be a dominion within the British empire," Dr. Moonje declared. "I want to be as free in my country as an Englishman is in England, as a Canadian is in Canada, or as an Australian is in Australia."

Dr. Moonje was backed up in a long, rambling, excited speech by Muhammed Ali, a leader of Moslem opinion in India. He also attacked Lord Peel.

KEEP Your Child in School This Winter!

Let This New Antiseptic Discovery Keep Him Safe from Colds, Throat Infections and Complications!

Winter sees much sickness—the spread of much infection. Every child attending school is exposed to infection from others. The mouth and nose are the parts of the body most liable. The guarding of these parts is the guarding of health as a whole. Put your child on the safe side. Adopt the ounce of prevention rather than the pound of cure. There is nothing better you can do than have your child rinse his mouth and throat every morning and night with a solution of McKesson's Extol and water.

Higher in Germicidal Value Higher in Penetration

Extol is the amazing new antiseptic mouth wash and throat gargle that is revolutionizing all standards of germicidal efficiency. It was recently perfected by one of the world's largest pharmaceutical houses. It kills germs faster than any other mouth wash ever known—so fast it is called the "10-second germicide." One minute of gargling with Extol beats hours with any other preparation. It is so highly germicidal that diluted even 1 to 3 is more efficient than any ordinary mouth wash used straight. Also it is highly penetrating! This is important, for an antiseptic, to be effective, must penetrate the folds and crevices in the mouth and throat; also the mucous membrane, so it can reach the hidden germs and underneath the outer layer of mucosa. In other words, Extol reaches the hidden germs that other antiseptics miss.

Delightful to Use

Used as a preventive measure, Extol will guard against colds, sore throat and other infections. If a head cold or a soreness of the throat has already set in, it will relieve it promptly. It is also an excellent means of keeping the gums and teeth in good condition and the breath sweet and pure. Swift and efficient as it is in action, Extol is utterly harmless. As for flavor and refreshing effect, it makes ordinary mouth washes seem insipid by comparison. And, finally, it is more economical to use. Not only costs less than the average antiseptic, but permitting more liberal dilution, goes much further. All McKesson Service Druggists and all independent drug stores sell Extol. Get a bottle today for the protection of your family—adults as well as children. Note the name, EXTOL—a McKesson & Robbins product.

MONEY WIZARD OF SOUTHLAND GOES TO SMASH

Receiver Asked After 54 Banks Fail.

Horse Cave, Ky., Nov. 19.—The Body of William Virgil Bell, 55, president of the First National bank of Horse Cave, which closed Monday, was found hanging in a barn late today.

Nashville, Tenn., Nov. 19.—[Special.]—Developments today in the affairs of Caldwell & Co., investment banking house, in the wake of whose collapse 54 banks closed or suspended payment, included the filing of a petition for involuntary bankruptcy in the United States District court here.

The petitioners are Dyer county, the Middleford drainage district No. 6 of Weakley county, and R. E. L. Callimore of Weakley county. The petition reads in part that the indebtedness of the company is "stupendous in the aggregate and is scattered through several states," and that "the company in the management of its affairs within the last four months has committed many and additional acts of bankruptcy in switching and handling its securities."

A deputy United States marshal served a subpœna on Rogers Caldwell, president of the company. It is returnable Dec. 9.

Financial Wizard Crashes.

Thus the [illegible]eer of Caldwell, who is only 41 years old, comes to a spectacular end, at least for the time being. The financial dominance he had achieved within the comparative short period of fourteen years has been taken away from him in less than two months.

An idea or what he accomplished is had in the fact that whe.. he organized Caldwell & Co. a year before the United States entered the world war the capitalization was $100,000. When the debacle came the capitalization was $2,000,000, wth resources exceeding $50,000,000.

So confident was Caldwell of the stability of his enterprises that recently he was planning to make Nashville the financial capital of the south, and perhaps independent of New York.

Lived Like a Prince.

Not only did Caldwell dominate the field of finance; he had become a figurt to be reckoned with in politics. He and Mrs. Caldwell were entrenched socially, entertaining lavishly at their 300 acre estate known as Brentwood house. He developed a racing stable of more than sixty thoroughbreds. This racing stable is to be sold at auction Dec. 2.

The beginning of Caldwell's financial collapse apparently dates from September, when a state bank examination of a subsidiary of his company, the Bank of Tennessee, caused the authorities to require a deposit of $3,840,000 in securities to cover liabilities. Incidentally, the attorney general of Tennessee now announces these securities are missing.

A month later the Bank of Tennessee went into receivership. But before that a committee of Nashville bankers had been appointed, with the sanction of Eugene R. Black, governor of the Sixth Federal Reserve bank, to administer the affairs of Caldwell & Co. Within a week the Holston-Union National bank of Knoxville, in which Caldwell owned a minority interest, closed. Other bank failures followed not only in Tennessee but in Arkansas, Kentucky, and Missouri.

Mrs. Jessie Wibly Wins Separation and Alimony

Mrs. Jessie Wibly, 1925 Winnemac avenue, yesterday won a separate maintenance decree and alimony of $125 a month from James H. Wibly, an official of a piano manufacturing company who lives at the Illinois Athletic club. The decree was granted by Superior Judge Lewis on grounds of desertion.

Schacht Sees War Barriers Reducing Trade of World

As an aftermath of the war that ended in 1918, the world now has the most formidable barriers to international trade that were ever known. This message was delivered to 300 members of the Bankers' club of Chicago last night by Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, former president of the German Reichsbank.

Following the war, Dr. Schacht said, new tendencies in world business developed, aided by political theories and management that were alien to trade as it had been conducted in pre-war days.

Because the colored races had all been drawn into the war, he asserted, they had lost the respect they held for Europeans and were now in a constant state of revolutionary ferment. Russia, once a market, by political changes had been eliminated, or nearly so, from international trade, he added.

Cuts Trade in Half.

The result, he declared, of these tendencies and of the desire for every country to tie patriotism to trading at home, was that international trade now was only half what it would have been without the war and the aftermath of dissension. The European nations were pointed to as the losers, with Japan and the United States getting all the benefits from the post-war readjustments in trading, and the United States and France all the advantages of the shifts in financial power.

In discussing the reparations plans, the German banker asserted that never before in history had a conquering force first taken from the vanquished all that they had in colonies and collectible wealth and then demanded that the conquered people work for fifty-eight years to pay still more. This, he said, was the present German situation, and he saw no way in which reparations payments could be made unless the creditors granted Germany some of their foreign markets.

The reparations payments so far, flowing into France and the United States finally, had produced such great concentration of gold, in Dr. Schacht's opinion, that interest rates were disturbed too frequently.

Finds Government to Blame.

He also criticized the dependence that was being placed on governments for changes in business that were formerly regarded as strictly individual. Italy, he said, had decreed that no more German pencils should be used in Italian schools; Great Britain had gone into credit insurance; German political units into banking ventures of their own, and a number of nations into the business of relieving unemployment. All these he looked upon as disturbing to world trade. His final plea was for the United States to use its new found financial power for the benefit of the whole world.

Dr. Schacht was introduced by Melvin A. Traylor, president of the First National bank. The announcement of the election of John E. Blunt as president of the Bankers' club, and of Lucius Teter as vice president, was made at the dinner.

BELASCO BETTER; DOCTORS EXPECT AN EARLY CRISIS

New York, Nov. 19.—[Special.]—David Belasco's condition was "slightly improved" this afternoon it was announced by his physician, Dr. Jerome B. Wagner, at the Hotel Gladstone, where the 77 year old producer is ill with lobar pneumonia.

"The condition of the patient is slightly improved. He rested comfortably all morning. His temperature is 100.2; his pulse is 90 and of good quality. We look for the crisis today, tomorrow, or the next day. He is very fatigued and did not discuss last night's opening of his play."

FLUSH KIDNEYS DAILY BY DRINKING 6 GLASSES WATER

Plain water best diuretic. Add a spoonful Jad Salts to first glass before breakfast to clear intestines of poisons that may pass from intestinal tract to kidneys and invite trouble.

If you have miserable pains in your back, or strained feeling, don't jump to the conclusion that you have a bad kidney ailment and start dosing yourself with a lot of medicine. Plain water is the best diuretic—the best flusher of the kidneys you can find.

Drink a full glass one-half hour before breakfast to which you've added a spoonful of ordinary Jad Salts. The water will flush the kidneys. The Jad Salts will cleanse the intestines of the dangerous toxins of Systemic Poisoning which are probably the real cause of those back pains.

According to recent discoveries of able men of science, these toxins frequently pass from the lower intestines to the kidneys, causing pus formations and pain—and inviting trouble. Get them out of your system and chances are, those pains you've diagnosed as "kidney pains" will go like magic. You'll feel a general easing up, less of that horribly tired and strained feeling at your back. You'll feel more snappy and alert than perhaps for years.

You can get the Jad Salts at any corner drug store. Just ask for ordinary Jad Salts. Take as suggested above. Also drink two glasses of plain water between every two meals and at bedtime. Then if your "kidney pains" are not completely gone in six days or less, see a good doctor. Try this simple way today. You'll be glad that you did.

ARMY EFFICIENT AS SUMMERALL RETIRES AS HEAD

Modern Weapons Ready for Active Use.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 19.—[Special.]—Reorganizations effected in the infantry, cavalry, and artillery have given this country its best organized army since the armistice, Gen. Charles P. Summerall, army chief of staff, said today.

According to Gen. Summerall, who concludes a four year term as chief of staff tomorrow, the striking power of the army has been greatly increased in recent years to meet the demands of modern warfare. By the introduction of a greater number of machine guns, automatic rifles, and other rapid fire weapons into the combat branches the fire power of the cavalry and artillery has been doubled, Gen. Summerall said.

Personnel and Morale Bettered.

Improvements made in the welfare of the army, tactical developments in combat training, and changes in army administration to increase the responsibilities of corps commanders were cited today by Gen. Summerall as among the most important developments of his term of office. During the régime of Gen. Summerall the army ration was improved, soldiers were given better housing and clothing and less fatigue duty.

As the foremost advocate of introducing fighting machines and motors into the army wherever practical, Gen. Summerall is responsible for the establishment of the army's first permanent mechanized force at Fort Eustis, Va., a few weeks ago. In his opinion this force of 500 men should be expanded to a division as rapidly as possible. He would base its fighting machines on the Christie tank and chassis, developed by a civilian.

New Weapons Tested Out.

"We today have a number of new weapons ready for incorporation into the army as soon as finances permit," Gen. Summerall said. "We have solved the combat tank problem, developed three semi-automatic shoulder rifles, any one of which could be adopted as standard at once; worked out an all around field of fire field gun for the artillery which can be fired at aerial or ground targets and registered big improvements in other weapons.

"For many years we have sought for a fast, hard shooting, sturdy tank which could be used as the backbone of a mechanized force. We have found the answer in the Christie light tank."

ROYALTY TILTS WITH U. S. LAW OVER NECKLACE

Leopold Hapsburg on Trial in New York.

BY TOM PETTEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 19.—[Special.]—Leopold Hapsburg, archduke of Austria; 255 carats of canary colored diamonds that are alleged to have grouped themselves together to compose the historical Napoleon necklace, a grand duchess who has an idea she has been bilked, and a 5th avenue jeweler who lost $10,000 and picked up a lot of trouble occupied the attention of Judge A. A. Bertini and a jury here today.

The scion of the Hapsburgs, who confesses to having frittered away his time as a Park avenue sausage salesman while awaiting a turn in the tide of democracy and a throne vacancy in Europe, was on trial charged with grand larceny in connection with the sale to a New York jeweler for $60,000 of the $400,000 necklace belonging to his aunt, the Archduchess Maria Theresa. The necklace originally was the gift of Napoleon to his wife, the Empress Maria Louise, upon the birth of their son, L'Aiglon, in 1811.

Royal Connection Disputed.

The archduke has been in and out of jail on $7,500 bail since his unfortunate entry into the gem commission business last April.

The high note of the first day of the royal tilt with common law lingered on the antecedents of Leopold Hapsburg.

"Of course the aged archduchess is his aunt," averred Jacob Gilman, the archduke's counsel, adding impressively that "under certain circumstances Archduke Leopold would be entitled to the Austrian throne."

The stenographer who once took a statement from the archduke was called in to read the archduke's own version of his royalty. It developed that Leopold was evasive. He was quoted as having remarked:

"Any Hapsburg has the right to the title of archduke and the right to take his chance at the throne."

Alleged Sale Described.

A picture of the archduke haggling over the sale value of the necklace and finally selling it for $60,000 and then splitting proceeds with Charles L. Townsend, Townsend's wife, and a "Miss Smith," was drawn by the prosecutor. It was "Miss Smith's" first entry into the case.

David L. Mitchell, the jeweler, testified he purchased the necklace for its intrinsic value. The trade was made, he said, with the understanding that the archduke could h[ave] the setting and return it to his aunt so "that she might put paste diamonds in it and present it to a museum."

"Where is the necklace now?" asked the court.

"I sold it back to the archduchess for $50,000 and took a $10,000 loss besides getting into all this trouble," said the jeweler.

Ex-President Angry at Receipt of Writ.

BY HAROLD TATAM.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, Nov. 19.—Ex-President Hipolito Yrigoyen evinced furious annoyance today when he was informed that he would be tried as a common delinquent and his property would be attached. He also flatly refused to acknowledge the trial writ by signing the usual certificate.

The court official who boarded the cruiser Buenos Aires, on which the former president has been held since he was deposed last September, was compelled to read the official writ aloud in the presence of two of the ship's officers.

Reveal Bankruptcy Peril

That Señor Yrigoyen carried the country to the verge of bankruptcy—possibly by a margin of only a few days—when he was overthrown, was revealed by Minister of the Interior Sanchez Sorondo in a speech at La Plata in which he outlined the provisional government's accomplishments and its future program.

The speech was delivered on the occasion of the celebration of the 48th anniversary of the foundation of the city of La Plata. Señor Sorondo reiterated the government's intention to call congressional elections as soon as possible and to submit to the new congress constitutional reforms which it considers necessary.

Luis to Go in Exile.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SAO PAULO, Brazil, Nov. 19.—It is reported here that former President Washington Luis will leave Rio de Janeiro tomorrow on the steamer Alcantara. His destination is Lisbon, Portugal. He is going under a banishment order, according to advices from Rio.

Bare Leguia Escape Plot.

LIMA, Peru, Nov. 19.—(AP)—Peruvian authorities are investigating charges that three employés of the Lima penitentiary had organized a scheme to assist in the escape of former President Leguia now being held for trial.

A tailor, a shoemaker and a prison guard were said to be involved. The perfect said that a woman had denounced the three who have been arrested.

West Garrett Road—six months ago was an almost impassable country lane; a month ago, an improved street lying out of the regular course of traffic.

West Garrett Road—October 23rd, when a page advertisement in The Evening Bulletin announced the opening of the West Garrett Market to Philadelphia housewives. More than 50,000 people thronged the store on Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

throng opening of West Garrett Market

THE SPRINGFIELD REAL ESTATE CO.
610 COMMERCIAL TRUST BUILDING
PHILADELPHIA

The Evening Bulletin,
Philadelphia.

Gentlemen:

You have reason to be justly proud of the advertising power of The Evening Bulletin.

We advertised the opening of the West Garrett Market, Garrett Roads—one block west of Market Street Elevated Terminal—in your issue of Thursday, October 23. The opening took place at 12 o'clock noon, that date, and the opening features extended from that time until 11 o'clock Saturday night.

The merchant tenants report to me that during these two and a fraction days, 38,657 people made purchases in the Market.

Hearty congratulations upon the effectiveness of The Bulletin as an advertising medium for merchandising establishments offering good merchandise, reasonably priced, in this preferred location and preferred shopping centre, with its twenty-one transportation lines converging from every direction.

Yours very truly,
A. M. TAYLOR,
President.

ON THURSDAY, October 23, at noon, West Garrett Market, on West Garrett Road, opened its doors for the first time.

The Evening Bulletin carried the opening announcement—a full page on October 23. No other advertising appeared in Philadelphia daily newspapers.

The results were phenomenal. Overnight, a quiet street became a teeming shopping centre. 50,000 shoppers thronged the market during the opening days. From Thursday noon until Saturday closing, 38,657 people made purchases. Traffic police were necessary to regulate the flow of shoppers into the market.

During this period 105,000 lbs. of sugar were sold; 4,344 lbs. of mushrooms; 61,000 oysters; 5,000 chickens; 33,000 lbs. of apples; 19,200 cans of tomato soup; 62,500 bars of soap. Record-breaking sales for a market of this size!

The Market consists of two stores, each with a front entrance: A meat market, and a combination fruit, vegetable, grocery and fish market. A combined selling space of 5,760 square feet. Overall size, 72 feet front by 98 feet in depth.

The Market is located on West Garrett Road, in Philadelphia's fine suburban shopping centre. Up to the opening day, West Garrett Road was out of the regular flow of traffic and out of the beaten path of shoppers . . . making the opening success all the more sensational.

The Evening Bulletin reaches more than ninety per cent. of the homes in Philadelphia and suburbs: 572,600 homes; 555,711 daily circulation almost entirely in this area.

Its coverage is greater, and its advertising cost lower than offered in any other metropolitan market in America.

ILLINOIS' EGYPT BARELY TOUCHED BY DEPRESSION

Factories Run Full Blast; Farms Absorb Idle.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Flora, Ill., Nov. 19.—[Special.]—Egypt, which was hardest hit by the drought, is now reported by the unemployment surveyors to be in better economic shape than the rest of Illinois. Indeed, they declare southern Illinois is perhaps better off at present than any like area in the whole United States.

Roughly, the region has about one-eighth the population and one-third the area of the state. The Egyptian branch of Gov. Emmerson's unemployment commission is composed of Walter W. Williams of Benton, Democratic university trustee elect; Verne E. Joy of Centralia and Robert S. Jones of Anna, field secretary of the Illinois chamber of commerce.

What Canvass Indicates.

Mr. Jones, an Egyptian born and bred, says the canvass so far indicates the following:

1. All communities so far surveyed declared they are able to take care of their relief problems without aid from outside, except for a few deserted mining villages.

2. In the cities many unemployed are being absorbed by the farms.

3. In the mining regions, where slackness has been of long standing, pay rolls are larger than in the last two or three years.

4. Small industries in many cities are going full time.

5. Fine weather has expanded the season for outdoor work, keeping men employed on road building.

6. In the oil fields, the refineries are keeping their forces working.

7. As for the drought smitten farmers, the loss of corn scorched on the uplands, is offset in general by crops in the bottom lands, which in some other years have been a washout from floods.

8. Pastures are green, soy beans and cow peas grew luxuriantly, forage, generally speaking, is well distributed and herds are sleek.

Gather Data from Towns.

As yet the East St. Louis region, the largest industrial center outside of the Chicago district, has not yet been surveyed. It is reported to be in similar condition to industrial centers in northern Illinois and elsewhere.

In painting his picture of Egypt, Mr. Jones gathered his material from tours of all the counties—he is traveling all the time, that being his job. It has already been presented to the governor's employment commission.

"There is no question that Egypt is in the best shape of any region of like size in the United States," said Mr. Jones.

Organizations Coöperate.

"We are now setting up the machinery to take care of conditions, and there are a lot of towns to organize, welding churches, lodges and welfare organizations together. Eight cities are making surveys of unemployed. Every community reports it can take care of its own problem, without help from outside.

"In Centralia, the survey showed only 450 unemployed, despite the fact that a month ago the Illinois Central laid off 800 men. It shows many are being absorbed by the farms. They go back to the farms, where they get sustenance at any rate.

"Over on the Wabash, Lawrenceville found only 33 unemployed out of some 8,000 population. The refinery, which employs 1,500, is going right along. In Mount Vernon unemployment is found less than many expected.

"Belleville, in St. Clair county, one of our oldest towns, has had more construction work this season than in the rest of the region south of that city to Cairo. In Centralia, building operations equaled or exceeded those of Belleville.

"Here in Flora, we have a furniture factory that is running night shifts. It has just opened up an addition. At Mount Vernon, the home of Gov. Emmerson, a textile company has just moved its plant from Bay City, Mich. At Belleville, a new electrical equipment moved in last week from Iowa. Three weeks ago, I had negotiations with six different industrial concerns at one time, all wanting to move into Egypt, for the abundant labor and the fine transportation. In 27 months we located 49 new industries in southern Illinois while 40 others expanded their plants.

Industry Is Thriving.

"You'll find hardly a town now in the region without some industry. Manufacturers are learning we've got a well balanced labor supply and plenty of transportation. We've got a mile of main track for every 4.7 miles of area, as against an average of one mile of track for twelve miles of area for the United States.

"As for the drought, I believe Egypt produced more marketable corn than last year, when it was soft. The bottoms had good corn. The peach crop was a failure, apples were fair, strawberries were fine, pastures are green, herds are sleek, forage crops were good, and the farmer was not as hard hit as some imagined."

HOME STUDY SCHOOLS IN BIG UNIVERSITIES PRONOUNCED 'QUACKS'

New York, Nov. 19.—[Special.]—Correspondence and home study schools of large American universities, particularly those of Columbia, Chicago, and Wisconsin universities, are denounced as "centers of quackery" by Dr. Abraham Flexner, formerly a director of the General Education board, in his new book, "Universities—American, English, German," just published.

Dr. Flexner spares neither of the institutions from which he was graduated, Johns Hopkins and Harvard, but he makes amends by ranking them far above institutions with correspondence and home study courses and huge enrollments. Dr. Flexner even charges that the student enrollments of Columbia and other large universities are padded.

Dr. Flexner discounts the value of schools of domestic science and maintains that undergraduate schools of commerce or business such as have long existed at Chicago, Columbia, and elsewhere are "poor substitutes for a sound general college education."

He holds that the country's high schools are places where an increasingly large segment of American youth can get a little "bargain counter" education in almost every conceivable subject and declares that "the schools of New York and Chicago are bedraggled in mire."

"The sort of easy rubbish which may be counted toward an A. B. degree, or the so-called combined degree," Dr. Flexner continues, "passes the limits of credibility. Fifteen 'units' are required for admission to the colleges of the University of Chicago, of which more than one-fourth may be made up of stenography, typewriting, and bookkeeping. Moreover, like Columbia, the University of Chicago is not above competing with the high school of the state by offering correspondence courses of high school grade for matriculation."

ETTELSON SAYS WAY IS CLEAR TO USE BOND MONEY

Appropriated by Voters, Opinion Declares.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

Corporation Counsel Ettelson officially advised President Faherty of the board of local improvements yesterday that the voters' approval of the city bond issues, totaling more than $20,000,000, on Nov. 4 constitutes an appropriation of those funds for the purposes enumerated in the several bond issue ordinances. He based this view on the recent Illinois Supreme court utterance in the expert fee case.

Faherty specifically asked: "Just what is necessary for us to do to make the funds available for the construction of the Ogden avenue improvement?" He further asked whether it is necessary to obtain council approval "or whether the passage of the bond issues by the people is sufficient to appropriate the money."

What the Opinion Says.

"Under the recent decision," reads the corporation counsel's reply, referring to the expert fee case, "this vote of the people constituted an appropriation of the funds thus authorized to be raised by the bond issues for the payment of the city's share of the cost and expense of said respective improvements."

The opinion further says that the vote "constitutes a mandate of the people that cannot be disregarded or in any manner changed by any subsequent action of the city council."

Then the opinion, written by Edward C. Higgins, John G. Drennan, and Carl J. Appell, refers to section No. 3 in each of the bond ordinances, which says that "no part of the proceeds of the bonds hereby authorized shall be expended unless and until there has been an appropriation therefrom duly made by the city council prior to such expenditure stating the specific object or purpose for which the same is to be expended."

"Unnecessary to Consider."

After discussing this subject at some length the opinion says that "it is unnecessary at this time to consider the validity or legal effect of said section No. 3." As a preface to the discussion it says: "Assuming—but not deciding—that it is within the power of the city council to thus reserve to itself to prevent expenditures out of bond funds unless and until the city council shall make further appropriations . . ." Apparently the expert fee decision left the city lawyers uncertain on this point.

The Ettelson opinion does say that if the council has the power to reserve this power, then the council has the "undoubted power to pass such an appropriation ordinance at any time subsequent to the approval of the bond issues by a vote of the people on Nov. 4, 1930."

The opinion intimates that the aldermen will hasten to comply with the mandate of the people, and Mr. Ettelson urged his assistants to hurry out this opinion so that it would be in Faherty's hands before the council meeting next Monday. The opinion advises Faherty to request the city council to pass an appropriation ordinance "at the earliest possible time." This Faherty announced he will do on Monday. He plans to submit an ordinance to the council for its approval of the Ogden avenue improvement, for which the bond issue was $5,460,000.

Go Ahead, Ettelson Says.

But, if the council delays, Ettelson advises Faherty as follows:

"We do not believe that the board of local improvements would thereby be prevented from taking immediate action to carry out the will of the people. We believe the board has ample authority to proceed with the improvement work and make the necessary contracts for labor and material with the understanding that payment for such labor and material would be made after the city council has passed the appropriation ordinance and, of course, after the funds had been made available for such payments."

At another point the opinion says that section No. 3, restricting the expenditure of the bond money until it is appropriated by the council, means only the disbursement of money. Then the opinion adds: "It appears, therefore, that said section No. 3 of the bond ordinance deals only with the paying out or disbursement of money itself and does not attempt to prevent or delay the work authorized and directed by the people."

SIX NATIONS TELL CHINA TO RESCUE 30 MISSIONARIES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PEIPING, China, Nov. 19.—Heads of foreign legations assembled at Nanking, seat of the Nationalist government, are vigorously demanding that China rescue thirty missionaries of six nations held captive by communist armies in four provinces along the Yangtze river. Despite the pledge of the Nanking government to wipe out the bandit armies, no progress has been made.

An Irish missionary, Father Cornelius Tierney, superior of a mission at Kienchang, is the latest foreigner to fall into the hands of bandits. Father Tierney was ordained in Omaha, Neb.

Bandits continue to harass foreign shipping on the Yangtze. Vessels are being attacked daily. President Chiang Kai-shek has responded to foreign protests by stating he will personally lead his troops against the bandit hordes.

Today's reports, forwarded to British and American ministers at Nanking, tell of heavy firing upon the American gunboat Tutuilla by field pieces near Yochow. A Standard Oil lighter was also heavily attacked by trench mortars a few miles upstream. Americans suffered no casualties.

SEN. GLENN NOW HAS PATRONAGE MONOPOLY HERE

He'll Select New Federal Job Holders.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 19.—[Special.]—Senator Otis F. Glenn, who as the only Republican senator from Illinois after March 4 next will control all federal patronage in the state, will not attempt to exert his new power until after Senator Charles S. Deneen retires from office Senator Glenn indicated today that while terms of a number of office holders in Illinois already have expired or will shortly, he is contemplating no immediate shake-up.

The election results not only gave Senator Glenn undisputed control over presidential patronage in the state, which is ordinarily allotted to the senators of the party in power, but also gave him control over appointment of postmasters in several congressional districts. The rule is that Republican representatives in congress select postmasters for appointment by the President, but that in districts represented by Democrats this patronage is added to that already controlled by the Republican senators.

Four Districts Change.

The Democrats captured four downstate districts now represented by Republicans. These are the 21st, or Springfield district; the 22d, or East St. Louis district; the 24th district, and the 25th, or Cairo district.

Senator Glenn also will have the appointment of postmasters in two other downstate districts where Democrats continue to hold seats in congress, the 20th and the 23d, and also in the country towns of Cook county in the 3d and 7th districts, both of which lie chiefly in Chicago, which were captured by the Democrats from the Republicans.

So far in his two years in the senate Senator Glenn has had to play second fiddle to Senator Deneen in the matter of patronage. He succeeded in getting a small number of appointments last year. If Ruth Hanna McCormick had betn elected, Senator Glenn as the senior senator from Illinois would have obtained a greater number of appointments, but would have been obliged to share the patronage with her.

Will Aid His Candidacy.

Th increased political power accruing to Senator Glenn by reason of his control of federal patronage is regarded as making it a certainty that he will seek renomination and reëlection in 1932.

It is assumed that if any of the present Deneen incumbents of federal offices in Illinois obtain reappointment it will mean that they thereby pledge allegiance to Senator Glenn and become a part of the Glenn machine.

Early changes, which it is believed may be recommended by Senator Glenn, include the appointment of officials to succeed Postmaster Arthur C. Lueder of Chicago, whose term expired nearly two years ago, and Collector of Internal Revenue Myrtle Tanner Blacklidge of Chicago, whose terms is indefinite. The term of Collector of Customs Anthony Czarnecki of Chicago expired on Aug. 2.

The term of George E. Q. Johnson, district attorney of Chicago, will expire on Feb. 6 next, while that of Henry C. W. Laubenheimer, marshal at Chicago, runs until May 21, 1931.

Congress in this winter's session is likely to enact bills providing for two additional district judges in the Chicago district and at least one downstate, which will further add to the appointments under Senator Glenn's control.

Democrats See Chance to Gain Control of the Illinois House

BY PARKE BROWN.

Still riding on the crest of the wave of jubilation that followed the landslide of Nov. 4, the Democrats began planning yesterday to seize control of the Illinois house of representatives.

Although still the minority party in both houses of the general assembly, Chicago leaders whispered to their associates that enough anti-administration Republicans had offered assistance to insure the election of a Democratic speaker, a victory carrying with it the naming of all committees and committee chairmen.

The only man discussed for the speakership by them was Michael L. Igoe, minority leader for the last two sessions. Representative Igoe is with a party of friends at Biloxi, and, because of mayoralty hopes, it is said, might not welcome the proposal, but proponents of the plan believe they can show him it will make him an outstanding candidate for governor in 1932.

Gains Break All Records.

Final official figures for the state are not complete, but those available show that the Democratic gains in the general assembly this year broke all records except for the period of the Bull Moose catastrophe to the Republican party in Illinois. They gained seven seats in the senate, giving them a total of 18 to the Republicans' 33, a figure unprecedented except for 1912, Bull Moose year.

But their gain in the house was even greater because it brought them within striking distance of a majority. By winning ten new seats—according to the unofficial figures—they now claim a total of 72 out of the total of 153, or only five less than the 77 constituting a majority.

The gain of ten seats broke all records except for 1914, when 24 out of the 26 Progressives elected in 1912 dropped out of sight. But not since the Forty-second assembly, which sat in 1901, have the Democrats had as many as 72 places in the house. From 1880 to 1900 they passed the mark of 72 only four times.

No Speaker for Four Decades.

With the exception of the 1913 session, in which William McKinley of Chicago was elected, they have not had a speaker since 1893—almost four decades—when Clayton E. Crafts for the second time wielded the gavel.

With the count between Republicans and Democrats when the legislature convenes next January standing 81 to 72, it would require defection of only five G. O. P. representatives to elect Igoe if all the Democrats stand fast. The Chicago leaders say they can obtain an even larger number of Republican votes, one of them saying that as many as thirteen are obtainable if they are needed.

The feeling of the Republican rebels is not directed toward the veteran speaker, David E. Shanahan, who in the last session served his fourth term on the rostrum, but entirely at Gov. Emmerson and his administration. The Democrats say that one of the many factors that carried the Democratic landslide through the normally Republican downstate territory was anti-Emmerson feeling in county organizations, and they say the same hostility has been expressed in Republican offers to help the Democrats organize the house.

Patronage Cause of Complaints.

Most of the resentment, it is said, is directed toward the Emmerson policy of handling patronage. The governor has been in office nearly two years, or half his term, and for more than a year complaints among organization leaders on this score have been growing constantly. In addition to the general complaint that Emmerson has not carried out the "spoils to the victor" policy, many of his appointments have been made without regard to factions or political activity and he has failed to reward those who supported him.

If the Democrats, with the aid of disgruntled Republicans in these various groups, should elect Igoe it would be the first time shown by conveniently available records which run back half a century that a minority party has wrested control of the house from the administration.

It is believed that such a situation would have a serious effect on legislation. The veto power could not be wrested from Gov. Emmerson, and some of his friends say that if a two party combination organizes the house against him he will not hesitate to use it, he being that kind of a fighter.

WEST AND SOUTH TO FIGHT LOSS OF CONGRESS SEATS

Seek to Bar Aliens from Reapportionment.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 19.—[Special.]—An alliance between western and southern states hit by the congressional apportionment scheme announced yesterday by President Hoover was in the making today.

The fight is shaping up in the form of an attack upon the inclusion of aliens in population totals in computing congressional representation.

Representative L. J. Dickinson [Rep., Ia.], as spokesman for western agricultural states which would lose house seats, and Representative John E. Rankin [Dem., Miss.] on behalf of southern states, both indicated a willingness to hold the house membership at its present total of 435 provided aliens are eliminated in making the computations.

Both seemed hopeful that action might be obtained in congress during the short session this winter to upset the apportionment plan which will become effective automatically in the absence of further legislation.

While exact figures as to the alien population under the new census are not as yet available, it has been estimated that of the total of about 122,000,000, more than 7,500,000 are aliens.

It was claimed by Representatives Dickinson and Rankin that California, which would gain nine seats in the house under the proposed apportionment, would have its increase cut down by three or four if aliens were not counted.

SENTENCED TO A YEAR.

Christ. S. Minneci, 31 years old, 1409 Grand avenue, yesterday was sentenced to a year in the house of correction by Judge Alfred O. Erickson for practicing law without a license.

STATUS OF EIGHT ALDERMEN TO BE DECIDED DEC. 3

Whether the eight Democratic aldermen elected to other offices on Nov. 4 are to remain in the council and hold both posts until their aldermanic terms expire apparently will not be definitely known until the next regular meeting of the council on Dec. 3.

Anton J. Cermak, Democratic county chairman, said yesterday that he believed the advisable step for the aldermen to take would be to remain in the council until they were legally ousted, He said there was sufficient precedent for the aldermen to hold both their jobs, despite Corporation Counsel Samuel Ettelson's opinion that such action would be illegal and would nullify any act of the council in which the eight aldermen participated.

There is an adjourned meeting of the council on Nov. 24. The status of the eight aldermen, however, will not be affected at that session, since they do not have to qualify for their new office before Dec. 1. On the other hand, at the Dec. 3 meeting the question will be paramount unless a decision is accepted before then.

Burning Stomach Torture 3 Years

Misery Ends Quick with New Prescription, ACIDINE

"For the last three years I have been bothered by food souring, causing a burning sensation, that at times I felt like jumping in the river," says Mr. E. J. Moore, Cincinnati, Ohio. "I tried innumerable medicines, consulted a stomach specialist, but no relief. Finally I heard about ACIDINE and got some. No more burning or sour belching and vomiting, no headaches. ACIDINE is wonderful."

Similar reports from all over rave about this amazing new prescription that succeeds where others fail. The reason is that ACIDINE is entirely different. Contains the marvelous digestant called Japtase. In laboratory experiments Japtase has been tested on certain starchy foods which cause so much stomach distress. It digested 800 times its weight of such foods in only 30 minutes.

Five other ingredients in ACIDINE instantly neutralize burning acid, soothe irritated stomach lining, stop gas and headache from acidity. No other remedy contains this scientific combination to end acid stomach.

Don't risk serious and more painful troubles. Costs only a few cents. Watch how quick acid indigestion, burning stomach, belching, pain, heartburn, fullness, short breath vanish. Eat, drink, and smoke all you want. Results guaranteed. Maker gives money back if not delighted.

You get up in the morning with nostrils stuffed with mucus—you feel lazy—depressed.

Spray for a few seconds with refreshing, soothing, invigorating Opex and in three minutes your head is clear and clean—every bit of mucus is out—you can breathe Nature's pure air thru nostrils free from irritation.

There is nothing in Opex that can harm you—so use it freely night and morning and as many times thru the day as you wish.

Opex is so helpful in Catarrh of long standing—the stubborn kind—that by using Opex faithfully for a month the worst symptoms of this humiliating disease are successfully treated.

Singing and buzzing in ears when caused by Catarrh is lessened—what a blessing.

And here's something that will delight millions of men—after you spray refreshing Opex in nostrils and throat for 3 weeks you won't have that lump of mucus to hawk up in the morning—men have died from the terrible straining.

When you spray Opex you can send the healing, purifying vapor from one nostril through the other (see picture), or from either nostril to the bottom of the lungs and out through the mouth—you can actually see this steamlike smoke coming from nostrils and mouth.

You can always get Opex at any Walgreen Drug Store—a bottle that will last about two months costs but $1.00. If you aren't joyfully satisfied after using it for 30 days—get your money back.

CONDÉ NAST, NAME-GATHERER

JUST WHAT IS THE PUBLISHING BUSINESS?

Before embarking on the publishing business I had thought of periodical publishing as something very grand—even very mysterious. But a little clear thinking led to the conclusion that such a publisher is only a name-gatherer; that the publishing business, analyzed to its basic elements, resolved itself into nothing more nor less than a Name-Brokerage Business.

The publisher fills a certain number of pages with reading matter, drawings, and photographs. He, so to speak, baits his pages with such editorial matter as he believes will attract either a great number of readers, or a specific class of readers. He then offers these pages to the reading public at a price considerably lower than his cost of gathering and manufacturing them.

At this stage of the enterprise, the publisher has no profit —indeed, he has a very considerable loss; but he then turns to the advertisers and merchants of the country, in the manner of a Name-Broker, and says:

"I have gathered together a list of names. Access to these names will enable you to promote your business. I will let you have such access to them. When I am sending my editorial message to these names, I will permit you, for a consideration, to include a page in which you may deliver to them your own message about your merchandise."

I then discovered to my amazement, that among the thousands of periodicals and newspapers published at that time, there wasn't one whose editorial pages were actually so baited as to attract and segregate the key-people of the United States.

Then and there, I determined to offer to the American public editorial pages so baited with reading matter, drawings, and photographs, as to attract and gather into one compact group, the several hundred thousand or more people in this country who were the most cultured, the most traveled, and the most affluent—the people, in short, whose names constitute a list of those likeliest to have the widest variety of wants, and the money with which to gratify them—a "matched pearl" list of names, as it were—which, to my surprise, no other publisher or name-broker had up to that time ever attempted to gather into one list.

How fundamentally sound was this early theorizing, how thoroughly consistent has been the baiting of the editorial pages, is perhaps indicated by the success of VOGUE, VANITY FAIR, and HOUSE & GARDEN as Name-Gathering Magazines. In order to estimate my capacity and success as a Name-Gatherer, I have always—whenever and wherever I could find a list of any group of citizens who had become locally or nationally prominent—made a comparison of these with the names registered on our magazines' subscription lists, to determine how many of them are readers of these periodicals. Here is the latest check.

Checking up on a Name-Gatherer

The most recent comparison of this nature has been the checking of the names of the Board of Directors of the Chase National Bank. This has disclosed the fact that:

The editorial bait offered in VOGUE has been such as to induce 56 of these 82 Chase Board Directors to buy VOGUE—that's a 68% coverage.

The editorial bait offered in VANITY FAIR has been such as to induce 46 of these 82 Directors to take VANITY FAIR—that's a 56% coverage.

The editorial bait offered in HOUSE & GARDEN has been such as to induce 48 of these 82 Directors to take HOUSE & GARDEN—that's a 59% coverage.

In brief, 65 of these 82 Directors, as shown in the list printed here, take regularly one or several of these Nast magazines—that is a total coverage of 80%.

Looking at these periodicals as one group, we discover that the aggregate coverage is amazingly complete—that 150 copies of the Nast magazines go every month of the year into the homes of this outstanding company of 82 Chase Bank Directors.

IF THERE'S ADO AT ARMY, CALL ON CAP WELLS

Goes to Front for West Point.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 19.—In official circles, which is a good name for officialdom, as officials put in a good deal of their time running around in circles, Cappy Wells is known as the intelligence officer of the United States Military academy. He is the man to call up when Congressmen Britten or Congressmen Fish announces that the Army will have to accept the Navy's rules of eligibility for football, apologize to the Naval academy, and resume the old series right away.

"O, yeah?" says he over that old blunderbuss telephone which still is regulation on the post at West Point. "O, yeah? The hell he says. Well, you can write that official circles at West Point had no knowledge of this and that the report was not taken seriously."

A Most Disturbing Laugh.

Then Cappy Wells emits that sound which passes for a chuckle with him, an alarming catching of the breath, as if he had a herring bone stuck crosswise in his neck. Of all the variations of the human laugh that I have heard, from the bull-like bellow to the nanny goat bleat, this distinctive utterance of Cappy Wells, the West Point intelligence officer, or press agent, to put him in a familiar category, is the most disturbing, and whether you are hearing it for the first time or the thousandth, the natural conclusion is that the cap is going to die right away. You grow panicky trying to recall what it was that you read in the book on what to do until the doctor comes as the antidote for fishbone in the neck.

The cap is the fellow the general sends for in a hurry and then sends jumping down river to Broadway when he wants to break up some play about West Point in the public prints. A couple of weeks ago, for instance, when the New York sport pages, and not Grover A. Whalen, started this campaign to raise a million dollars for the unemployed with an Army-Navy football game, the cap came clattering into New York at nightfall, whoaed up his lathering taxi in front of William La Hiff's tavern, where the sport editors take their victuals and such on fight nights at the garden, and stomped into the place all of aflutter.

Just Happened In.

"Say, what," said he with a pretty good effort at nonchalance for a man all out of breath, "say, what is this foolishness about an Army-Navy game this fall? Of course, it's impossible, as you know. Examinations, frozen ground, hard schedule and all that sort of thing. I hope nobody is taking this thing seriously. O, no, the general didn't send me. I just happened to be coming by and something just happened to remind me of some mention of some Army-Navy game this fall. I suppose it's some joke, hey?"

Then he chuckled and Mr. La Hiff's Irish waiters came arunning from nigh and far to bang him on the shoulder blades, an old Irish custom in cases of herring bone.

If I were nominating the one party who has done the best job of putting a big school in right with the public since the schools recognized the importance of propaganda and organized press departments a few years ago I would close the nominations with Cappy Wells. He went up to West Point about four years ago a stranger to the academy, being a ranker himself and a hold-over from the war, to take over the job of endearing the Military academy to the public without truckling to the newspapers, the politicians, or the nuts. The military academy was a cold spot. People didn't know much about it even in New York.

Marries Newspaper Woman.

Somewhere along about here the cap married Jane Dixon and she had been around New York at trials, mass interviews, assassinations, and disasters long enough to become known as one of the best newspaper women in town. Everybody in the business knew Jane, and when she joined the army, so to speak, and moved into an old civil war house on the West Point reservation as the wife of the lowest

Cochran Takes 6th Block to Lead Hoppe, 1,800-884

New York, Nov. 19.—(AP)—Continuing his great play to win the sixth block in succession, 300 to 75, tonight, Welker Cochran of Hollywood, Cal., took a lead of 1,800 to 884 over Willie Hoppe at the halfway mark in their 12 block match for the world's 18.1 balk line billiards championship.

Cochran won the afternoon block today, 300 to 239, ending it with an unfinished run of 33. Tonight he carried the cluster to 84 before he missed. The block went only eight innings, as Cochran made a high run of 100 and wound up with an unfinished run of 75. Hoppe never could get started and had a high run of 19.

The Hollywood star had an average of 37 4-8 for the block to Hoppe's 9 3-8. The grand averages now are: Cochran, 34 32-52; Hoppe, 16 48-52.

AVERY BRUNDAGE CHOSEN HEAD OF OLYMPIC GROUP

A. A. U. and Colleges Heal Breach.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 19.—(AP)—On the scene of the battle of Washington between the Amateur Athletic union and the National Collegiate Athletic association four years ago, the two organizations buried their differences today and unanimously elected Avery Brundage of Chicago, head of the A. A. U., to the presidency of the American Olympic association.

In an atmosphere of harmony and concerted effort that augured well for the success of the United States in the 1932 Olympic games the A. O. A., in quadrennial session, laid the ground work for America's participation at Los Angeles and Lake Placid.

A new constitution, framed with the coöperation of the presidents of the A. A. U. and the N. C. A. A., was adopted without a dissenting voice.

Meeting Is Peaceful.

Unanimity was the keynote of the occasion in striking contrast to the last meeting of the association here in 1926, when the leaders of the N. C. A. A. resigned and walked out of the meeting after a losing battle with the A. A. U.

The A. A. U. got most of the important offices today, but nobody seemed to care. Dr. Charles W. Kennedy of Princeton university, president of the N. C. A. A., was made vice president; Frederick W. Rubin of New York, member of the A. A. U., was reëlected secretary; and George W. Graves of Detroit, another A. A. U. man, was chosen treasurer, all without opposition.

The new constitution presented by Gustavus T. Kirby of New York, as chairman of the constitution revision committee, indicated in detail how much voice the various sport governing bodies in the country will have in conducting American Olympic affairs and was hailed as a distinct advance.

Pass Two-Thirds Rule.

Not even the two-thirds rule, providing for two-thirds instead of a majority on all questions before the association, including the election of officers, produced opposition from the A. A. U. which defeated a similar proposal four years ago in the course of its successful effort to dominate the meeting.

Among the developments of the one day session were: The rejection of an application for membership in the A. O. A. from the Rocky mountain conference on the ground that its colleges permit their athletes to play semi-professional baseball; the admission of the Missouri Valley Intercollegiate Athletic association, and the rejection of an application from the Ohio High School Athletic association because it was felt there is no place in the A. O. A. for a scholastic organization.

ARMY-NAVY GAME TICKETS TO SELL AT DOLLAR A YARD

New York, Nov. 19.—(AP)—Football fans will pay a dollar a yard for seats at the Army-Navy charity game for the unemployed at the Yankee stadium Dec. 13. The scale of ticket prices for the first million dollar football game disclosed today that the customers will pay according to the location of their seats along the sidelines.

Seats on the 10 yard line in the covered stands will sell for $10 each, on the 20 yard line for $20, on the thirty for $30, and both sides of midfield for $50 each. Top prices in the uncovered sections will be $30.

Southern California Expels Half Back with an Alias

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 19.—[Special.]—George Kirkwood, alternate half back for University of Southern California, was expelled from college this afternoon when he admitted that Kirkwood was not his right name, and that he had falsified his entrance requirements. Kirkwood's real name is Spencer Purvis. He played football two years at College of Puget Sound, Tacoma, Wash., and then entered Southern California as a freshman in autumn, 1929.

Hockey Chief Tells of One Business That Is Booming

BY ARCH WARD.

Philosophers say that in every change something is lost, something is gained and something abides.

MAJ. FREDERIC McLAUGHLIN.

Maj. Frederic McLaughlin, owner of the Chicago Blackhawks, is ready to accept the philosophers explanation.

Hockey, the country's fastest growing winter sport, is going through a change in Chicago. We now have two teams. Last year there was only one. Five years ago there was none.

The Blackhawks, Chicago's National league entry, is doing business at the old stand in the old way. Their opening game last Sunday night attracted more than 15,000 paid customers to Chicago Stadium. They expect to play before as many more when they meet the Boston Bruins here tonight.

The Shamrocks, Chicago's new club, is a member of the American Hockey association. They use the same rink as the Blackhawks. The Shamrocks have not opened their home schedule.

Naturally fans are wondering if there is room for two hockey teams in Chicago. Maj. McLaughlin is willing to believe there is. At least he is not worried over the future of the Blackhawks.

"We may lose a few customers," he explained, "and again we may win a great many new ones. We are confident we will hold the most of our old supporters. Folks who like to watch major league hockey will attend the Blackhawks' games.

"We have built up a team that is sure to be a strong title contender. Mind you, we have no outstanding stars like those you find on the Boston, Montreal, and Ottawa teams. But we have something they lack—team play.

"I believe a hockey team should be run like a football, baseball, or polo club. There must be coöperation—team play—for success.

"When I became president of the Blackhawks I knew nothing about this game. I always had pictured hockey players as big, husky men who wielded a heavy stick menacingly. I got the surprise of my life when I first looked over the players we had purchased. They were members of the Portland [Ore.] Rosebuds and were champions in their league the previous season. There were no giants in the group. They looked more like office men than athletes.

"They all had certain things they could do well and other things at which they were weak. I noticed that no effort ever was made to correct defects in their play.

"The first year or two I was in the game managers of the Blackhawks complained that I was interfering too much in the direction of the team. But I was under the impression that was why I had been made president of the club—to see that certain principles of sport were observed.

"I wanted to know why no effort had been made to improve this weakness or that weakness in a player's work. I was told that hockey stars, like opera singers, were temperamental. Suggestions were out of order.

"We finally obtained results. There are no players on the club now who spurn helpful hints. I believe that is the reason our boys last year were able to win consistently from the leading teams in the league.

"We haven't got a ranking star on the club, although some of them are near that classification. But we have a group of comers striving hard to work for one another. You can't go wrong with lads like that. If the Blackhawks were to be sold individually they wouldn't bring a great return, but as a team they are worth their weight in gold."

This is the fifth year of major league hockey in Chicago. It took three years to attract the fans in any great numbers. Several of the stockholders became panicky and disposed of their holdings. But Maj. McLaughlin refused to quit. He increased his investment. Last year the club began to make money and it expects to repeat in a big way this season.

Maj. McLaughlin revealed that a $13,000 crowd is necessary to meet expenses for the Blackhawks' games at Chicago Stadium.

JONES' RETIREMENT.

BOBBY JONES, super-golfer, certainly has earned the right to retire from serious tournament competition. Never before—possibly never again—has any player attained the heights scaled by this young man of 28 years in his fifteen years of senior play. From the viewpoint of competition itself, amateur and open tournaments will become more of a free-for-all. From the viewpoint of wide public interest, they will suffer at first, for Jones had become a world figure in sport.

Jones' action is sound. When he accepted a movie contract he left no vexatious criticism for his confrères of the United States Golf association to answer. This body has been punctilious in its adherence to a code more rigidly observed than those of most amateur governing bodies. Whether or not one sympathizes with the code, it is there. The U. S. G. A. allowed Jones to write on golf conditions which the U. S. L. T. A. would not permit for Bill Tilden. It has not, however, been charged with politics or petty spite. It has been a sane governing body.

Jones is correct that his acceptance of this movie contract is a violation of the spirit, if not the letter, of the amateur golf code. His fee is large. It is too large to refuse for a young man who has gained everything worth while in his favorite sport.

What The Wake always has admired in Jones was his mastery of himself. When younger and impetuous, his temperament was called a barrier to future greatness. He was human enough to throw clubs or even break them in two as some of us dubs have done. He conquered that trait and went on to become the most consistent performer golf ever knew. That's something, too. It no doubt contributed to his later success.

Tickets in Demand.

In our time we have received many requests from friends to help them secure football tickets. Usually such requests are futile, especially if the friend has neglected to order seats until the supply is exhausted. We now have the prize long distance request. It comes from California and wants four seats for the Notre Dame-Southern California game out there Dec. 6. Tickets in Los Angeles are sold out. We just don't happen to have four such seats in our waistcoat pocket.

TEXAN PAYS $350 FOR 4 TICKETS TO N. U.-IRISH GAME

Internal Revenue Men Hot on Heels of Scalpers.

BY FRENCH LANE.

One of the most intense hide and go seek games ever played in Chicago was taking place late yesterday and last night, all because the Notre Dame and Northwestern football teams come together on Saturday afternoon and there is room for only 48,000 customers in Dyche stadium, where the clash occurs.

Ticket scalpers were seeking and selling seats which had a market value of from $25 to $100. People willing to pay the price were on the trail of the scalpers. And Uncle Sam's men from the internal revenue department, headed by Chief Deputy Robert Neely, were hot on the heels of the scalpers.

Price Must Be on Ticket.

The government is entitled to half the excess over the regular price. The selling price should be stamped on each ticket, Deputy Neely believes.

But the tickets were being sold at almost record breaking figures, because there are hundreds of advance visitors here for the game who have become panicky and are ready to pay any price for a seat located between the two goal posts.

The highest price reported paid for tickets yesterday was $350 for four choice seats not far from the 50 yard line. A visitor from Dallas, Tex., made the purchase "somewhere down on La Salle street," he said.

Chicagoans without tickets for the game were finding it cheaper to do some shopping before they bought.

Couthoui's were informing their regular clients last night they could provide seats not far from the 40 yard lines at about $25 each. These tickets had to be called for at the Congress hotel office of the agency. Over in the heart of the loop it was possible to get seats not quite so desirable for $20. They were not to be found in large blocks, however, and were being sold in pairs for the most part.

Price May Jump Tomorrow.

"I don't believe the price will go much higher," the manager of one big agency said, "although some folk may come to town Friday night who will be ready to pay whatever is asked for any sort of a ticket."

Notre Dame backers were everywhere in the loop, particularly in the La Salle street and Board of Trade districts yesterday. The odds flashed up to 2 to 1 with Notre Dame as the favorite. The Northwestern backers were grabbing up many of these commissions, but the Purple support was not of sufficient volume to drive the odds down.

Not many large wagers were reported. The days of $5,000 and $10,000 sports wagers seem to be only history.

Browns Trade Four to Brewers for Catcher Young

St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 19.—(AP)—The St. Louis Browns of the American league have obtained Catcher Russell Young from the Milwaukee club of the American association, it was announced today. In return the Browns have released four players, Catchers Manion and Hungling, Pitcher Holshauser, and Outfielder Metzler to the Milwaukee farm.

Fort Wayne Cagers Sell Dave Banks to Toledo

New York, Nov. 19.—(AP)—Dave Banks, former forward of the Brooklyn Visitations and New York Celtics, has been sold by the Fort Wayne club of the American Basketball league to Toledo, it was announced today.

Notre Dame or Northwestern? Here's Why Each Might Win

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Notre Dame and Northwestern, each undefeated, play Saturday for the western football championship. The victor will have a claim to the national title. Which will win?

These are the reasons why Notre Dame may win:

1. Notre Dame is well balanced, both offensively and defensively. Its players are exceptionally fast; its plays reach the line of scrimmage with rapidity. Carideo is a consistent kicker, better than Bruder and Woodworth, who are erratic in distance. Schwartz and Carideo are superior passers to Bruder, Hanley and Russell. Rentner's loss affects Northwestern's passing more than Savoldi's loss will affect Notre Dame's running attack.

FRANK CARIDEO.

2. Notre Dame is consistent. Notre Dame has been defeated in other years, but not because the team was in a "slump." The team plays to form in all games. It fumbles infrequently and seldom under fire. Al Howard, a third string full back, fumbled on his four yard line at Pittsburgh and presented the Panther with a touchdown. Joe Savoldi fumbled on Southern Methodist's seven yard line in the fourth quarter of the first game of the year with the score tied, 14 to 14. However, Notre Dame came back to win in the last four minutes. No other errors have marred its attack. No team has blocked a Notre Dame kick this year. Wisconsin blocked a Northwestern kick for a touchdown last Saturday.

Carideo Veteran Leader.

3. Notre Dame has veteran leadership. If Carideo was an all-American quarter back last year, he still is an all-American quarter back. His qualifications as a field general do

These are the reasons why Northwestern may defeat Notre Dame:

1. Northwestern has nothing to lose. The team is satisfied to have won the Big Ten title. If it defeats Notre Dame, the greater the honor, but if it loses there will be no criticism. Consequently there will be no mental strain. Notre Dame must win, hence the ensuing strain may cause errors.

FRANK BAKER.

2. Northwestern is playing its final game. Notre Dame has two more contests. Hanley will "shoot the works." All plays and formations will be on tap. There is no reason to hold back.

3. Northwestern's veteran linemen met the Irish attack last year. They know from experience how Notre Dame beat them with running plays directed at the back side of the Irish shift.

4. Northwestern has good reserves for the strategic line positions. Although its reserve strength on the whole does not equal Notre Dame's it has three top notch ends, Baker, Oliphant, and Fencl, and four first class tackles, Riley, Marvil, Engebritsen, and Gonya.

5. Northwestern will play on its own gridiron before a crowd, most of whom will cheer for the Wildcats.

Profits by Savoldi's Absence.

6. Northwestern profits by Savoldi's withdrawal. Mullins has not equaled his 1929 form. Dan Hanley, now second choice at full back, has played in only one game this year, and that against Drake last Saturday. He may be another Savoldi, but he will be handicapped by lack of experience.

Lee Hanley Makes Critics Choke on 'Brother Act' Jibes

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Lee Hanley—there's a kid you've got to hand it to. A guy that kept right on plugging despite unfair jibes about the "Royal Family," "coach's pet," and all the other nasty cracks based on the fact that he is the younger brother of Head Coach Dick Hanley and Assistant Coaches Pat and Mike Hanley of the Northwestern football staff.

For two years Lee lived in the shadow of Brother Dick's authority. His appearance in Wildcat lineups was frequent, but because of the inevitable "brother act" criticism, Dick kept him more or less under wraps. This season, however, Dick, perceiving the kid in his last year of competition and knowing he had the stuff, became less reserved.

Lee Is Leading Ground Gainer.

Dick still didn't build many plays around his brother, although Lee is that kind of player, but this year he didn't lean backward in his effort to show he wasn't partial to his own flesh and blood. The result was that Lee has been one of the star backs of the season and leads the Big Ten champs as a ground gainer, with an average of 5.18 yards per attempt.

Lee has called signals in all the seven straight victories of the Wildcats this season, either from the quarter back or right half back position, and will perform in the latter position against Notre Dame Saturday.

He has played safety man in each game and has been exceptionally strong at catching punts. In addition to being a fine ball toter, a good passer and receiver of passes, and a fair kicker, Lee is a talented defense man, especially on forward passes.

He's Youngest of Five.

The youngest of the five football Hanleys [Harold is the only one who isn't at Northwestern] got his first training through listening to his brothers talk football to the exclusion of almost everything else. He broke in by carrying headguards for the family heroes at Washington State, and had a pretty good technical knowledge of the game when he entered North Central High, at Spokane, Wash.

N. U. PILOT

LEE HANLEY.

Lee played three years at Spokane, during which he regularly won his letter in four sports. In track he set the state prep record for the javelin throw, with a toss of 183 feet. Young Hanley went to Lawrence, Kas., High for his senior year, and lived with Brother Dick, then coach of the Haskell team.

Plays Baseball, Too.

Hanley, in addition to winning his football letter three years at Northwestern, also won his baseball letter on last year's team, playing left field. He was a member of the basketball squad in his sophomore year.

Lee is a senior in the school of commerce and is a member of the Sigma Nu fraternity, like all the other Hanleys, but does not live at the house. He stays at Brother Dick's house and gets football with his meals.

HEAVY PURPLE TEAM INSPIRES ROCKNE GLOOM

But Leahy Returns to Cheer Him Up.

All Time Record

NOTRE DAME and Northwestern have met on the gridiron eight times since 1899. Notre Dame has won six and Northwestern one, the other, in 1903, ending in a scoreless tie. The record of previous games:

| | Notre Dame. | Northwestern. | | Notre Dame. | Northwestern. |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| 1899 | 12 | 0 | 1924 | 13 | 6 |
| 1901 | 0 | 2 | 1925 | 13 | 10 |
| 1903 | 0 | 0 | 1926 | 6 | 0 |
| 1920 | 33 | 7 | 1929 | 26 | 6 |

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

South Bend, Ind., Nov. 19.—Notre Dame's grid forces went back to work this afternoon and their main lesson was on defense against the kind of forward passes Northwestern's big eleven is expected to toss during the important sixty minutes of combat next Saturday.

The passes, when they come, probably will be long, Coach Rockne warned his men, as he instructed regulars, shock troops, and others on how to handle themselves if the anticipated aerial attack is to be kept from becoming fatal to the fighting Irish cause.

Mr. Rockne also cheered up his charges by again reminding them how puny they would be against the Northwestern giants, who, he said, outweigh them more than ten pounds to the man. Rockne also painted other gloomy pictures, but only for effect.

Drills Reserve Full Backs.

If Rockne has any worry about the engagement it is confined to the full back department, the class of which receded considerably when Joe Savoldi quit school. One indication of this is that he is letting his regulars, with Moon Mullins at full back, confine themselves to signal drill and dummy scrimmage against anticipated Purple attacking formations. Another way in which this is evident is the fact that he is giving considerable attention to polishing up both Al Howard and Big Boy Dan Hanley on the niceties of full backing. Mullins is going to be with the regulars at this job Saturday, but it may be necessary to relieve him. He's a fellow easily injured.

In the scrimmage of the second, third and fourth string elevens against various opposition this evening, Hanley was treated to a lot of advice about defense. He never played a varsity game until last Saturday, so naturally has much to learn. Being a giant not lacking in courage, Hanley probably will be shot into the game if Northwestern should develop a line plunging attack. Howard doesn't have enough weight to make himself of value for this particular feature of gridiron toil. Mullins can handle that sort of work flawlessly, but there is that possibility that he might get another whack on the leg such as has kept him idle much of this season.

Frank Leahy Ready to Start.

Frank Leahy was back in action today as a tackle sound of body, and that means the Irish will have some extra help if the going gets tough against the Purple. Leahy, who last year shared a regular job with Donoghue, now with the shock troops, has been out for so long that he almost has been forgotten. He has had a leg injury. If the shock troops start on Saturday, Leahy probably will be at right tackle, which is Donoghue's place. If the regulars start, Leahy will relieve either Culver, a junior, or Kurth, the sophomore from Madison, Wis.

One more fellow being groomed for line duty is Frank Butler, a sophomore from Chicago. So far he has been one of the boys way down on the sixth or seventh teams, the idea being to polish him up for two future years. But he weighs 202 pounds, and it is his beef that may put him in demand on Saturday. Rockne wants every big man on the squad to be available because of that preponderance of heft in the Purple forwards. If speed can't eclipse Northwestern, he will revert to the idea of weight being the important item about football.

Metzger's in Tough Spot.

Howard Jones Cancels Air Trip to Scout Irish

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 19.—[Special.]—Howard H. Jones, head coach of the University of Southern California football team, today cancelled reservations for a plane trip to Chicago on Saturday to scout Knute Rockne's eleven.

Jones yesterday was too ill to leave his home, and today he was on the Trojan practice field looking rather wan after being in bed two days. His illness was caused by the grip and a recurrent abdominal ailment.

ILLINI HOPE TO WIND UP SEASON WITH A FLOURISH

Win Over Buckeyes Would Brighten Dark Year.

Champaign, Ill., Nov. 19.—[Special.]—A spirited Illinois football team went through its final scrimmage of the season today in preparation for Ohio State.

Spurred on by their victory over Chicago, the Illini are pointing for the Buckeyes because they realize that if they are able to defeat Coach Willaman's team they will save the season from going down as Coach Zuppke's worst. The Illini were last beaten by the Buckeyes in 1926.

Two Regulars Out.

Today's lineup was weakened due to the absence of Jensen and Wilson, regular linemen. Wilson is definitely out of the Ohio game due to an injured knee, and Jensen, who was hurt in practice yesterday, is not expected to recover in time to play. Ernie Useman, substitute half back, will be out due to an injured ankle received while pole vaulting in a track class today.

Bennett, Winsper, and Owen all were tried at Wilson's position today, while Ack Bodman was used in place of Jensen at guard. The original lineup was composed of Bennett and Swanson, ends; Stan Bodman and Hills, tackles; Ack Bodman and Ovelmen, guards; Huddlestun, center; Munch, quarter back; Berry and Yanuskus, half backs, and Capt. Robinson, full back.

Schumacher Tried at Guard.

Schultz was substituted for Robinson later in practice because Robinson was just released from the hospital with an infected hand. Schumacher, who formerly was regular center, was tried at guard today.

BUCKEYES DRILL IN SECRET.

Columbus, O., Nov. 19.—[Special.]—All spectators were barred from the practice field tonight as Coach Sam Willaman continued his preparations for the game with Illinois at Champaign Saturday.

The freshman team showed the varsity some of the Illinois pet plays in a tag scrimmage. Zuppke's formations are well known to the Ohio coaches, the two teams having met 18 times since relations first were opened in 1902. In this time the Illini have won 11 games, Ohio State five, and two were tied. In the recapitulation of points the Illini have tallied 208 and the Ohioans 59.

Greenberg and Holcomb, both half backs, were the only Buckeyes out of uniform today. Both were suffering from hand injuries.

GOPHER LINEUP CHANGED.

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 19.—[Special.]—Three changes in the regular Minnesota lineup seemed certain for the Wisconsin finale at Madison Saturday after today's hard scrimmage against the freshmen. Injuries are largely responsible for the expected insertion of Wells at left tackle in place of Boland. Swartz or Hass probably will be at half back in place of Brownell and Reihsen at left guard instead of Appman. These three regulars were more badly hurt in the Michigan game than was first believed and none of them are likely to start.

Tonight the Gophers got some special training in going down under punts and open field tackling. Later the regulars were pitted against the freshmen, who used Badger plays. The yearlings not only completed a number of passes, but also found holes in the Minnesota line that forced the coaching staff to make numerous changes.

BADGERS PLAY FRESHMEN.

Madison, Wis., Nov. 19.—[Special.]—Apparently inspired by the presence of two thousand students at the first open practice here in two years, the Wisconsin football squad made an encouraging showing in its workout today. While there was nothing more strenuous than a long dummy scrimmage against the freshmen, using Minnesota plays, the Badger varsity men put a lot of fire into their work.

Kabat, Swiderski, Lubravitch and Smith, who were considerably battered by Northwestern, were back in uniform today and worked throughout the drill. Coach Thistlethwaite had Ernie Lusby back on the varsity tonight and he performed well, teaming with Goldenberg, Schneller and McGuire in the back field.

HOOSIERS HOLD SCRIMMAGE.

Bloomington, Ind., Nov. 19.—[Special.]—"Beat Purdue" was the battle cry here this afternoon as the Indiana team went through its third hard scrimmage of the week. The Hoosiers showed plenty of fight in breaking up Boilermaker formations as interpreted by the freshmen.

The freshmen, simulating the heavy offensive power of Pope, Purvis, Chasey, Risk, Kissell, Horstman, and Yunevich, showed Indiana varsity linemen they will have plenty of work on their hands in the traditional battle for the old oaken bucket at Lafayette Saturday. Inability to tackle efficiently was evident.

PURDUE BACK IMPROVES.

Lafayette, Ind., Nov. 19.—[Special.]—Hope that Ed Risk, leading ground gainer of the brilliant group of Purdue backs, would be able to perform against Indiana here Saturday in the battle for the old oaken bucket was revived here today. His foot injury has improved considerably.

Providing Risk is in shape, Coach Kiser is expected to shoot his speediest combination against Indiana, for he realizes that the Crimson has spent two entire weeks perfecting a new offense especially for the coming encounter. Practically the entire afternoon was devoted to intensive drill on defensive tactics.

Purdue's forward wall will probably be back to its full strength for the first time since the Illinois game, for Jack Christman, guard, is expected to resume his old post.

Happy Scot, at 1 to 5, Breezes Home at Bowie

Bowie, Md., Nov. 19.—(AP)—Happy Scot, one of the most consistent of the 1930 crop of juveniles, won his second race at the Bowie meeting today, carrying the silks of Rear Admiral Carey T. Grayson to victory in the Takoma purse, run over 6 furlongs.

The Grayson colt easily was the class of the field of eight, stepping the distance in 1:12. He was a 1 to 5 favorite. It was his fifth triumph in eleven starts, three of which were hung up during the spring season. On five other occasions he ran second.

Happy Scot broke fast, set all the pace and then scored in a mile drive by a half length over E. F. Sanford's Hibala. L. M. Woolf's Uncle Henry landed third, beating out Mrs. T. R. Queen's Angry Plume.

Although the long shots failed to keep pace with their six sensational victories of yesterday Alwington Dolly, a field horse, accounted for the opening number and paid $68.90 for $2.

FASTEST HUMAN TO MAKE ALTAR DASH ON DEC. 11

Pasadena, Cal., Nov. 19.—(AP)—Charles W. Paddock, once the world's "fastest human," has lost a race to Dan Cupid.

His engagement was announced today to Mrs. Neva Prisk Malady, daughter of Charles H. Prisk, publisher of the Pasadena Star-News. The wedding bells will peal Dec. 11 at the Prisk Hillcrest avenue home here.

This isn't the former sprinter's first dash in this direction, however. Once his engagement was announced to Bebe Daniels, motion picture player, but she became the wife of Ben Lyon, film actor. Then he was sued in the east by a young woman who alleged she had been engaged to marry him.

Mrs. Malady was wed six years ago to Z. T. Malady Jr., son of a Pasadena physician, and divorced two years ago. She is 26 years old, and Paddock about 30.

Pennsylvania Gives Walker Until Jan. 1 to Defend Title

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 19.—(AP)—The state athletic commission today gave Mickey Walker, middleweight champion, until Jan. 1 to defend his title with a suitable opponent, or the championship will be declared vacant in Pennsylvania.

Hunters May Be Asked to File Reports

BY BOB BECKER.

Should hunters file returns on game seen and killed during a season? Several Illinois sportsmen have brought up this question this fall while trying to figure out the quail situation in the middle west. They point out that if sportsmen reported conditions in their community to the conservation department, turned in results of trips afield, how many coveys seen or how many rabbits jumped in a certain locality, and then followed up with the amount of game killed in a season, the conservation department would have a pretty good picture of conditions in the state as a guide in future projects.

Several states already require hunters to file returns on the amount of game taken during a season and the biological survey relies on a staff of unpaid volunteers to check up waterfowl in various parts of the United States, so the idea of a conservation department having helpers in the ranks of sportsmen is not an innovation.

Quail Scarce in Indiana.

The quail situation in Illinois which continues to intrigue many sportsmen and which has brought up this question of surveys, gets a little more of the spotlight because Indiana is being heard from. D. F. McCarthy of Evansville, Ind., writes:

"In this part of the state there is a great shortage of quail this year, although last year the birds were plentiful and, due to the bad hunting weather, there were plenty of Bob Whites left for breeding stock.

Few Coveys Found.

"Early this summer the country seemed to be overrun with chicks and old birds, and all of us thought we would have an excellent hunting season. However, early in October, when we began to work our dogs, we noticed that there were very few coveys and those coveys we did find were small instead of the large ones expected.

"In my opinion, the shortage is due almost entirely to the dry weather. We have found that wherever there was water the birds were fairly plentiful, but where the land went entirely dry the coveys were few and far between."

Knox Cancels Meet When Nobody Volunteers to Run

Monmouth, Ill., Nov. 19.—[Special.]—Monmouth college's cross country season came to an unexpected end today when it was announced that Knox had canceled the dual meet scheduled to be run here between the halves of the Knox-Monmouth football game. The reason given for dropping the meet was the lack of interest among Knox men and the inability of the coaches to get together five men for the sport.

If There's Any Ado at Army, Call on Cappy

ranking captain on the post the West Point publicity department gained a recruit who knew more about the newspaper business and how to keep things out of the papers than anybody else who had ever lived there.

Of course, the cap undoubtedly has some private ideas on some matters which are quite opposite to the ideas of the brass hats above him. For instance, I have a notion that he believed from the very first that the military academy ought to accept the Navy's challenge for a charity game this year, and I hope it will not put him in bad with the general to suspect that he helped to change the old man's opinion after the original hubbub had died away. The cap must have seen that for the Navy to offer to play a charity game and for the Army to refuse would do the Army no good, and it was surprising, indeed, to learn that the general suddenly had changed his mind because the crisis was just as bad when he first refused.

Tall, Straight, and Skinny.

Cappy Wells is about six feet long and straight and skinny. His hair is darkish and slightly gray, and it grows every which way in tufts and licks. Sometimes he goes in uniform and sometimes he disguises himself in mufti, as intelligence officers have to do, they being the fly cops of the army. He always is pondering some way to put the academy advantageously into print or keep it advantageously out.

His biographical stuff on the army players is the best in the country. He edited and published the Army's correspondence with the Navy in the football row, and he visited around explaining and suggesting in the New York newspapers and press association shops so persuasively that the old Navy propagandas which used to be seen in the papers a few years ago, all of it giving the Army the devil, presently vanished from the prints. Of course, like all football partisans, he is a bit of nut about his own team's side of any row, but then that is an unfailing characteristic of football people.

STRIBLING WILL SEE LOUGHRAN FIGHT LEVINSKY

Slattery Also to Attend Bout Tomorrow.

W. L. [Young] Stribling, leading heavyweight contender, and Jimmy Slattery, former light heavyweight champion, will sit at the ringside tomorrow night when King Levinsky boxes Tommy Loughran at Chicago Stadium.

Slattery is seeking a match with the winner of the Loughran-Levinsky fight. Stribling is under contract to fight at the Stadium on Dec. 12, but no opponent has been obtained for him. Tuffy Griffith has been offered the match, as have Jimmy Maloney and Jack Sharkey.

Maloney Refuses Bout.

Maloney has refused to take the match, having been informed that he may be selected to box Stribling in Miami. This leaves Griffith, who has been considering the Stadium offer for two weeks.

Stribling hopes to meet Griffith since Sharkey refused to box the west sider last winter. Stribling is making it a point to box everybody Sharkey refuses to meet.

The presence of Stribling and Slattery at the ringside will lend glamour to the Levinsky-Loughran bout, which is an outstanding affair even though Barney Ross and Harry Dublinsky have been trying to steal the show.

King Goes Back to Work.

Levinsky returned to his work yesterday with a capacity crowd at a loop gym. The King had rested a day while his manager went into a parley with striking sparring partners.

With the arrival today of Joe Zelinsky from Boston and Jack Gross from Philadelphia, all the fighters on the card are in Chicago. Zelinsky meets Mickey McFarland, stable mate of Levinsky.

"I SHALL never forget the thick billowing fog that wrapped us early on that September morning in the Argonne. It was 5:30—the moment to attack. Somewhere close I heard an enemy machine gun taunting us ta-ta-ta-ta-ta in ugly derision.

"Three of us started towards the clatter, praying the fog would shield us. No time to crawl or dodge. Straight for that murderous chattering we ran. Bullets ripped through the bulge of my breeches, the fold in my blouse. I saw my two comrades go down with only one word.

"Suddenly I found myself scooting up the slight slope of a parapet, looking right into the machine gun nest. In the fleetest of instants I saw its venomous spitting head swing towards me.

"My automatic spoke. The gunner fell a-sprawl his gun. I saw fourteen others milling behind him. This was one moment when I HAD to keep cool!"

LOYOLA PLANS AERIAL ATTACK FOR DAKOTANS

Connelley Pilots Team in Scrimmage.

Loyola university's football team held its final scrimmage of the season yesterday as it reached the final stages of preparation for its game with South Dakota State here tomorrow night. The greater portion of the drill was spent developing an aerial attack.

Ted Connelley was directing the varsity at quarter back. Les Molloy and Tommy Howland were at the half back posts and Walter Durkin at full. This is the first time that Connelley has scrimmaged since the Duquesne game, during which he broke his collar bone.

The regulars showed marked offensive ability, but when it came to stopping South Dakota State's plays as presented by the reserves they were not so successful. The drill tonight will consist of brushing up the defense.

South Dakota's team is expected to arrive here today and will work out under the lights at Loyola stadium tonight.

DE PAUL USES BUTCHER

De Paul university's football team spent the greater portion of its practice session yesterday developing a defense with which to stop Bob Kleckner, half back of the University of San Francisco. De Paul plays the far westerners at Soldiers' field Sunday. Kleckner is reputed to be one of the fleetest ball carriers on the Pacific coast.

The Chicagoans will have their full strength for the first time in several weeks. Ernie Butcher, hard driving half back, is fully recovered from his recent injury and is working out regularly with the first team. It is expected that Matt Steffen will be at the other half, Frank Hartman at quarter and Eddie Stafford at full Sunday.

Mat Grabowski will start at right tackle against San Francisco. His showing against the University of Illinois reserves Saturday marks him as one of the best linemen on the squad. Emmett Cowhey and Everett McLean will be back at the guard posts.

who hits only 154 pounds on the scale, has an unenviable task cut out for himself when the whistle toots to indicate the start of festivities with the Purple. Considering his poundage, Bert has no license to occupy a guard post. Thus far he has been a whiz despite the handicap, but on Saturday he must pit himself against Woodworth, who has a 200 pound rating and is good as well as heavy. If Bert gets away with that task, he will almost make giant linesmen unpopular.

Rockne tonight moved Kaplan up to the shock troops in place of Half Back O'Connor. Greeney also was returned to guard with the same team. He supplanted Harris.

WILDCATS NOT AWED

Notre Dame's grid record of 16 straight victories, impressive as it may sound, has failed to get anything more than a casual lifting of the eyebrow from Northwestern's Wildcats as they prepare for Saturday's encounter at Dyche stadium.

Any mention of the prowess of the Irish is received with an "O, yeah?" in the Purple football camp.

The Wildcats' motto all season has been "Take 'em as they come" and now that they go up against the national champions from South Bend they refuse to get excited about the matter.

Preparation for the season's finale reached its highest pitch yesterday when Coach Hanley put the players through a full afternoon of work. The session opened with a pass defense scrimmage for the backs and a long drill on charging and blocking for the linemen.

Study Notre Dame Attack.

The daily scrimmage with the freshmen was devoted to both offensive and defensive work as far the varsity was concerned. The players, regular as well as scrubs, were given an opportunity to familiarize themselves with the Notre Dame attack.

Coach Hanley plans to begin tapering off the training process today. The workouts will be largely running signals and a review of plays and formations to be used Saturday.

Captain Conley of Notre Dame Looks Like an End—and Is One

South Bend, Ind., Nov. 19.—[Special.]—If any experts are looking around for an end to complete an all-American or all-western eleven of some kind they might do well to consider Tom Conley, right wingman and captain of the current Notre Dame football machine. Capt. Tom is good. Even modest Knute Rockne will admit that. Knute believes that in his travels this fall he hasn't seen an end quite Conley's equal, and, as is known, the Notre Dame grid teacher travels considerably and sees more.

To see Mr. Conley hiking across the campus would hardly give you the idea he is the type sufficiently rough and tough to play a leading rôle in the outstanding college sport. He dresses neatly; not in the sloppy style now prevailing among the seekers of higher education. He even offers apologies for having neglected his morning shave, as was the case today. But once you know he is Tom Conley you can see instantly he is the ideal, tall, limber type from which good wingmen are made. You can't see how big a bag of courage he carries in his chest, but he already has proven that he has that, too.

Goes Home in Triumph.

A week ago last Saturday Conley had the pleasure of going down to Philadelphia for an afternoon of football. It was more than that to him. The journey gave him the thrill that comes to the boy who goes away and comes home later with his own liveried chauffeur and foreign make of car. It was the big moment of his fleeting grid career. There he was out there playing a big rôle in the most crushing defeat the University of Pennsylvania had known in many years. And not many years ago he was a self-elected, free customer at most of Penn's games. In those days he didn't think he'd ever come back to the same spot as one of the actors in a big show. But he did and enjoyed himself immensely.

Because smiling Marty Brill is from the same home town a sort of partnership has sprung up between the two. They are already in such accord that both, for campus and classroom purposes, follow similar lines of dress. You can pick them from the mob at the noon football lectures by the fact that both wear among other things natural camel hair pull-over sweaters. The partnership promises to grow closer, as both have similar aims for the future.

Active in Boys' Camps.

Conley for ten summers has been active at boys' camps. In the last few years he has been elevated to the post of counselor at a Camp Lincoln near Philadelphia.

Brill has done similarly. It is really a hobby with both. They like it so well that they are planning to buy a camp of their own. Conley kids Brill all the time about the project. Says that he will furnish the brains if Brill will furnish the money. This doesn't reflect on Brill's intelligence. Brill's dad has the bankroll. He's the fellow who was reported to have promised the kid $1,000 for every touchdown he made against Penn. Brill made three but hasn't collected because the story was just the child of a newspaperman's brain.

LEADS IRISH

In a technical football way here's how Conley is rated:

A wonderful lad for blocking tackles on offense. A good receiver of passes and a reliable unit on defense. A leader not easily rattled.

Conley learned his prep football at Catholic High, Philadelphia. Gene Oberst, who at one time was more than an every day tackle at Notre Dame, coached him there. Conley then was a tackle but upon his arrival here was delegated to perform as an end. He's not the first to come through from the same school. Boland, Maxwell, and McNally, now coaches at various institutions after their allotted years here under Rockne, all originated at Catholic High, Philadelphia.

THURNBLAD TOPS JACKSON, 50 TO 42, IN FIRST BLOCK

Arthur Thurnblad of Chicago defeated Clarence Jackson of Detroit in the first of the three block 150 point match for the northern sectional three cushion billiard championship at Kieckhefer's last night. Thurnblad won, 50 to 42, in 76 innings. Thurnblad's high run was 6, Jackson's 4. The winner of the northern title will qualify to compete in the world's championship tournament in Chicago in January.

Thurnblad, who qualified for the final by winning the west divisional in Des Moines last week, played consistent billiards and showed clearly that his game is sound.

The second block will be played tonight and the third and final tomorrow night.

MANY NOTABLES TO WATCH IRISH PLAY WILDCATS

Notables from all parts of the country will attend the Northwestern-Notre Dame game at Dyche stadium Saturday.

Julius Rosenwald, Chicago philanthropist, and Mrs. Rosenwald will be guests of President Walter Dill Scott.

Senator Robert M. La Follette and his brother, Phillip, governor-elect of Wisconsin, will be box guests of Vincent Bendix.

Father Charles O'Donnell, president of Notre Dame, will occupy a box in the Notre Dame section, and will attend a reception at President Scott's home following the game.

Walter Chrysler, president of Chrysler Motors, will arrive tomorrow from New York with a party to attend the game.

A number of nationally prominent football coaches also will be on hand. Jock Sutherland, football coach at the University of Pittsburgh; Judge Walter Steffen of Carnegie Tech, and Maj. Ralph Sasse, the Army's head football coach, are others who will be present.

The game is also attracting sports writers from all sections of the country.

Carnera's Happy Now; Gets Bed Big Enough for Him

BARCELONA, Spain, Nov. 19.—(AP)—Primo Carnera, giant Italian prize fighter, turned in tonight expecting the first night's sleep he has had since he came back to Spain. Strike breaking carpenters had built him a bed big enough for him to stretch out in.

The promoters of a bout next Sunday between Carnera and Paulino Uzcudun decided today they would not call off the fight because of the continuing strike disorders. Ticket sales are to be resumed tomorrow with $1.50 as the top price.

Notre Dame or Northwestern? Here's Why Each Might Win

Aim for Long Gains.

4. Notre Dame's plays are designed for long gains. Ten plays may fail or be held to a few yards' advance; the eleventh may score a touchdown. Northwestern's running attack seldom breaks loose for long runs. Against Indiana the longest run from scrimmage was nine yards. The percentage then is with Notre Dame.

5. Notre Dame has greater all around reserve strength. Perhaps the shock troops are not the equal of those of former years, but it is a fact Notre Dame's regulars have played fewer minutes in seven games this season than the regulars did in 1929. Consequently they are not stale.

6. Notre Dame's regulars played against Northwestern last year. They are familiar with the Warner system and with the men who played last year for Northwestern. Moreover, Pittsburgh used the Warner system against Notre Dame this year.

Superior Running Attack.

7. Notre Dame's running attack is better than Northwestern's with the Indiana games as a medium of comparison. Notre Dame defeated Indiana, 27 to 0; Northwestern, 25 to 0. All the Irish touchdowns were produced by a running attack. Three of the Wildcats' scores came from forward passes. And Indiana was outweighed by Northwestern 18 pounds a man. Northwestern regulars played throughout this game except for a few minutes at the end of the second quarter and the fourth quarter. Notre Dame's regulars played approximately two quarters.

8. Notre Dame believes it will win. The players don't merely say they will win, they believe it. They are confident, yet not overconfident.

9. Notre Dame will not hold back. Rockne's system will be tested against the Warner system. For the first time Notre Dame is playing a conference champion with a section title at stake.

His errors may upset Notre Dame's backs.

7. Northwestern is superior in line plunging. Russell will hit the center of the line and, with the weight advantage Northwestern has over its opponents, will gain consistently. This hammering of the line will keep possession of the ball. Consequently Notre Dame's attack will be worthless. These short gains will lead to touchdowns, as the University of Chicago's steady plunging scored three times against Illinois in the famous 21 to 21 game.

8. Northwestern never has been pressed. Perhaps it is a greater team than is thought. Under the incentive of this game its players may perform better than in any previous game.

Cardinals Send Hill to Farm at Rochester

St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 19.—(AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals today announced sale of Carmen Hill, veteran pitcher, to Rochester, the Cards' International league farm.

KENNY SELLS HIS 20% OF GIANTS BASEBALL CLUB

New York, Nov. 19.—[Special.]—William F. Kenny, millionaire friend of ex-Gov. Alfred E. Smith, has sold his stock in the New York Giants Baseball club to a group of politicians, among whom is Charles A. Stoneham, president and majority stockholder of the Giants. Mr. Stoneham admitted he is one of the purchasers.

This deal definitely puts an end to the long battle to oust Mr. Stoneham from the controlling position in the Giants' household and intrenches him more firmly than ever.

He already owned 60 per cent of the stock, and now, with a share of Mr. Kenney's 20 per cent holding, has virtually complete power over the Giants' business affairs.

Payment for the stock is to be made tomorrow or Friday.

Notre Dame to Get Official Thanks for Aiding Charity

Chicago's gratitude to Notre Dame for its coöperation with Northwestern in the proposed donation of $100,000 to Gov. Emmerson's unemployment fund will be extended to Coach Knute Rockne, players and officials of the school Saturday night. Gen. John V. Clinnin has been appointed by George Getz, chairman of the governor's commission, to deliver the message at the Brevoort hotel, where the Notre Dame team will dine after the Northwestern game.

CARDS TO HAVE FULL STRENGTH AGAINST TIGERS

The Cardinals will have their full strength against the Memphis Tigers at Comiskey park Sunday. Ernie Nevers, who suffered a stiff neck from ramming the Green Bay line, and Bun Beldon, who hurt a leg, began working out with the first team yesterday.

Memphis will bring a strong aggregation here. On its list of players are Ackerman, Illia, Herrin, and Simas, members of the St. Mary's team of Oakland, Cal., which last year beat Stanford and California in its march to an undefeated season.

The pro team of Ironton, O., which defeated the New York Giants this year, was beaten by Memphis a few days later.

MARQUETTE SPURNS BID.

Dr. David L. Jones, owner of the Chicago Cardinals, yesterday received a communication from Frank Murray, Marquette university football coach, to the effect that the Hilltoppers are unable to accept a challenge to a charity football game on Nov. 30.

Coach Murray pointed out that Marquette will be playing on Thanksgiving and that it would be asking too much to expect them to come right back after two days of rest and meet so tough a professional team as the Cardinals.

It is understood also that the Marquette university faculty is opposed to post-season games.

MAROONS POLISH DEFENSE AGAINST MICHIGAN PASSES

There's Feeble Hope Alive on Midway.

The Maroons put into execution last night the defensive maneuvers so carefully outlined on the blackboard Tuesday afternoon by Coach Stagg. The ways and means committee, organized for the purpose of stopping Harry Newman's bullet passes, showed effectiveness against the freshman's conception of Michigan aerial heaves. The Wolverine running attack will be solved, at least on the blackboard, in this afternoon's session.

Neither Joe Temple, regular full back, nor Lou Kanne, reserve half back, were out last night, and both are probably through football for the year. Temple was bumped around considerably by the Illini and Kanne's infected leg has failed to respond to medical efforts. Likewise Capt. Ebret Van Nice, who has been able to play only three minutes in the Wisconsin game out of the entire schedule, will not make a final appearance in a Maroon uniform.

The Maroons hope to keep the Wolverines in check and then click offensively for the first time this year. Last year Chicago appeared almost as drab until the final game of the season, that with Washington, when they went wild on the flanker attack and ran up a large score. Repetition of that heyday appears to be quite remote, but Coach Stagg's eleven may break loose for a score or two before the final gun. The only touchdown scored since the Ripon game was put over against Purdue and the boys certainly are due for one more fling.

MICHIGAN POLISHES DEFENSE.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Nov. 19.—[Special.]—The Michigan football squad went through another long defensive drill this afternoon. Coach Kipke worked his full squad at the tackling dummy preceding the rehearsal of Chicago plays. The yearlings got off the ends a few times to catch passes, but Hozer and Wheeler, working on the left side, and Williamson and Simrall on the right, knocked down most of the throws.

Purdum was still at left tackle today, and Kipke said that he would be left there unless Samuels and Auer show faster recovery from the injuries they sustained in the Minnesota contest.

SUSPEND OHIO BOXER.

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 19.—(AP)—George Evans, Cleveland, O., boxer, was suspended indefinitely today by the state athletic commission. No reason was announced.

CHICAGO STOCKS MOVE FORWARD; MOTORS STRONG

Bendix and Borg-Warner Push Ahead.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Choosing to ignore the unfavorable features of the day's news budget, stocks on the Chicago exchange continued to accumulate gains yesterday. The trading was moderately active and devoid of spectacular price movements.

Motor and accessory shares displayed the most uniform strength although the heaviest trading was again centered in the utility stocks. Conspicuous among the motor shares was Bendix which crossed 18 on fairly active trading and Borg Warner which pushed ahead a point to 17½. Houdaille B and Allied Products finished higher on light sales. The rise in Auburn was checked by profit taking and the issue reacted to 80.

Plans Service Organization.

Reports of improved business in the field accompanied the strength in accessory shares. A subsidiary of Bendix Aviation corporation, the Bendix Service corporation, announced plans for the establishment of a national organization for servicing brakes and carburetors. The move, it was said, will aid in the standardization of prices and workmanship.

Electric Household and U. S. Gypsum were outstanding among the specialties. Each issue gained to 2 points on good demand. Improvement in the utility group was largely fractional while no important price occurred in the investment issues.

Midland United preferred A was bid up 2¼ points on the news that the period during which the stock may be converted into common shares is being extended. Common stock purchase warrants which entitle the holder of preferred stock to purchase an equal number of shares of common at $28.50 a share, were extended one year to Dec. 31, 1931.

Basis for Exchange.

Under the new plan the preferred stockholder may exchange his holdings for common stock as follows: To Dec. 31, 1932, 1.4 shares of common for each share held; to Dec. 31, 1933, 1.25 shares of common for one preferred share; to Dec. 31, 1934, 1.1 common shares for each preferred share, and to Dec. 31, 1935 on a share for share basis.

Exchange governors yesterday approved the listing of 2,000,000 additional shares of common stock of the Consumers company, bringing the total listing to 3,000,000 shares. The new stock will be sold to stockholders at $5 a share. Stock not taken by stockholders may be disposed of by the president at not less than the price offered to holders.

DRY GOODS.

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—(AP)—Cotton goods were in moderate demand today, prices on finished goods show some irregularity. Wool goods were being bought in very small lots. [illegible] Production was active on silk cloths for printing. Burlaps showed little change and the demand was light. Some of the leading rayon producers are guaranteeing prices, while others will not.

GOLD HOLDINGS OF UNITED STATES RISE IN OCTOBER

Total Now Stands at Over 4½ Billions.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 19.—(AP)—Gold holdings by the United States climbed to $4,530,000,000 during October with that month's increase bringing the total acquisition for the year to $140,000,000.

The federal reserve board in its monthly review of business and financial conditions, however, explained that the total holdings of this country still were $150,000,000 under the peak holdings reached in May, 1927.

The United States and France, the board said, controlled approximately 60 per cent of the world's supply of gold, their holdings being the largest held by any two countries since the world war.

Japan Exports $138,000,000.

Japan and South American countries, however, lost gold, the latter exporting $138,000,000 during ten months of 1930.

The board said France had been the principal taker of gold since 1927 when the value of the franc was stabilized. Until the spring of 1929, the bank of France utilized its foreign balances to build up its gold reserves but since that time has taken no direct part in the importation of gold. The gold movements into France have continued with little interruption, the imports being arranged by commercial banks.

During this period, the bank of France while not directly importing gold, has added about $550,000,000 to its reserves.

The board said the movement of gold from Canada to the United States was reversed this year with the importation of about $20,000,000 from the United States in the midyear. More recently, it said, there have been additional smaller imports by Canada in accordance with the usual movements at this season of the year.

Gain of $470,000,000.

The board found the gold holdings of the principal central banks and governments to the world had increased $470,000,000 during the last year as the result of new production and absorption into central reserves of gold previously held by commercial banks and individuals.

The United States through the treasury and the federal reserve banks holds $4,183,000,000, an increase of $160,000,000; France, $1,999,000,000, an increase of $422,000,000; and England, $732,000,000, an increase of $139,000,000.

LOOKING AHEAD WITH BUSINESS

The American Brass company yesterday announced an increase of 2 cents net per pound on brass products and an increase of 2½ cents on copper products. The advances bring the prices in line with the 12 cent level quoted by producers for copper.

Frederick E. Williamson, president of the Chicago, Burlington, and Quincy railroad, said that car loadings on the route are running 6½ to 8 per cent below a year ago, which is an improvement over the past several months.

The Tubize Chatillon corporation, rayon manufacturer, announced that it would guarantee customers against any reduction in yarn prices for a period of sixty days in view of the present uncertainty in the rayon market.

J. J. Bernet, president of the Chesapeake and Ohio railroad, said that while gross revenue in October continued to show a substantial drop from last year net operating income was off not more than $100,000 from October, 1929.

Carl Gray, president of the Union Pacific railroad, said that carloadings in the first week of November were ahead of last year, but receipts from connections, which are important for the road, continue to fall behind. He added that loading generally are showing only a slight improvement.

Official New York stock exchange bond sales yesterday were $8,157,000. From Jan. 1 to date the sales total $2,452,460,000.

Kansas City Southern railway reported October net income after taxes amounted to $438,169, against $742,202 in the like month last year.

Contracts for new building construction totaling $14,000,000 have been signed by the George A. Fuller company, a subsidiary of the United States Realty and Improvement company, since Nov. 1.

G. R. Loyall, president of the Norfolk and Southern railroad, said that the road will show net income of about $70,000 for October, the best showing made in recent months.

While freight traffic on the Chicago, North Shore, and Milwaukee railroad is not as good as in 1929, it is showing a tendency to improve, according to Roy Thompson, traffic manager.

CHICAGO BOARD OF TRADE STOCKS

There was a better tone to stocks on the Board of Trade yesterday, although volume was light and trade centered principally in a few of the active issues. Electric Bond and Share made a good showing and had a net gain of 3 points. Permanent certificates for Trustee Standard Oil Shares are ready for delivery and the temporary certificates will not be good after Nov. 26.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 19.—(AP)— ld holdings by the United States mbed to $4,530,000,000 during Octo- with that month's increase bring- the total acquisition for the year $140,000,000.

The federal reserve board in its nthly review of business and finan- l conditions, however, explained t the total holdings of this country l were $150,000,000 under the peak ldings reached in May, 1927.

The United States and France, the rd said, controlled approximately 60 r cent of the world's supply of gold, ir holdings being the largest held any two countries since the world r.

Japan Exports $138,000,000.

Japan and South American coun- es, however, lost gold, the latter ex- rting $138,000,000 during ten months 1930.

The board said France had been the incipal taker of gold since 1927 when e value of the franc was stabilized. ntil the spring of 1929, the bank of rance utilized its foreign balances to ild up its gold reserves but since at time has taken no direct part in e importation of gold. The gold ovements into France have contin- d with little interruption, the im- rts being arranged by commercial nks.

During this period, the bank of rance while not directly importing ld, has added about $550,000,000 to reserves.

The board said the movement of ld from Canada to the United States as reversed this year with the im- portation of about $20,000,000 from the nited States in the midyear. More cently, it said, there have been ad- tional smaller imports by Canada in cordance with the usual movements this season of the year.

Gain of $470,000,000.

The board found the gold holdings the principal central banks and gov- rnments to the world had increased 470,000,000 during the last year as the sult of new production and absorp- on into central reserves of gold pre- iously held by commercial banks and dividuals.

The United States through the treas- ry and the federal reserve banks holds 4,183,000,000, an increase of $160,000,- 00; France, $1,999,000,000, an increase f $422,000,000; and England, $782,000,- 00, an increase of $139,000,000.

HAIL PROSPECTS FOR IMPROVED STEEL BUSINESS

Rail and Auto Orders Seen Encouraging.

BY O. A. MATHER.

While the big steel industry continues considerably in the doldrums at the present time, prospects of large railroad buying after the turn of the year and some improvement in the demand for steel from the automobile industry are buoying up sentiment. Another hopeful factor is the likelihood that steel producers will soon adopt a firm stand against price shading.

"Inquiries for close to 50,000 freight cars, requiring 700,000 tons of steel, are expected following completion of financial arrangements," the Iron Age says in its weekly review. "Meanwhile, railroads are adding to their repair shop forces and are coming into the market for their shop requirements in steel.

"In the automobile industry the launching of production on new models has resulted in a moderate gain in steel orders, particularly in the Cleveland district, where steel ingot output has been raised in two weeks from 20 to 44 per cent of capacity. Some inquiry for automotive steel for first quarter delivery has appeared and December is expected to bring out heavier specifications for January shipment. But the trend in the motor car trade is not uniform, with some manufacturers further reducing production and others expanding output.

Production Declines.

"Raw steel output this week for the country at 43 per cent compares with a rate of 44 per cent a week ago. With seasonal forces at work which ordinarily cause a tapering of steel output as the year-end approaches, the gain in prospective demand is interpreted as a promise of improvement in January rather than in the immediate future. The proposed railroad car building program could hardly affect steel mill operations before next year, and to a large extent the same can be said of expected betterment in automotive requirements. Nevertheless, the change of sentiment in the steel trade has revived the hope that ingot output is close to bottom and that further declines will be small at the most.

"Prospects of better business, mounting costs and a realization that a considerable volume of potential trade has been withheld from the market because of chronic price irregularity are among the factors that have given impetus to the stabilization move inaugurated last week."

The railroad car building program will be carried out through public offering by a big banking house of equipment trust notes bearing a low rate of interest and limited to 80 per cent of the purchase price of the rolling stock. The car builders will carry the remaining 20 per cent of the cost on their books for repayment in small installments by the railroads.

Studebaker's Sales Gain.

Mildly cheerful news came from two of the big factors in the automobile industry. The Studebaker corporation reported sales of 4,700 cars last month, compared with 4,600 in October, 1929, thus making the first month this year to register an increase in sales over the corresponding month in 1929. President A. R. Erskine also announced that the company occupied fifth place in the industry last month, according to United States registration figures, whereas it was in twelfth place a year ago.

Data made public by the General Motors corporation confirmed recent estimates that stocks of cars in dealers' hands are abnormally small. While General Motors domestic dealers delivered 57,757 cars to consumers last month, the dealers took only 22,924 cars, although this was due largely to the fact that they were awaiting the bringing out of new models this year at an earlier date than heretofore. Similarly, dealers took 69,901 cars in September and sold 75,805.

In October, 1929, dealers took 98,559 cars and sold 114,408 to customers. Total sales to dealers last month, including Canadian and overseas shipments, were 28,253 cars, compared with 78,792 in September and 122,104 in October, 1929.

Cuban President Vetoes Tax Bill on Sugar Cane

HAVANA, Nov. 19.—(AP)—President Machado today vetoed the Alberni bill which proposed to place a $1 tax for every arroba of cane produced by mills and not by colonos, or growers, in excess of that produced in the last crop. The arroba is equivalent to 2,500 pounds of cane and produces approximately 325 pounds of sugar. Its veto came as a surprise, but the action of the President was understood to have been taken to avoid discrimination against the free operation of large American interests.

Standard Oil of Kentucky to Pay 20c Extra Dividend

New York, Nov. 19.—(AP)—Directors of Standard Oil of Kentucky today declared the regular quarterly dividend of 40 cents a share and an extra dividend of 20 cents.

Directors of the Allegheny Steel company declared the usual extra dividend of 25 cents in addition to two regular monthly dividends of 15 cents each. The extra is payable Dec. 18 to stock of record Nov. 29.

Cities Service Co. Earns $50,240,555 in 12 Months

Cities Service company yesterday reported earnings available for stocks and reserves of $50,240,555 for the 12 months ended Oct. 31. This compares with $33,727,848 in the preceding 12 months. October earnings amounted to $3,377,201, against $3,254,748 in the same month last year.

Speculative Interest Ebbs; Wheat Prices Hold Firm

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Stabliziation operations in the American grain markets have reached a point where the speculative interest shows unmistakable signs of falling off and a good part of the business on the Chicago Board of Trade yesterday was in the way of evening up on the part of traders who were short.

The longs, however, were not inclined to let go, as the Stabiliziation corporation's operations seem to hold out the prospect of a minimum price.

While there was considerable contraction in the volume of trade in wheat, prices had a range of ⅝@1c for the day, with December futures holding within a fraction of the support level of 73c at which the corporation appeared to have buying orders. The May deliveries sold at the "pegged" price to as much as 1c over the latter on which the new style which gained fractionally on the old. Closing trades were at net gains of ¼@1c with old December finishing at 73⅛c to 73¼c; March, 74c; May, 76c, and July, 73¼c to 73½c.

Winnipeg Leads Advance.

A statement by Sir George Perley, acting prime minister of Canada to the effect that the banks had agreed to protect the Canadian pool margins on "long" wheat had a tendancy to allay the fears of the trade on both sides of the international lines as to the position of the pool, and the Winnipeg market led the advance, closing 1¾@1⅞c higher with the December at 59¼c or 4½c above the low of Tuesday.

There was an almost utter absence of the demoralization so much in evidence the previous day. Trading in the Winnipeg market was reported as about 20 per cent of that of the previous three days.

That the world market is rapidly recovering its equilibrium was shown by the excellent European demand for Canadian cash wheat with sales of 1,000,000 to 1,250,000 bu estimated in all positions, and Mexico was said to have contracted for 200,000 bu from the pool. The action of the Liverpool market was a surprise to the trade and a strong rally got under way after all deliveries had sold at a new low in the last 36 years, the close being unchanged to ⅞d higher, with December at 70½c.

Helps Bring Advance.

Showery weather prevailed in Argentina late in the day according to cables received after the North American markets closed, and was a factor in bringing about an advance of 1⅜@1⅝c in Buenos Aires with the February closing at 58⅜c. New Argentine grain is being offered to Europe on a much more liberal scale.

There is an open interest of 178,154,000 bu wheat in Chicago of which the December delivery accounts for 60,369,000 bu. As near as can be estimated the Stabilization corporation is "long" over 20,000,000 bu futures in all markets, including the 10,000,000 bu on which a delivery was to be taken on December contracts, and which represented futures bought to replace sales of cash wheat made some time ago.

Corn in Strong Upturn.

Corn traders see evidence of a material increase in speculative interest in that market, as the average speculator does not like to operate in any commodity in which the farm board agencies are active. There was reinstating of a line of long corn recently sold out by a local professional which disclosed a lack of pressure, and prices moved up 1¼@2c from Tuesday's finish with the close at net gains of 1@1½c with December showing the most strength. The latter finished at 70⅛@70⅝c; March, 71⅞c; May, 74⅛@74¼c and July at 75⅛@75¼c.

Wintry weather prevailed over part of the corn belt, and is expected to delay the movement of new grain to terminals as well as result in heavier feeding operations. There was also a better shipping demand with sales of 80,000 bu. According to the Iowa weekly weather crop report there has been less than the usual loss in the crop due to unfavorable fall weather conditions, and husking returns show slightly better yields than early estimates. In the worst sections of that state yields are running only 4 to 6 bu per acre, and elevator interests say deliveries of grain at country points are the lightest in years with the price the lowest since 1921.

Short Covering in Oats.

Trade in oats was largely of a local character, although commission houses were on both sides on a moderate scale. Strength in corn induced short covering and the close was at net gain of ⅛@⅝c with December at 31⅜@31½c, and May, 34@34⅛c.

First export business in rye in a number of weeks was reported yesterday, moderate amounts being sold to Antwerp, but the message failed to say whether it was domestic or Canadian grain, but presumably the latter as Winnipeg December at the last was 9½c under the same delivery in Chicago. Futures here were dull and closed unchanged to ½c higher with December 39⅛c, and May, 44c.

ELECT. BOND & SHARE SHOWS STEADY GAIN IN ITS EARNING POWER

New York, Nov. 19.—(AP)—Electric Bond and Share company today reported for the 12 months ended Oct. 31, earnings of $2.44 a share, compared with $2.46 a share in the 12 months ended June 30, and $1.97 in the 12 months ended Dec. 31, last.

The statement said that no undistributed earnings of companies in which Electric Bond and Share has equity holdings are included in the income statement. The earnings per share are based on the total number outstanding at the end of each period.

Net income for the 12 months ended Oct. 31 totaled $42,300,147, against $41,095,006 in the 12 months ended June 30 and $32,511,823 for the 12 months ended Dec. 31, last.

The company's balance sheet showed cash and call loans Oct. 31 as $46,632,125, compared with $49,772,270 June 30, and $93,054,246 Dec. 31, 1929. Investments amounted to $905,121,390, an increase of approximately $31,000,000 over the June 30 figure. Total assets were carried at $998,552,185 Oct. 31, against $943,546,312 Dec. 31, last. Total current assets Oct. 31 amounted to $93,430,795, and total current liabilities were $9,796,611.

Sees Less Regulation as Possible Boon to Rails

BY SCRUTATOR.

So far as the railroads of the United States are concerned financially, probably the worst result of over regulation by government has centered in policies that prevented the roads themselves from doing business on a competitive basis. The competition here mentioned means that of the carriers with other forms of transportation, and not severe struggles of rival rail lines.

The truck and the Mississippi waterway have taken a great deal of traffic from them. C. D. Morris, representing the western lines, recently stated that less than carload lot freight of these railroads last year was nine million tons under the average annually from 1915 to 1920, with a loss of 102 million dollars in revenues. Business has been growing greater, but the rails' less than carload shipments have decreased absolutely.

Moreover, he said, trucks in 1928 delivered fifteen million head of livestock to ten leading markets, enough to have filled 142,000 double-decked freight cars. The net result of the losses of high rate package freight and of livestock is represented in the falling off of 18.3 per cent in the revenue per ton mile.

Pipe Lines New Factor.

Now a new factor is entering, the gasoline pipe line, which threatens to take still more high grade traffic from the rails. The chances are that the building of a large number of miles of such lines can still be halted by the readjustment of rail rates to competitive value. F. J. Lisman, of Wall street, recently wrote in the Railway Age:

"If the railways were permitted to make a particularly low rate on trainloads—say not less than fifty cars—they could compete with the pipe lines if interest and depreciation charges on the pipe lines are properly figured. Heretofore, in order not to give undue advantages to large shippers, trainload rates have not been permissible."

In another place he suggests that the pipe lines are being capitalized at from $50,000 to $100,000 a mile, "which certainly looks extremely high."

Some of the western railroads have at last come out to battle with long distance bus lines for passenger business. Bus riding for journeys of 250 miles and up probably has been based almost entirely on the price attraction, and it is reasonable to assume that the rails can recapture a good deal of this business.

Limits to Policies.

Mr. Lisman asks if the rails have really fought against long haul truck lines in service and in price. The battle lines would be about the same as in the passenger field. There is very little use in pleading, as railroad men do, that buses and trucks should be forced under strict regulation, such as they groan under themselves. There are limits to which policies of kissing goodby to competitive traffic and trying to keep net revenue up by gross increases on the noncompetitive can be carried. Especially so when legislators and their interpreters decree that some of the best of this noncompetitive traffic, like farm products, shall be especially favored with low rates.

Why not trainload rates that will bring business? They mean profit when they return more than operating costs. Recognition that price and service can take back much of what the trucks and pipe lines are holding or will hold soon, seems to be needed.

A quotation from a man who knows his railroads and owns stocks in them is apropos: "Inasmuch as the government has taken unto itself the regulation of railroads, it is responsible for their prosperity." Perhaps the roads would be better off if they were more nearly responsible for their own prosperity.

I. C. C. Forestalls Coal Rate Revision Into N. West

Washington, D. C., Nov. 19.—(AP)—A revision of coal rates out of Illinois, Indiana, and Kentucky territory to the northwest, which railroads undertook to make effective Nov. 20, was prevented today by the interstate commerce commission. Two orders suspending the schedules for five months were issued. The commission instituted an investigation to determine the justice of the alterations.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 19.—The "buy now" movement gained further headway in the Wall street stock shopping center today. Traders generally turned their tin ears on such "bad" news as the daily budget brought forth, including announcement of the suspension of another brokerage firm for insolvency and a sharp falling off in the week's carloadings, and bought shares on a still more lavish scale.

Prices hopped up quite smartly, especially in the late afternoon when the rally began to gain momentum. The close found the active list sparkling with gains of 1 to 4 points from Abitibi Power to Zenith Radio. United States Steel, American Can, General Motors, General Electric, Consolidated Gas, Westinghouse—in fact, virtually all the recognized leaders were prominent in the advance.

Rails, Utilities Gain.

Rails and utilities distinguished themselves as groups, with the motors perking up and the chemicals doing their stuff with the crowd as usual. Even the oils did better. Rubber shares, however, were unable to carry through after their runup in the late dealings of yesterday.

About the only net effect of the brokerage house failure was a sharp break in the shares of Bulova Watch and in a number of other issues in which the house principally engaged in the investment field had been inter-

EXPANDING WITH THE SOUTHEAST

Whistles of factories ... skylines of skyscrapers—these are the symbols of the growth of the new industrial Southeast. With its advantages of natural resources, abundant labor and wonderful climate, the southern migration of manufacturing and the development of local industries were inevitable.

Through its utility subsidiaries the Central Public Service Corporation is taking a vital part in the growth of the Southeast—it is already the leading utility system in this territory serving the public with natural gas. The cities it serves—among them Atlanta, Charleston, Montgomery, Mobile, Augusta, Raleigh, Asheville, Lynchburg, and Durham—are the key cities of the Southeastern development.

In the rich Northwest and the progressive Middle West also, this system is building into and with the fastest growing cities and sections of the nation. Its record of assets and earnings multiplied approximately four times in three years is the result of superior utility service in 640 communities here and abroad.

Gillette plus Auto-Strop plus PROBAK

• The acquisition by the Gillette Safety Razor Company of AutoStrop Safety Razor Company, Inc. and its subsidiary Probak Corporation has just been approved by the stockholders of both companies.

• A. G. Becker & Co. became identified with the financing of AutoStrop in 1927 through the offering of 87,500 shares of its Convertible Class "A" stock at $43 a share. This stock, which is listed on the New York Stock Exchange, will now be exchanged share for share for the new $5 Dividend Convertible Preference Stock of Gillette.

• We regard this Gillette Preference Stock as a good investment and strongly recommend its purchase at current levels.

Past earnings indicate a wide coverage of dividend requirements and the merger now effected should result in further expansion in the business and its profits. Gillette has long held the dominant position in the safety razor field and the acquisition of AutoStrop and Probak will add measurably to that position.

• Gillette Preference Stock affords an excellent current return and the possibility through the conversion feature of enhancement in value in line with further growth of the business. The stock is now listed on the New York Stock Exchange and trading in it will begin shortly. We shall be glad to send you complete details of this investment. Ask for T18.

Governor Puts Kimbark on State Committee.

BY AL CHASE.

D. Avery Kimbark, former vice president of the Chicago Real Estate board and an active member of it, was appointed by Gov. Emmerson yesterday to serve on the real estate committee of the state board of registration and education in place of Henry T. Carr, who resigned because of ill health. The other two members of the committee are Ralph V. Field, of Galesburg, executive secretary of the Illinois Association of Real Estate Boards, and Charles Wanless, of Springfield. Since Mr. Carr was chairman, the committee will have to select one of its number to succeed him in that office.

D. AVERY KIMBARK.
[Walinger Photo.]

M. F. Walsh, director of the department of registration and education, in accepting Mr. Carr's resignation said: "You have rendered painstaking and efficient service as a member of this committee since your appointment more than a year ago, and I want to express my personal gratitude for the interest you have manifested and the services you have rendered in a very important division of this department."

Hears Compliments.

The committee passes on the qualifications of applicants for brokerage or sales licenses and hears evidence and renders decisions on complaints made to the state department regarding real estate operations. Mr. Kimbark lives at 1571 Ogden avenue.

The eight apartments at the northwest corner of 80th street and Burnham avenue, 124x48, were sold by Mayrold C. Johnson to Claude C. Fletcher for an undisclosed consideration, subject to $31,000. The Charles Ringer company was broker.

Wisconsin Man Buys Flats.

The twelve apartment building at 851-55 Drexel square has been sold by Marie Katherine Pedersen, of Stugart, Ark., to Leland C. White, of Monroe, Wis., for a reported $127,000. Mr. White gave in part payment a 400 acre stock and dairy farm at Rochester, Ind. W. E. Meyers Agency and Loan corporation represented the seller. George Whalen, of Monroe, Wis., was broker for Mr. White.

August Greene, who operates a bakery at 9030 Commercial avenue, has purchased the 25x133½ property adjoining it on the north, at No. 9028, from Miss Irene N. Kozlowski. The frame building is under a lease until May 1, 1932, to the Independent Fruit company. If arrangements can be made with the lessee, Mr. Greene may erect a two story brick building on the property just acquired. George A. Romey was attorney.

Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing.

Would you give me what information you can regarding Westinghouse Electric company and their stock? In your estimation would their stock bought at the present market be considered a safe and conservative buy where the stock will be bought outright to be held as an investment?—A. L. W.

Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing company, incorporated in 1872 in Pennsylvania, makes machinery and appliances for the generation, transmission and utilization of electricity. It is the second largest concern in this field in the United States and has varied interests in the electrical field throughout the world.

Although operations this year have fallen off somewhat the company for years has demonstrated its ability to get its full share of available business. This was particularly true in 1929 when sales and profits set new high records. For a number of years operations have followed a generally rising trend.

Westinghouse and General Electric company are consummating plans to share control of Radio Corporation of America. The plans call for transferring the manufacture of radio sets and tubes to Radio corporation, while the two electrical companies will act as distributors. This reversal of the former situation is aimed to make possible a more intensive cultivation of markets.

In the September quarter Westinghouse reported net profit of $2,994,881, equal to $1.12 per share, against $6,412,830, or $2.41 per share in the corresponding quarter of 1929. In the nine months ended September 30 net profit was $11,352,244, or $4.26 per share on 2,586,341 shares, compared with $19,544,211, or $7.33 per share in the first nine months of 1929.

For products other than radio, orders received during the nine months ended Sept. 30, 1930, showed a decrease of 17 per cent from the corresponding period of 1929 and an increase of 8 per cent over the first nine months of 1928.

At the close of last year current assets were $136,104,759 and current liabilities were $22,074,828. Surplus was $96,818,935.

There is outstanding about $4,000,000 of preferred stock, but no funded debt. The annual dividend rate was raised from $4 to $5 in January, 1930. The common is considered high grade. We do not predict the course of the market.

Middle West Utilities.

Will you please let me know if shares of Middle West Utilities common stock bought in the market on Oct. 24, 1930, are entitled to dividends on Nov. 15?—G. J. W.

The quarterly dividend paid Nov. 15, 1930, on Middle West Utilities common goes to holders whose names were on the books of the company on Oct. 15. If you bought the stock on Oct. 24 you would not be entitled to this payment.

Business Personals

Austin J. Lindstrom, vice president of the Foreman State Trust and Savings bank, has been elected a director of General Shares corporation, sponsor of Leaders of Industry Shares, fixed investment trust.

The Chicago Stock exchange yesterday approved the sale of a membership to Joseph Gerdy, Chicago.

Appointment of Henry L. Phillips to be president of the Sinclair Oil and Gas company, succeeding the late Richard Asbury Griffin, was announced yesterday by Harry F. Sinclair, chairman of the board of the Sinclair Consolidated Oil corporation.

William M. Kinney of Chicago was elected vice president of Portland Cement association yesterday at its annual convention at the Blackstone hotel. Mr. Kinney was selected for the office after twelve years' service as general manager of the association.

Percy S. Straus, vice president of R. H. Macy & Co., has been elected a director of the new Corn Exchange Bank and Trust company.

Railroads Reduce Fares During Holiday Season

Christmas travelers to the west will enjoy reduced fares this year, the various railroads operating to the west coast announced yesterday through the Transcontinental Passenger association. The holiday rate will consist of a fare and one-third plus fifty cents for return tickets to points in Oregon, Washington, and Idaho. The tickets are limited to return to Jan. 15. Under the arrangement stopovers will be allowed and travelers may use diverse routes. The North Western and Union Pacific announced round trip tickets for one route for a fare plus 50 cents to all terminals in California.

Outstanding among Power Stations

The Gilbert Station of the Associated System

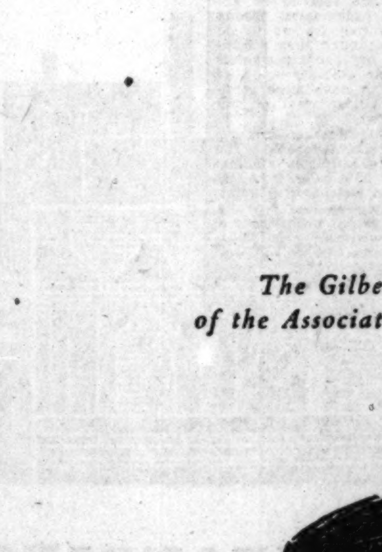
TODAY, at Holland, New Jersey, the New Jersey Power & Light Company of the Associated Gas and Electric System places in operation one of the most efficient electric generating stations in the world. This plant, known as the Gilbert Station, embodies several unique features.

Its turbines operate at 1250 pounds steam pressure—which means greater fuel efficiency. It is the first to be conceived as an all high-pressure station operating under a variable load.

It is as simple to operate as the usual low-pressure station. It is one of the few stations controlled from a single, centrally located switchboard. For the building is a great hall with the boilers and all machinery on one floor.



The Gilbert Station of the Associated System as it will appear when completed to ultimate capacity, 220,000 kilowatts. This Station is named in honor of Ernest M. Gilbert, noted engineer, under whose direction it was designed and built.

7% to 10% Gain in Efficiency

Results, obtained from operation under varying loads up to full capacity, indicate that the plant represents a net gain of approximately 7% to 10% over the most efficient stations constructed five or six years ago.

The best engineering minds in the world are at work to bring to more of the public ever increasing convenience and efficiency through the use of electricity.

| One month ago | 7.00@ 9.00 |
| One year ago | 11.90@13.00 |

Top yesterday, $8.00; average, $7.10.

Receipts at Chicago for today estimated at 6,000 cattle, 42,000 hogs, and 11,000 sheep.

The hog market hit another steep slide yesterday, going to the lowest level in more than six years. Prices show losses of $1.00@1.25 in nine days and are $3.50@3.75 under the high point of the year, established three months ago. Unseasonably warm weather has curtailed the demand for pork and beef and enabled buyers to force cattle prices to a 25c lower level in face of decreasing receipts.

Lambs featured the trade in a rise to the highest point of the week, several loads reaching the $8.00 line.

Losses of 25@40c were general in the hog market yesterday, the top slipping down 20c to $8.15, while the general average showed 30c loss at $7.85. A shipment of 130 lb pigs sold at $8.20. Obeing too light in weight to be used as the top price. A few fancy "roasters" were reported at $8.25@8.50, no criterion of the general hog market.

Prices are at the lowest point since July, 1924. Early that year the peak price went down to $7.00 and at the low time in 1923, when receipts were setting up new records for size, the top dropped to $6.75, the lowest since December, 1915, when the low point was $6.50. The three larger packers obtained a total of 5,000 good hogs that cost $7.80@7.95 yesterday. About 4,000 were left at the close.

Hog Futures Steady.

Trading in hog futures was slow at the previous day's decline, December light weights selling at $8.10. Buyers and sellers were far apart in their views as to the value of future contracts. January light were offered at $8.65 and bid $7.90, while March contracts were offered at $8.90@9.00 and bid $8.25.

January heavy grades were bid $8.00. Two carloads of 210@260 lb hogs sold on the spot market at $8.05. Five carloads of 170@210 lb averages were bid $7.85 for Friday's delivery.

Cattle buyers were in a bearish mood and offerings moved slowly at mostly 25c lower prices. Thousands of steers were carried into the afternoon trade on unsatisfactory bids. Bulk of sales were in line with the low time of last week. Fancy 882 lb yearlings topped the market at $13.25, while $12.25 was paid for 1,280 lb steers. Some good fat 1,425 lb averages had to go at $9.50 and 1,197 lb averages lacking quality sold at $6.25. Butcher stock ruled unevenly lower. Calves sold weak to lower. Stockers and feeders were weaker.

Sheep Receipts Small.

Dwindling sheep receipts and better eastern demand forced fat lambs up mostly 25c on yesterday's market. Bulk of good grades sold at $7.50@7.75, although packers, shippers, and city butchers paid upwards to $8.00 for best selections. Aged sheep and yearlings were scarce and unchanged. Feeding lambs met good demand at strong prices.

Sheep receipts at the 20 leading markets during the first half of this week at 188,000 show a decrease of 122,000 or about 40 per cent, compared with a week ago.

BUTTER AND EGGS

Butter and egg futures gained fractionally on the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday. Closing trades were ¼c@⅜c higher on butter and ⅛@⅜c higher on eggs. Sales—Butter: 55 cars; eggs, 146 cars. ## CASH·GRAIN NEWS

There were intimations of a liberal export business having been done in Manitoba wheats, and in addition to sales being made by private handlers cables said the pool had offered abroad in large amounts. The day's sales in all positions were 1,250,000 bu. There was nothing said regarding export demand for domestic hard winters, owing to the high price as compared with the Canadian grain. Galveston cleared 87,000 bu on old sales.

Local handlers sold 2,000 bu wheat, 80,000 bu corn, 60,000 bu oats, and 25,000 bu rye to the domestic trade, with 12,000 bu corn booked to arrive.

Offerings of cash wheat were very small and the spot basis was steady. No. 1 red was 2@2½c; No. 2 red, 1@2c over; No. 1 hard and No. 1 northern, December price to 1c over, and No. 2 hard and No. 2 northern, ½c under to ½c over the future.

Official receipts of grain at Chicago Wednesday: Wheat, 10 cars; corn, 108 cars; oats, 48 cars; barley, 4 cars.

HEDGING SALES IN LARD

Liquidation by holders of December lard, combined with hedging sales by packers, carried prices down yesterday. Commission houses were fair buyers of January and May and shorts absorbed offerings of December. The trade in November was small. Closing transactions were net losses of 5 to 7½c, May being relatively the strongest. Liverpool lard was 1s lower, except on January, which advanced 3d. Exports of lard were 375,000 lbs, but of bacon were only 5,000 lbs. Bellies were 2½ to 5c lower on futures.

Cash trade was called slow and green meats generally were ¼c lower. Hog prices were lower, with receipts heavier than a week and a year ago. Prices follow:

TRADE BUYING OF COTTON

Trade buying of cotton futures was said to be large yesterday, but it failed to materially help the market and values moved within a moderate range and the close was slightly higher. Mills are said to be absorbing the bulk of the hedge sales. Strong spots were used by bearish traders to do most of their selling, although they accomplished very little. The dry goods market is said to be showing fair stability and the textile interests appear to have more confidence in the future. Colder weather prevailed over the southwest.

The government weekly weather crop report, however, was mostly favorable. The American Cotton service estimates ginnings to Nov. 14 at 11,762,000 bales. At the close futures in Chicago were 4 to 8 points higher, with other markets up 1 to 7 points. Spots in New York were unchanged at 11c, and New Orleans advanced 5 points to 10.70c, while Houston was 10.65c, and Galveston 10.75c. Liverpool closed 4 to 6 points net lower, with spot sales 4,000 bales. Prices follow:

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—(AP)—SUGAR—The action of sugar futures had an unsettling effect in the spot market, with buyers apparently inclined to hold off and await further developments. December liquidation and exchanging from that delivery to later months featured raw futures and prices were easier throughout the entire session. Approximate sales, 81,300 tons, including 32,300 tons in the form of exchanges. Closing prices follow:

Grain Expert Cromwell Describes Striped Rust

R. O. Cromwell, statistician and crop expert for Lamson Bros. & Co., in a talk before Grain Market Analysts' club last night, speaking from personal investigations, described the striped rust and black rust, giving the history of the striped rust in the western and eastern hemispheres and the common names used. He pointed out the economic importance of rust in the United States, Europe, and South America, gave a description of striped rust and difference in appearance from other cereal rust, as well as its methods of living over from one year to another; also the conditions which favor an epidemic and process of control.

The consensus of 150 grain men at the club meeting was that the government should be given credit for having averted a wheat market panic through its recent stabilization operations.

CUT STOCK PAR VALUE.

Stockholders of the Otis company, Boston cotton goods manufacturers, have approved reduction of the par value of shares to $80 from $100. The company will pay $20 a share Dec. 1 to holders of record Nov. 25.

·WORLD'S·GRAIN·MARKET·NEWS·

Wheat traders say that opinions as to the action of the Chicago market are worthless, so long as present conditions exist. Transactions in December and May are decreasing, particularly in the December, as there is no incentive to trade in a future that is "pegged." There is increased business in July wheat, which is new crop, and many former wheat traders have gone into corn, which is not hampered by restrictions. There is also an increased movement of trading in Winnipeg wheat. Those who advocate it are particularly bullish on Winnipeg May on all soft spots, as there are no handicaps in that market.

A Board of Trade membership sold yesterday at $10,000 net to the buyer.

A mixed sentiment exists in the corn market. Traders in the main favor the buying side and say that with increased speculative purchases prices can be advanced to higher levels than wheat. On the other hand, traders advance the theory that should corn sell higher than wheat consumption of wheat would be increased and corn decreased. The point made by those who are buying December corn is that there is only 260,000 bu in Chicago that is deliverable in public houses. They also say that primary receipts are falling off and that country offerings are the smallest in years.

Broomhall says that Russian offerings of wheat are smaller, although supplies afloat and in European ports are large, and that seeding of winter wheat in Europe is now practically completed with a small acreage predicted in Rumania, and France is expected to seed less wheat. England, however, is to put in a larger area.

SUSPEND STOCK BROKERS DUE TO INSOLVENCY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 19.—The suspension of the New York Stock Exchange firm of Bauer, Pogue, Pond & Vivian for insolvency was announced from the rostrum of the board today after the opening of the market. Suspension by the New York Curb Exchange followed.

The suspension today was the fifth to be announced on the stock exchange for insolvency this year. The firm has a branch office in Knoxville, Tenn. It is believed that the series of bank failures in Tennessee and Kentucky the last few days had a bearing on the inability of the brokers to meet their obligations. R. Bauer, a partner, would not comment on a rumor that the firm's embarrassment was forced by market developments in Bulova Watch issues, which broke sharply following the announcement of the suspension.

"In February, 1929, Bauer, Pogue, Pond & Vivian headed a syndicate which made an offering of preferred and common stock of the Bulova Watch company. All money payable to the company from the offering had long since been paid to us. At the present time Bulova Watch company has no connection with Bauer, Pogue, Pond & Vivian and that firm is not indebted to our company. The Bulova Watch earnings this year will equal if not exceed those of last year."

· FINANCIAL · NOTES ·

Peabody & Co. and Mercantile Securities corporation, investment division of Mercantile Bank and Trust company of Dallas, Tex., are offering today a new issue of $500,000 one year 6 per cent secured notes of the Consumers Natural Gas company.

The American Telephone and Telegraph company has called for payment on March 1, 1931, its convertible 6¼ per cent bonds, due March 1, 1933. The amount called is $1,899,400, being the remnant of an issue of $67,000,000 made on March 1, 1913. The balance of the issue was all converted into stock on March 1, 1913.

The New York Stock exchange has admitted to trade on notice of issuance 310,000 shares of $5 dividend convertible preference stock without par value in connection with the acquisition of all the properties of Autostrop Safety Razor company, and 522,500 additional shares of no par common stock. Of the additional common stock, not to exceed 310,000 shares are to be issued from time to time upon conversion of the preference stock, not to exceed 210,000 shares are to be used for conversion of the company's ten year 6 per cent convertible debentures, and 12,500 shares are to go to brokers as compensation for their services in connection with the acquisition of Autostrop.

A Porto Rican bond issue of $500,000 will be offered by the war department bureau of insular affairs Dec. 9.

An offering of $3,000,000 of Western Utilities corporation one year 5 per cent first lien collateral trust bonds at 99¾ will be made by the Central Illinois company, H. M. Byllesby & Co., Paul H. Davis & Co. and by Smith-Camp Co. on the Pacific coast. The company is controlled by Western Continental Utilities, Inc., control of which was acquired last spring by the Central Illinois company and H. M. Byllesby & Co. The bonds are convertible into 6 per cent bonds due in 1949.

The Harris Trust and Savings bank, H. M. Byllesby & Co., W. C. Langley & Co., Guaranty company of New York, A. C. Allyn & Co., and J. Henry Schroder Banking corporation are offering $10,000,000 Northern States Power company 4 per cent gold notes, due Dec. 1, 1931, at 99¾ and interest, yielding over 4¼ per cent.

GRAIN BROKERS ASK REHEARING OF HIGH COURT

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 19.—(AP)—Members of the Board of Trade cannot turn grain transactions into games of chance if they operate in accordance with the rules of the board, James K. Riordon and other grain brokers told the Supreme court today in asking a rehearing of their case against William MvCabe, Bureau county farmer.

McCabe refused to pay two notes totaling $55,000 given to cover transactions with the Riordon firm, on the grounds that they were security for gambling debts and void under the statutes. Both the Circuit court of Bureau county and the state Supreme court agreed with McCabe's position. The Supreme court in its decision at the last term held that in cases where a client and a broker agree not to receive or deliver a commodity, but merely to profit by the rise or fall of the market, the transaction constitutes gambling.

ARIZONA EDISON REVENUES.

NEW ISSUE

Consumers Natural Gas Company
(A Delaware Corporation)

One-Year 6% Secured Gold Notes

COMPANY—The Company owns all or more than majority interest in 5 natural gas companies now operating in New Mexico and Oklahoma. Main transmission lines of system, all of which have been completed and are in operation, aggregate approximately 294 miles.

SECURITY—Collateral specifically securing these Notes aggregates $1,175,000 in securities of subsidiary companies.

Based on construction costs estimated by independent engineers and after deducting subsidiary prior indebtedness in the hands of the public, amounting to $916,000, there remains an equity for the pledged collateral of $1,525,344.

EARNINGS—Earnings available for interest, depreciation and Federal taxes for the 12 months' operations ended September 30, 1930 on one of the subsidiaries alone were more than sufficient to pay interest charges on these Notes after deducting interest on all the subsidiaries' prior indebtedness in the hands of the public.

Engineers' estimates for the year beginning November 1, 1930, indicate that consolidated net earnings available for payment of interest charges on these Notes will be equal to 8 times such requirements after payment of interest on prior indebtedness.

Price on application

These Notes are offered when, as and if issued and deliverable, subject to approval by counsel. Delivery in the form of interim receipts or permanent certificates will be made in the first instance. Legal matters in connection with the issuance of these notes have been passed upon by Messrs. Hyde, Westbrook, Watson and Stephenson, Chicago.

OCTOBER REVENUE OF U. S. GOV'T SHOWS $6,732,295 DECLINE

Washington, D. C., Nov. 19.—(AP)—Government revenue which declined more than $62,000,000 in the first three months of the present fiscal year continued its downward trend during October by decreasing $6,732,295 as compared with the same month a year ago.

Internal revenue figures announced today showed the decrease brought the total drop for the first four months of the fiscal year, as compared with the same period a year ago, to $69,203,779.

Income tax collections for October declined $969,000, with individual payments dropping $1,029,000 and corporation taxes showing a gain of $59,000, which brought the total tax collections from income for the month to $29,588,513. In the four months of the fiscal year which began July 1 income tax collections have declined $56,710,000 as compared with the same period of last year.

DECEMBER FINANCING.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 19.—The view was expressed here today that Dec. 15 financing by the United States treasury will be in the form of certificates of indebtedness and will amount to about $500,000,000.

Conditions in the money market have not changed greatly since the Sept. 15 financing, which was at the rate of 2⅜ per cent. It is assumed that the pending issue will be at approximately the same interest cost to the government.

This will involve a saving for the treasury, inasmuch as $483,341,000 will be used for the retirement of treasury 3¼ per cent short term certificates. Total maturities that the government must meet at mid-December are about $585,866,000, including Treasury bills.

Income tax payments for the last quarter are expected to be about $480,000,000, but most of this money will go to the general fund to wipe out a deficit.

Midweek Steel Review.

To counterbalance the temporary effect of its early dose of discouraging news, the market had the benefit in the early afternoon of the Iron Age midweek review of the steel industry stating that while ingot production for the country at large had decreased from 44 to 43 per cent of rated capacity during the week, indications pointed to the fact that the bottom of the depression had been reached. This gave added impetus to the upward movement, U. S. Steel advancing to above 148, a gain of more than 2 points, not all of which it succeeded in holding, however.

The upthrust of a small group of so-called fast movers was a feature of the late trading. Among these was Peoples Gas, which shot ahead for a net gain of 7 points, boosting its price to 232 against a low of 193 last week; Ingersoll Rand, which jumped 10 points; International Business Machine, advancing 7⅝, and R. H. Macy & Co., which rose 5⅝ points.

Western Union Telegraph got a sudden hump on itself in the utilities field and went to 143½, a gain of 4½ points on the day.

Case's Ups and Downs.

Case Threshing Machine, usually among "those present" when there is anything doing marketwise, had its ups and downs. Recent covering by shorts who wished to play safe on the dividend left the stock without immediate support at the opening. The market had to discount last night's declaration of the regular quarterly dividend and the price sagged about 5 points before the turn came with the general rally. Buying made itself felt in a hurry when it did appear and the price shot to 113, later easing off to 112 which left the issue with a net loss of a half a point on the session.

TEXAS CORP. TO GO AHEAD WITH MERGER PLAN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 19.—Announcement was made by the Texas corporation today that it will go ahead with its plan to take over the Indian Refining company despite objections raised by certain stockholders of the latter. Texas corporation representatives have examined the records and physical properties of the Indian Refining company, the statement said.

The Texas corporation made an offer on Nov. 1 to take over Indian Refining through an exchange of stock, the basis to be one share of Texas corporation common for eight shares of Indian Refining company common, subject to the right to examine the records and properties of the Indian Refining company.

The agreement provides that 75 per cent of the Indian Refining stock shall be deposited for exchange on Dec. 15, but that the offer may be declared operative upon deposit of 51 per cent.

Jay G. Robinson, president of the National Railway Devices company, has mailed a letter to stockholders of the Indian Refining company, urging them to reject the offer of the Texas corporation.

PENNSY OFFICIAL RAPS U. S. BARGE LINE OPERATIONS

New York, Nov. 19.—(AP)—Government operation of barge lines on taxation-built-and-supported inland waters, and private operation of motor bus and truck routes over taxation-built-and-supported highways in competition with railroads, were condemned tonight by speakers before the annual meeting of the Railway Business association.

Elisha Lee, vice president of the Pennsylvania railroad, said the time had come for the railroads to gird for battle, and to quit taking "vicious and evilly meant blows on the chin with a smile."

"Operation by the government of barge lines that do not pay and probably never will, but take traffic from the rails by waterways built and maintained through taxation, is without rational excuse," he said.

"Unregulated, uncontrolled, haphazard competition of commercially operated trucks that serve no economic need, but use the public highways almost free of charge, is unsound, injurious, wasteful and unfair," he declared.

"From enlarged diffusion of articles and services you cheapen costs and thereby you are a part of the dynamic force which creates higher standards of living."

When is a bargain ...NOT a Bargain?

JUST at present you and several million other people are anxious to make your money go as far as possible.

You watch prices closely; you want to be sure of your money's worth, and that is fine.

But when you look at a price—look at the name that goes with it.

An unknown name on a bottle or can or package or price tag means unknown quality.

And when the quality is unknown—you don't know whether the price is high or low.

That's one of the reasons why unknown products are not the bargains they sometimes seem.

They do not publish their quality. They seek your confidence by setting themselves up in comparison to articles you have learned to know and trust through experience and advertising.

Sometimes their only recommendation is a low price—sometimes they are handed to you without comment in place of what you asked for—sometimes they are urged upon you as "better" than the brand you went into the store to buy—and often at a higher price.

Insist upon the articles you know by name—and know what you get for your money.

When a manufacturer advertises his products in your local newspaper or in magazines, what he offers for sale is not good because it is advertised—it is advertised because it is good. The manufacturer has confidence in its quality—that's why he stakes his reputation and his profits on winning and holding your good will.

PICTORIAL REVIEW believes that unknown substitutes rarely offer quality and purity as certain as you will find in known and advertised goods.

As a great woman's magazine, reaching two and a half million homes, PICTORIAL REVIEW feels a genuine interest in seeing that the confidence of women is not abused.

In justice also to the manufacturers who offer you honest products and to the dealers who sell them, this frank discussion is published here.

SYNOPSIS.

Before the honeymoon is over Sheila discovers her husband is a drug addict. She determines to fight for his regeneration. A federal narcotic agent suggests a program, which if rigidly adhered to would effect a cure.

King promised Sheila to go with her to Alaska after the races at Tia Juana. Sheila plans to kidnap King and take him to a remote spot, there to help him fight off his baneful habit. Jim Molloy is living in Nome and he promises to help her. At breakfast in Jim's cabin King's coffee is drugged and Sheila and Jim carry him off unconscious to a cabin not far from Nome, although seemingly in the heart of the frozen wilderness. Jim leaves them his servants, Hi-Jack and Casino, an Eskimo couple, and returns at once to Nome, promising Sheila to return secretly every month.

When King regains consciousness and learns he is trapped for the next eight months his fury breaks in verbal abuse on Sheila, accusing Jim of wanting to get him out of the way. He tries to bribe Hi-Jack to go to Nome for him. Failing in this he tries to escape on snowshoes and is saved by the timely arrival of Pere Le Clerc, a missionary. The priest begs Sheila to let him take King to the mission, but she refuses to abandon King.

King squanders his remaining supply of dope and brutally attacks Sheila. When he at last is exhausted Sheila slips on his wrists the handcuffs which Jim had left. When he awakens she tells him that before they are able to leave the cabin she will bear his child. This news gradually works a transformation in King. He suspects Jim's visits.

INSTALLMENT XXVIII.
THE BETRAYING PAPER.

On a slim pretext, Sheila had sent Casino back to her cabin bearing the penciled message. Later in the afternoon, when she had given up hearing from Jim that day, Happy Jack lumbered in bearing a load of sawn railroad ties. A note was found in the accustomed place.

"Okeh, Sheila," it ran. "I'll rest tonight with the perfumes of Araby. Shall be off tomorrow before you stop dreaming of the flowers and sunshine you will so soon be seeing."

"Soon!" whispered Sheila to herself, hidden by the curtains. "This is February. The first boat may not leave till June. And he can write, "soon!"

Lest Jim under cover of the darkness might steal to the door to assure himself that all was well with them, she arranged a rollicking concert for the phonograph; she brought out the comic records which King, as well as the squatting natives, would listen to by the hour. Though the little brown people failed to understand the words, they found an exquisite humor in the drawling darkey voices. Sheila had been unusually profligate with candles; when suddenly it had come to her that Jim would see how it was with her. The thought petrified her. Dragging her shawl about her shoulders, she was rising awkwardly from her chair when King, misinterpreting her intention, jumped out. "I'll change the record, Little Mother."

Passing the windows, she had drawn, casually, the curtains over the snow banked windows. When she returned to her chair, the bright eyes of the ermine were waiting for what she carried in her hand. King's eyes, too, she thought, had questioned her. "I believe you could train it to do tricks," she had said to decoy his attention.

"Give me the fudge, Sheila."

If Jim had crept to their door that night, he would have heard them

And then, in March, some one blundered.

There had been four weeks of serene routine. More frequent now were intervals of clear, cold weather. There were days when the sky was treacherously blue and an alienated sun revealed its cold face. There were nights never to be forgotten when the moon broke through the trenches of cloud and captured the sky; nights when the northern lights staged spectacles of splendor. The two exiles, swathed to nosetip in furs, would creep to the opening of the cañon to gain a wider view of the radiant curtains and streaming banners of the aurora, and would toil back again in chilled awe. Later, King would break the silence by playing and replaying "The Waters of Minnetonka," finding something in its frail melody which interpreted his own mental prostration in this, their cathedral of ice and snow; and Sheila would be reminded anew of a midnight mass to which she had been led as a child, when the red robed, lace smocked acolytes, bearing torches, would kindle the long candles into swaying streamers of light. Forever, wherever she was, she knew that call with its accompaniment of rippling waters would recall the grandeur of those northern nights, the moon's majesty, the ermine swathed earth, the banners of magnetic light.

Now that the winter was on the wane, they were making unstinted use of the old magazines. When their absorption in the game of the moment called for a quick feeding of the two fires, they would avail themselves of the twisted fire lighters which Casino had learned to provide. A few days after Jim's last visit, Sheila saw King staring at a scrap of printed paper he had been about to stuff into the air tight stove; she saw him smooth it flat, watching with apprehension his puzzled frown. As he tossed it into the hungry red mouth she recognized the newspaper type . . . she pretended not to be watching him when he picked up another fire lighter, untwisted it, and after a swift glance, stuffed the betraying scrap into his pocket. When he returned to the game his look of enlightenment lingered. Before he left the cabin, before she had a chance to examine the other twisted papers in the woodbox, she knew what she would find: torn bits of a Nome newspaper, from Jim's Star, perhaps, and incriminating dates. When her husband fell into a brown study over a move, she was aware that it was not a pawn or a queen puzzling him; he was recalling other things which at the time had puzzled him—moose steak which had been explained as a discovery in the ice cellar, a January miracle; a strange book on the shelves; the generosity of the ice cellar which he had christened the Baucis pitcher; the distant baying of dogs and her lack of curiosity therefore on certain days; always towards the end of the month. King would be on the alert from now on. His were no longer dulled wits which would accept frail deceptions. . . .

When the game was done he exclaimed, "I think I'll take a walk, old thing. Don't worry if I don't come back at once. I may try to beat Hi-Jack at his own game; may do some ice fishing down at the river."

He would go direct to the Eskimo shack; would demand to know from where, from whom that newspaper had come. They would not tell him, they would confront him with their mask of stolid stupidity. But from that hour King would be on the watch for a visitor; and she knew he had already divined it would be Jim Molloy.

More frequent and longer grew her husband's solitary excursions. He began to take interest in snare setting for ptarmigan; daily he accompanied Happy Jack to the river, carrying the axe and the comical fishing pole, the sturdy willow stick tipped with steel, a piece of red flannel for lure tied to a barb of carved bone. King had explained its oddities; a fisherman's fingers would freeze while jerking the "catch" off a conventional hook.

Useless for her to suggest accompanying him on such expeditions, for the walk from one cabin to the other, and return, was all she could now accomplish; and when the wind raged, she required the help of Happy Jack as well as King's. She who in the old Vassar days had scoffed with Mary Cameron over the cowardice of women who make of a simple animal process a family catastrophe, was beginning to doubt her own endurance. The mirror, as well as her companion's solicitous eyes, told her how sharp the change was, but there was no one who could explain the signficance of the bloated face, of the pasty swellings which circled her lids. Such an ugly, distorted Sheila who smiled mournfully back from the glass!

"Because—because I met you, King George."

"You didn't know then he was the better man?"

It took a half minute of time to prepare the honest answer. "I thought then what I think now; that he had had better luck."

After that, she was convinced his daily trip was made to waylay Molloy, that the Dolly Varden trout was but a pretext. Whatever the impetus, the new activity was bestowing health; a glow was creeping into the pale cheeks, a luster to the eyes. Each glance at the face glowering into the fire renewed her thankfulness. The twenty-ninth was still weeks away. Perhaps a storm might coincide; or she could feign illness—King would not leave her if he thought her hour had come. But, alas, the days were settling into a routine of crystal clarity. There was no change in her condition. And the morning of the twenty-ninth, a warmer sun crossed the edge of the sky.

Futile were the wiles she essayed. When it came to the test, she could not deceive him by feigning anguish. She talked instead of nerves, of loneliness. Baffled, she had to watch him get into parka and mukluks, drag on his marten cap and the hood with its furry halo; had to lift her lips to his mysteriously smiling kiss. She watched him out of sight as he skillfully steered the snowshoes borrowed from the Eskimo.

Good morning!

Harold Lloyd in a new picture always is news—and good news! Mr. Lloyd is an instinctive comedian with a nice sense of values, and any fun in which he participates is clean fun, which anybody can witness with ANYbody withOUT blushing.

"Feet First" is interesting primarily because it features Mr. Lloyd. The piece reminds you of the "something old, something new, something borrowed and something blue" saying. It is extremely reminiscent of "Safety Last"; has some new gags; has borrowed a few ideas from the general slapstick scrap bag, and contributes to blueness in that it is 'way too long. The start is labored and occupies about three reels where one would have been plenty. Sez I. Do I know? Maybe not.

Once on its way the film shows you a good time as you follow the adventures of the young salesman (graduate of a "Personality Plus" correspondence course) who pursues his true love through traffic; across oceans and into exclusive clubs with nothing but nerve as a passport. He completes his cycle of vicissitudes by concealing himself in a mailbag which falls on a painter's scaffold that bears him to perilous heights along the sides of a skyscraper. This is the part the ads guarantee will make you shake and quake; quiver and shiver. I back up the ads. You'll enjoy this mess of trouble, and also the one where, on shipboard, Harold Horne endeavors to secure and destroy all numbers of a certain magazine that contain his picture and his indorsement of the correspondence school. His girl, you see, believes him to be a BIG BUSINESS MAN . . . !

Mr. Lloyd is his own delightful, agile self. He works hard and never hogs the spotlight. Barbara Kent is sweet as the heroine. A Negro, earnestly imitating Stepin Fetchit's style, is laughable, and all other rôles are pleasingly played. Sound is good and dialogue used only when necessary. Photography's oke.

Length and lack of originality are the only drawbacks to "Feet First." See you tomorrow.

Jewish Rabbis Stirred by British Palestine Policy; Protest Here

Protest was made yesterday against the action of the British government discouraging the migration of more Jews to Palestine. That action was taken at the semi-annual meeting of the Union of Orthodox Rabbis of North America. The sessions are being held at the Hebrew Theological college, Douglas boulevard and St. Louis avenue, this week.

The protest will be sent to the American state department at Washington and to Downing street, London. According to Rabbi Eliezer Mushkin, head of the Chicago rabbinate, the rabbis have dubbed Lord Passfield, author of the "white paper," the "lord of Hebron." They assert that Lord Passfield was the real cause of the recent Hebron massacre. Chief Rabbi Moses Romm of Minneapolis declared that historical rights to Palestine cannot take precedence of biblical rights.

Milwaukee's New Archbishop Crowned by Cardinal Mundelein

Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 19.—[Special.]—Nineteen centuries of religious tradition were unfolded in solemn ceremonials today when the Rt. Rev. Samuel Alphonsus Stritch was enthroned as archbishop of Milwaukee in old St. John's cathedral.

George Cardinal Mundelein of Chicago led the new archbishop to the velvet draped dais, which stands in the cathedral sanctuary as an earthly symbol of his spiritual dominion over the 317,000 Catholics in the archdiocese and of his authority over the four neighboring dioceses of Green Bay, La Crosse, Superior, and Marquette, Mich.

A stately order of procedure and richness of color and ceremony were the dominant notes of the enthronement. Obedience to authority and adherence to tradition were the principles stressed in the papal bulls and the formal addresses of the cardinal and archbishop to the people from the sanctuary.

She's 98; Must Look Her Best for Her Picture

Civil War Trooper's Mother Tells Her Story.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.

Take my picture? Not a chance. Give me a few hours to powder up and get some good clothes on and I'll give you a picture to make your eyes pop! Right now I look like the devil. Get away from me with that camera!

"Prohibition? They're making a sad mess of it, but it would be a shame if old King Alcohol ever showed his rotten face to the sunshine again. You can't tell me anything about beer or whisky.

"I can't stand inaction. I want a lot of work to do. You'd think I was getting old, the way they keep me from doing anything.

"Marriage! A wonderful thing! I've had two husbands and I could have had a third if I wanted one."

A temperamental stage or screen beauty talking? A prominent personage, pulsing with energy, fretting at restraint? Some one constantly in the public eye, interviewed between arrival and departure of a train?

None of these guesses would be even warm. The above remarks came in the course of a snappy hour's interview with Mrs. Samantha Rorer Button, 99 years old next Dec. 12, resident of the village of McHenry, Ill., and mentioned in Washington dispatches as the only living parent of a civil war veteran.

Mrs. Button, a five foot bundle of pep, disclosed herself as a pocket size combination of Bernard Shaw and Mary Garden, a vivid personality with a tinge of the eccentric and decided views upon any subject of the past or present day.

Ninety-three years ago the bright, inquisitive eyes of 6 year old Samantha McCollum glowed from the interior of an oxen drawn covered wagon upon the beauty of the Illinois prairies, still peopled by Indians and swarming with wild game.

Sixty-nine years ago the same eyes, diffused with tears, watched a 15 year old son march off to war, a proud member of the 18th Illinois cavalry. Three years later, dry eyed, the young mother received the news of her son's death of pneumonia in camp.

Yesterday those same eyes, undimmed by the passage of nearly 99 years, sparkled with a mixture of temper and good humor as Mrs. Button touched on some high spots of her long life, enlivened with pithy comments upon whatever subject popped into her active mind.

She was a bride at 15, and her first son was born when she was 16 years old. The same son enlisted for the civil war when he was only 15 years old. This combination of circumstances has made her the only surviving parent of a civil war veteran at a day when the 2,713,865 Union soldiers in the war have dwindled to less than 50,000, and are dying off at the rate of 10,000 a year.

"And I'm here for a good many years yet," she declared. She, incidentally, insists she will be 100 years old on her next birthday, belonging to the school which declares a child 1 year old when he or she is born.

Mrs. Button receives a pension of $30 a month from the government and had a grievance concerning that pension.

"Congress raised the pension of widows of civil war veterans from $30 to $50," she declared, "but because I was the only mother left they refused to raise my pension. I'd like to tell those fellows down at Washington a thing or two."

Mrs. Theresa Culver, with whom Mrs. Button lives, explained in an aside that Mrs. Button has a comfortable private income from the estate of her husband and that that consideration affected the government's decision.

"I can remember Indians around here as plain as day," Mrs. Button added, "and there were so many wolves that I was warned, as a little girl, never to stray far away from home. That doesn't seem so long ago.

"I was a big girl for my age and married when I was 15 years old. We named our first boy Clinton and he was a strong young fellow, too. He was just a boy when he joined the cavalry, but he was a captain when he died. They let him stay out in the cold too much and he caught pneumonia and died.

"I've certainly had a long, full life. I had two husbands and both of them were good men. My second husband, Mr. Button, was a member of the Minnesota legislature and we were in the first circles of [illegible] and Minneapolis. I was a beautiful woman, then, I'd have you know.

"I've always been interested in politics. I thought it was too bad that Illinois elected a Democratic senator last election day. I wanted to get out and vote myself, but I didn't feel too well that day. I hope that prohibition never goes away. They can enforce it if they try."

"When you come next time, give me warning," she said, in conclusion. "I'll fix myself up, comb my hair, put a good dress and my gold watch and earrings on and give you a good picture for your paper."

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

WILLIAM HODGE is one of the institutions of the American stage, which hasn't many of them left. He has been acting for thirty-eight years, and has been a start almost since the turn of the century. His appearance at the Garrick theater in this self-written play, "The Old Rascal," might easily be a cue for remarks such as, "Well, here he is again, the same old Hodge in the same old play." But it happens that this is Mr. Hodge with a difference.

He has studied the tendencies of the time and has made the discovery that modern audiences like a play with a bed in it, and an unborn child or two, and a gang of crooks, and a bit of gun pointing. So he tossed these ingredients into his ink pot, and cooked up "The Old Rascal," a vehicle which will carry him comfortably in a tour of the country.

This comedy is an amiable and diverting specimen of hodge-podgery in which rural shrewdness, wickedly beguiled for a time, turns the tables upon a crew of New York blackmailers. A double barreled badger game is what Mr. Hodge runs up against in his visit to the big town, but when the conspirators spring their trap, the old boy proves that he is too much of a fox for them.

Wearing a quaint and bucolic fringe of whisker on his dewlap, Judge Joe Adams, otherwise Mr. Hodge, bears down upon the night clubs of Manhattan with a million dollars to spend, if necessary, in amusing himself. His nagging wife, back home, has played Carrie Nation with his bourbon cellar, and so, having found matrimony a failure, he is on the loose and having a high old time.

The plot to deprive Mr. Hodge of his fortune is almost elaborate enough to overthrow a dynasty. Leagued against him are his valet, his secretary, two high powered lawyers, a slick gunman disguised as a fashion plate, and a neat little trick of femininity in baby blue pajamas. Mr. Hodge's valet puts knockout drops into his night cap; the baby blue pajamas slip into the salmon pink bed beside Mr. Hodge's flannel night shirt; a photographer enters with a flashlight apparatus—and there you are. They intend to charge Mr. Hodge half a million dollars for that night's work.

But the thickening of the plot does not disturb Mr. Hodge. He just sits around, or stands around, and says things, sometimes in a mild alcoholic trance, sometimes in a sober and judicial state of mind. Plot or no plot, there is always time and space in this play for typical Hodgian dissertations, mellow with crossroads humor and rich with bucolic wisdom. Also, in scenes with his formidable wife, who is threatening a cross-bill for divorce, the Hodgian instinct for slow but pungent irony in a colloquial vein finds full expression.

At yesterday's matinee performance, an audience which seemed to be composed chiefly of billowy matrons and jolly housewives laughed itself red in the face over "The Old Rascal." Even a pair of shopworn dramatic critics chuckled often enough to commit themselves to a favorable verdict.

Maud Ream Stover is effectively comic as the judge's awful western wife. The others are the others—merely vocal silhouettes as background for Mr. Hodge's full length portrait of himself in jasper whiskers. As a trim little sample of blackmailers' blonde bait, Evelyn Platt was well selected.

Women Voters Seek Women to Be Jurors

Plan Campaign to Make Victory Effective.

BY KATHLEEN M'LAUGHLIN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Urbana, Ill., Nov. 19.—[Special.]—After eight years' energetic promotion of the measure, and the recent apparent victory at the polls, for the women on juries referendum, the Illinois League of Women Voters gave evidence today that it has only just begun that fight. They now will try to get the women to serve.

Tomorrow Mrs. C. P. Fowler of Evanston, chairman of the committee on the legal status of women, will present a new plan before the convention of the league, in Lincoln hall on University of Illinois campus here.

While the referendum carried in Cook county, it was defeated down state. And in the latter area, where actual antipathy to the idea does not exist, indifference does, according to women who have taken account of the situation.

Therefore the league proposes, first, to get the names of women eligible on the jury lists, through efforts of local chairmen of committees on the legal status of women; second, to persuade those women who do not wish to serve, that it is to their interest to do so—especially financially; third, to print a pamphlet informing those women called for service on juries as to their duties.

Tomorrow morning's session of the convention also has scheduled for consideration the symposium on the tax problem in Illinois. Representatives of various state associations will advance possible solutions.

Dr. Mollie Ray Carroll's submitted program for the study of the unemployment situation was adopted this afternoon by the convention, with the various points of emphasis suggested in her report. Such points as old age insurance, public employment services and a special division under the latter for women, in charge of women, will be made the subject of study. Mrs. Quincy Wright of Chicago presented the report in the absence of Dr. Carroll.

Detailed discussion of the proposal to increase the dues of all leagues from $1 to $12 per year, which had been expected to end in adoption, finally resulted in rejection. The consensus of the delegates was that the present was not the proper time to introduce higher dues, although individual leagues have done so with success.

One of the main faults in the present system of taxation in Illinois, the convention was informed by Prof. M. H. Hunter of the department of economics of the state university is that the assessors are not efficient. Nor can they be expected to be when they have but two months work a year at $5 to $10 per day, added the expert, who is author of at least two books on the subject.

Mrs. Maurice A. Pollack of Highland Park, chairman of the state committee on living costs, called attention to the fact that the item of farm relief measures had been dropped from the program of study, in line with the action of the national organization, because of the wide scope of the subject and the difficulty of presenting proper material.

In connection with her report of the study of government activities in behalf of the consumer, Mrs. Pollack mentioned the Muscle Shoals project. The government has leased the property in part at two mills a kilowatt hour for the power used, which is then retailed to consumers at 12 cents a kilowatt hour, she pointed out, and, even operated thus, at a fraction of its potentiality, the government has cleared two million dollars in profits.

"With the ushering in of the eighteenth amendment the organized bootlegger has become immensely wealthy," the league was told by Albert J. Harno, dean of the University of Illinois law school, who dwelt particularly on Chicago gangs and gangsters.

"For the first time in history," he continued, "we have a very rich criminal class. It is difficult to estimate the evils this has wrought. It has demoralized the law enforcing machinery. The criminal has an unholy alliance with politics. Frequently he himself is a politician and because of his power is untouchable by those who are in politics. If not a politician he has an unobstructed path to the politician's door, either front or back.

"No state can long survive which has in its background such sinister figures."

Borglum Denies Any Clash with Coolidge on Rushmore History

The Mount Rushmore national commission met yesterday at the Union League club to discuss the progress of work on that memorial in the Black Hills of South Dakota. There faces of a few leaders in American history are being carved on the face of a cliff.

Gutzon Borglum, sculptor, who is supervising the project, and members of the commission, including Julius Rosenwald, Fred W. Sargent and Frank O. Lowden, said, following the meeting, no mention was made of the 500 word history of the United States written by former President Coolidge and repudiated by him after it had been edited by Borglum. Mr. Rosenwald said last night the question of an inscription would not be considered again for at least a year.

Mr. Borglum said, "The only interest I have regarding an inscription lies in my desire that it should set forth in no uncertain terms the ideals of this government which is founded on the essential right of people to be happy. The history should tell how the growth of this country has affected the nations of the world. Mr. Coolidge and I have worked together on this inscription which will be carved in the rock next to the figures of Washington, Jefferson, Lincoln and Roosevelt. There was no quarrel between us concerning it."

Mr. Borglum said that the portraits of Washington and Jefferson would be almost entirely completed in time for the celebration of Washington's 200th anniversary on next Nov. 1. The models for the figures of Lincoln and Roosevelt have been completed and work will start on them next summer, the sculptor said.

Modern Method of Cleansing Face Is Worthy of Praise

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

It wasn't my intention to make a Be Thankful week out of this one we're now well into. I only started out calling attention to some of the great modern beauty blessings it is our privilege to enjoy. Today my mind homehow got fastened on the hygienic development in cleansing cream removers.

Formerly whether you used a worn wash rag to remove the cream or a small towel or discarded bit of linen there was always the question of how to get the thing washed. It never seemed fair to chuck it into the laundry bag to grease the other articles there. Often it grew into a most unsightly possession, used over and over again until it resembled in shade a much used dusting cloth.

The cleansing tissue replacing the cold cream rag certainly is worthy of praise. It's sanitary, never unsightly, and it comes now in convenient size with the price down within reach of all. Its great virtue, however, lies in the fact that the face is spared a "swiping" with an article that carries the last facial debris on its surface.

There's no telling how much damage the old, unsanitary cold cream rag contributed to faces already showing symptoms of acne. Piling dirt upon a surface that above all things needed cleansing measures of strictest hygiene could not but result disastrously. Undoubtedly there are women who still cling to the unsanitary rag. They should be more progressive for the sake of their faces.

If not cleansing tissue the sterilized facial cotton squares that can be thrown away after one cleansing should be adopted. The thing is never to use a soiled article on the face. Good skins are too precious possessions to trifle with.

Powder puffs come under the same censure from repeated use of unwashed ones. With puffs as cheap as they are today and soapsuds always convenient every puff should be a sanitary and self-respecting one.

FARM AND GARDEN
BY PAUL POTTER

Memories of farm buildings which permitted drifting snow to enter through cracks and crevices along with fresh air have caused present day builders to forget that even a beast can live only three minutes without air. As a result farmers who would not think of starving their flocks or herds or permitting them to go for days without water deny them fresh air for hours, says W. A. Foster of the farm mechanics department of the Illinois college of agriculture.

Solution of the problem in his opinion is a ventilating system properly designed and installed. Such a system consists of outlets to remove moisture and foul air and inlets to replace the removed air with fresh. "Old buildings had plenty of fresh air. It poured in around cracks and crevices and with it snow and sleet. Drafts were present and carried off foul air and moisture, but the buildings were so uncomfortable that builders turned to other extremes and built structures of masonry or matched construction.

"Fresh air," says Mr. Foster, "was thus shut out except when a door or window was opened and the breathed air with its moisture and impurities often was shut in for long periods. A cold, damp room results. First steps in correcting this in the newer types of buildings came when egg production fell off and the milk flow decreased. Ventilating systems were designed and installed and they correct the fault."

Ordinary types of ventilating where improved systems are not installed do not solve the problem, it is said. For instance, ventilating windows in a dairy barn are said to work very well until extremely cold weather arrives, when the windows naturally are shut.

Open front poultry houses are said to be satisfactory until severe weather, when they are closed. A carefully designed system controls the outflow and inrush of air and in that way conserves heat.

NEW YORK SOCIETY

New York, Nov. 19.—[Special.]—Mrs. Albert B. Ashforth gave a dinner party at Mayfair house last night and had among her guests Mr. and Mrs. Edward H. Manville, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel F. Pryor, Mr. and Mrs. J. Verner Reed, and Mrs. John D. Barrett.

Mrs. Ansel Phelps gave a luncheon at the Pierre for Mrs. Julian Humphreys of London, England.

Among the debutante parties today was the luncheon which Mrs. James R. Sloane gave at the Colony club for her niece, Miss Mary J. Delafield, and for Miss Kathleen Knox. Miss Delafield is the daughter of Mrs. Joseph L. Delafield.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., Nov. 19.—[Special.]—Mrs. Hoover this afternoon gave a tea in the White House to the women's auxiliary of the American Institute of Mining and Metallurgical Engineers holding a conference in Washington this week. Mrs. Hoover was assisted by Mrs. Wilbur, wife of the secretary of the interior, and Mrs. Hennen Jennings, widow of a prominent South African mining engineer.

The Italian ambassador gave a dinner this evening at the embassy in compliment to Conte Volpi di Misurata who arrived here yesterday for a short visit. He was received this afternoon by President Hoover. Among those at the dinner were Secretary Mellon and Secretary Lamont; Joseph Colon, undersecretary of state; Ogden L. Mills, undersecretary of the treasury; William E. Castle Jr., assistant secretary of state; Henry P. Fletcher, former American ambassador to Italy; David Jayne Hill, former American ambassador to Germany; Eugene Meyer Jr., David Finley, Theodore W. Noyes, Richard Southgate, head of the division of protocol, and Floyd Blair or New York.

7 Hours in Bed and Not 7 Minutes of Sleep!

The Toll Acidity Takes

You go to bed dog tired but the minute you hit the pillow all sleepiness vanishes. If you do sleep at all it's only in snatches and you wake out of these "stupors" with a strange, startled feeling, sometimes in a cold sweat. Morning finds you a rag, gaunt and hollow-eyed and barely able to crawl out of bed.

Acidity is due to our unnatural eating habits, our excessive smoking and irregular hours. The excess acid upsets digestion and causes acid-indigestion with gas and heartburn. It causes putrefaction and fermentation in the gastro-intestinal canal which frequently results in ragged nerves, sleeplessness, logy days and general loss of health and vitality.

A remarkable new corrective of acidity has been developed by a famous 100-year-old pharmaceutical house in Germany. This new, improved magnesia comes in the form of small white tablets called Magnesia Oxoids which do not have to be chewed, but which may be swallowed whole. Magnesia Oxoids, upon contact with the acid in the stomach, generate nascent, or active, oxygen! Now, active oxygen, as any doctor will tell you, when generated within the digestive tract does just the things required for acidity. It stimulates the secretion of the alkaline mucus. It checks the putrefaction and fermentation in the gastro-intestinal canal. It exercises a stimulating effect upon the activities of the intestinal walls and aids the movement of the bowels.

All three effects are necessary to the true relief of acidity and Magnesia Oxoids supply them in a perfectly natural manner.

Make This Acidity Test

To ascertain just how "acid" you are, make this acidity test. Get a bottle of Magnesia Oxoids from Walgreen Drug Stores, Economical Drug Stores, or any other druggist on our money-back guarantee. Take two after each meal. Mark the change in your physical condition—note how more sound and restful your sleep and how more cheerful and active your days. If, after taking contents of one bottle, you don't sleep better and have more "pep" and power, return the bottle to the druggist and he will refund your money.

It booms, zooms, soars and roars its way to Chicago!
Most Astonishing Air Spectacle in Screen History!

HELL'S ANGELS

STARTLING BEFORE YOUR EYES!

Air-devils, dare-devils—love in their souls — murder in their hearts! A gigantic REAL Zeppelin crashes to the earth in flames. Fifty planes in combat —SCENES THAT DEFY DESCRIPTION.

Bairnsfather Talks Tonight on "Old Bill"

BY THALIA

Members of the Women's Athletic club apparently approve of the introduction by the entertainment committee of evening programs. Reservations have been made for between 250 and 300 members and their guests for dinner this evening before Capt. Bruce Bairnsfather gives his talk on "With Old Bill on All Fronts."

There will doubtless be many more coming in after dinner to hear the program. Thursday night dinners and a dinner-dance or so were held last year and were popular.

Mrs. William Nelson Pelouze, president of the organization, is having a party of six for dinner, and Mrs. Alfred C. Tyler, chairman of the program committee, and Mrs. H. Newton Hudson are to entertain jointly. Others who will be present include Mrs. Alvin C. McCord, Mrs. William Pullman, Mrs. Richard Folsom, Mrs. James R. Tatman, Mrs. George W. Blossom, Mrs. Walter Faithorn, Mrs. Edward R. Litsinger, Mrs. Frank Graves, Mrs. E. J. Senn, Mrs. Bertrand Walker, and Miss Nettie Baumann. Dinner is to be served in the main dining room and Capt. Bairnsfather's lecture will be in the ballroom.

The Chicago Drama league is having one of its distinguished guest luncheons today at the Drake hotel, with Dr. Henry Wadsworth Longfellow Dana, an authority on comparative literature, to be the chief guest and speaker.

The White Elephant rummage shop is having its monthly dressmaker's sale today, instead of the last Thursday of the month, as they usually do, because of Thanksgiving. Mrs. D. Mark Cummings and her committee are in charge.

One of the officials in a large naval architect and engineering firm says that his company is busy selling what probably are the greatest luxuries in the world—yachts. The Charles H. Thornes are having a sizable craft—it's to be 148 feet long—built for them this winter, presumably for use at their summer place in Les Cheneaux islands in the north channel, linking the great lakes. Kenneth Smith purchased the fast passenger cruiser that Philip K. Wrigley had constructed last year and Mr. Wrigley is having a new one made almost exactly like it. Mr. Smith is to use the boat in Florida while his family is there for the winter season at their Palm Beach place. Mr. Wrigley may have his boat shipped to Catalina island.

Mrs. Marcus Richards of Winnetka, president of the Arden Shore association, will preside at the annual meeting and luncheon tomorrow at the Palmer house.

Mrs. G. F. M. Ennis [Ethel Kirkland], who has been in Chicago visiting her sister, Mrs. Victor C. Sanborn of Lake Forest, and her brother, John Kirkland of 25 East Walton place, departed on Monday and is to sail for England on the S. S. Pennland on Friday. She will return to South Africa early in December.

Mrs. Frederick G. Wacker of Lake Forest and her young son have gone to Arizona, and are to be there all through the winter.

Clinical notations—Mrs. Joseph G. Coleman is at Passavant hospital and the Frederic McLaughlins' small son, Billy, has been at Alice Home for a mastoid operation from which he is now recovering.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles T. Atkinson have closed their residence in Lake Forest and have come into town to be with Mrs. Howard Van Doren Shaw of 2450 Lake View avenue until Dec. 1. They are planning to depart then for a whole year of traveling. They will take a round the world trip, beginning their ocean voyage at Vancouver.

Mr. and Mrs. John V. Farwell have closed their Lake Forest place and are occupying their apartment at 229 Lake Shore drive.

Mrs. Albert R. Brunker is to leave Lake Forest a week from next Monday for a 10 day visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George S. Gaylord in Pasadena.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Rehm closed their Lake Geneva place a week or so ago, and are at the Drake hotel. Their daughter and son-in-law, the Emanuel La Roches, have been with them.

WED IN U. OF C. CHAPEL

MRS. HENRY STEVENS EMBREE.
[Koehne Photo.]

The marriage of Miss Ruth Borden, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Seymour Borden of 6920 Chappel avenue, to Henry Stevens Embree, son of Mr. and Mrs. John William Embree of 3314 Sheridan road, took place on Nov. 8 at Bond chapel of the University of Chicago. The bride and groom have gone to Honolulu and the orient for their wedding trip. They will return in late February.

"That Untidy Paper" Proves Declaration of Independence

Ontario, Cal., Nov. 19.—(AP)—A document described by Dr. Mertin E. Hill, high school principal, as apparently one of the 55 original copies of the declaration of independence, was in his hands today after having reposed unrecognized for four years in a farm house.

Mrs. Arthur G. Phelps, who delivered the document to Dr. Hill, said the paper had been cluttering up the house for four years before she read an article in a magazine saying a letter written by Button Gwinnett, one of the declaration's signers, had been sold for $50,000.

Society at the Opera

Mr. and Mrs. Richard T. Crane Jr. occupied their box at the opera last night for the first time this season, having arrived in Chicago a few days ago after a long absence. They were accompanied by their daughter, Miss Florence Crane; Mr. and Mrs. Edmund A. Russell, and Donald McClure. With the Stanley Fields in an adjacent box were Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Borland and Mrs. George D. McLaughlin.

The Charles A. Munroes, who also have been in Chicago only a day or so after having been away for many months, were hosts in their box to Mr. and Mrs. James C. Ames and Mrs. William L. Hodgkins. Guests of Mrs. Hugh J. McBirney were Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Bissell, Mrs. Parmalee McFadden, James Keeley, and Augustus S. Peabody.

Robert J. Thorne had with him his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. G. Corson Ellis, and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph C. Belden. Mrs. Rensselaer W. Cox was hostess to her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. William Deshler Cox; Mr. and Mrs. E. I. Cudahy, and Hyde Gillette.

Mrs. Charles H. Besly had as her guests Mrs. Edward Twedell, Miss Gwethalyn Capes, Lawrence Capes, and John Rutter. Mr. and Mrs. John M. Manning had as their guests in the George L. Chamberlain box Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Horn, Miss Buzard, and Miss Rachel Manning.

Presbyterians Will Defy Hard Times with Budget

The Presbyterian church in the U. S. A. will not retreat from its missionary and benevolent obligations because of hard times. This was decided yesterday at a meeting of the general council of that church held yesterday at the Drake hotel. The Rev. Dr. Hugh T. Kerr, moderator of the general assembly, presided. The budget fixed for next year will call for a $12,000,000 income.

Feminine Hygiene

Now possible without danger or inconvenience. Use Pariogen Tablets, the new feminine antiseptic. No water, no accessories required. Non-poisonous, non-caustic; will not harm the most delicate tissues. A powerful antiseptic and germicide. Pariogen Tablets are packed twelve in a tube about the size of a fountain pen. Convenient anywhere. Learn of this new convenience and safety in feminine hygiene today. One dollar the tube at all drug stores and drug counters.

PARIOGEN TABLETS

No matter what your AGE

No need Now to Have Gray Hair

THIS the age of youth! People want to look young. The country wants youth. Employers want youth. Society wants youth. So now you see fewer and fewer people with Gray Hair. Do you know the secret? Hundreds of thousands of other people have found it in a queer discovery of science—a liquid that is as colorless as water—yet which imparts color to gray hair! Its name is Kolor-Bak! Not a sticky, messy, hard-to-use preparation that might endanger your hair. But a clean, safe liquid that you simply comb into your hair to make the gray go. It acts so gradually that even your friends won't realize that you are using anything. And it leaves the beautiful sheen of the hair unchanged. No experimenting with Kolor-Bak—the one bottle does for Blonde, Black, Brown, or Auburn. Be young looking again! Get a bottle today and if Kolor-Bak doesn't make you look 10 years younger your money will be refunded any time you ask.

Sinclair Lewis Crams Swedish; to Give Thanks

New York, Nov. 19.—(AP)—Out on a Connecticut farm with Baron Johan Lilkenorantz as his teacher, Sinclair Lewis is cramming on Swedish. He wants to be able to reply with an appropriate "Thank you" on Dec. 10 when he is presented with the $46,350 Nobel prize for literature at Stockholm.

"I once learned enough Italian in two weeks to get across Italy on foot," he said today, "so why shouldn't I learn enough Swedish to get along in Sweden?"

Lewis explained he had no idea of becoming proficient enough in the language to make speeches in it. That, he said, is not necessary, for almost every person of education in Sweden reads and understands English. His study of the language has been undertaken so he will be able to understand what the Swedish scholars write and say in their own language.

The author of "Arrowsmith" also is studying Swedish history, the better to prepare himself for the adventure that will begin when he and Mrs. Lewis sail from New York, Nov. 29, on the Swedish-American liner Drottningholm.

The Nobel prizes are awarded on the afternoon of Dec. 10, the anniversary of the death of Alfred Bernard Nobel, inventor of dynamite and donor of the prizes. The winners and members of the Swedish academies who select them will gather on a public platform—probably that of the new concert house—and after appropriate addresses each winner will come forward to receive his check for $46,350 and an especially signed diploma. The literary prize, which is regarded as the highest honor, usually comes last. This is the formal part of the ceremonies.

Following the presentations the prize winners and their wives, their hosts and leading citizens will attend a Nobel banquet. It is here the winners are expected to make their first speeches.

Later during their stay in Stockholm the winners are required by the Nobel foundation statutes to read a paper of a more formal or technical nature on their own activities before a gathering of their professional colleagues. The literary laureate will speak before the Swedish academy. He expects to discuss present American literature.

Growing Child Gets Past the Daily Nap Habit

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

A booklet on sex education will be sent by Mrs. Bevans on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

This question of naps for the 3, 4, and 5 year olds, which we mentioned yesterday, has been made the subject of extensive studies. Thousands of conscientious mothers wear themselves and their children out struggling to accomplish the daytime sleep. They cajole, threaten, scold, punish, insist. Still others try the approved methods—and fail. The studies made show that it is not humanly possible to make every 3, 4, or 5 year old take a nap of uniform length every day in the week. The psychological and perhaps physical changes in the child seem to be responsible for the beginning of the breaking up of this habit.

Surprisingly enough, this breaking off does not come as we might expect. It would be natural to think that a child would begin to lose the nap habit by sleeping less and less each day. But this is not the way the nap habit breaks up. It generally happens that the children begin to skip naps. That is, they may have a good afternoon's sleep every other day in the week, but none at all the intervening days. If this skipping persists for a number of weeks it usually means they're getting past the nap stage.

When you feel this, try to adjust yourself to it by not getting fussed or impatient. However, at the same time, it is well to continue your usual preparations for their nap—the undressing, the darkened room, etc. Then, if there is no sleep there is a quiet, relaxed period.

All young children need at some time during a day of play to be by themselves in a quiet place. You may find, on these days when there is no nap, that a little earlier bedtime hour is necessary.

The point of this all is that you can make every condition favorable to a child's continuing his nap, but that you can't make him sleep past a certain period in his development. Or, in the homely old words, you can lead a horse to water, but you can't make him drink!

Greek Archbishop for U. S. Soon to Leave for Post

ISTANBUL, Turkey, Nov. 19.—(AP)—Msgr. Athinagoras, newly confirmed archbishop of the American Greek Orthodox church, will leave for the United States today by way of Athens. There the new bishop of Chicago and Boston will join him.

WINIFRED CHRISTIE AT DOUBLE KEYBOARD IN HER PIANO RECITAL

BY EDWARD MOORE.

The second double keyboard piano within a month made its appearance at Orchestra hall last night. This one, however, had no dealings with quarter tones, but only with octaves. Winifred Christie played it.

Of the two this one would appear to have the more immediate usefulness and certainly more immediate interest. The second keyboard is placed just above the first and sounds an octave higher. By the use of a foot pedal the first may be coupled to the second so that anything played on the first comes out in octaves. Meanwhile the second remains independent and may be played like any other. Without the coupler the first, too, is like any other.

The advantages lie in increased sonority and brilliancy. Chords played by two hands become of a size to be negotiated only by four hands on an ordinary piano. Passages of single and double notes become octaves or quadruples. In other words, the new instrument starts like the piano that every one knows and builds up into something that no single player has ever been able to approach before.

The next question, naturally, will be for some one to write some special music for it. Miss Christie made a good start by taking a program of piano music ranging from the ancients to as near the moderns as Schumann and Cesar Franck and arranging it in a way that showed off the special capabilities of the new instrument. Or rather she and her husband, Emanuel Moor, made the arrangements, he having first devised the instrument.

She is a highly capable pianist, one with intelligence and imagination, and one of the best points about the program was that the coupler device was used with discretion and not abused. The Franck Prelude, Chorale, and Fugue sounded much as it does when any fine pianist plays it, just a little intensified and more sonorous in certain passages. Bach, Handel, Couperin, and Scarlatti date back to the time of the harpsichord, which also used an octave coupler, so that the coupler on this piano could be used with more freedom.

Frequently a new invention in a musical instrument deserves to be regarded with some conservatism. This one, however, sounds as though it had distinct possibilities.

Optimism Is Fine Ingredient to Put in a Young Marriage

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"Unlike most people, I am contemplating marriage with a good deal of optimism." That's the way Lila introduces herself.

Surely, word hasn't got about that most people contemplate marriage in the opposite spirit! How could they, and go ahead with it? It isn't a sentence one can't avoid, if one wants to escape.

Most people who marry, or are planning on an early marriage, contemplate the state with a great deal of optimism. And let us hope they'll never get over the habit. Optimism is needed, but not for the reason the cynics would have us believe. It is needed as it is needed in any new undertaking. Without the fine ingredient you can't make a go of any job. Without it, you can't have any fun, nohow and nowhere!

That's why the idea getting about that marriage is something to face with a doubting heart and dour mien just isn't healthy and we don't like it. In spite of the mounting divorce records, marriage deserves a nice, big, optimistic hand, for not by long odds are they all on the rocks or threatened.

Even when the boy friend like Lila's hasn't saved anything, optimism may still operate. In fact, it will have to operate the marriage for a time. But, gracious, how many couples have married on the monthly wage and nothing saved! And made a go of it, too. Sure, some of them have fallen by the wayside—but the probability is that they would have, anyway. While money makes the very mischief of an amount of trouble in the early days, it's something else young couples have who survive the experiment successfully.

Not that we are advocating no saving for marriage. It's a grand thing to have money. But if there is not any saved and you're going to get married, get married and learn how to handle the income you're going to have to live on! That's where the optimism again comes in handy. What you can't afford this month—well, there's another month coming, and another after that. Anyway, if you can't have it, what of it? You have each other and if you are a couple of young cheerfuls you're going to have a good time planning together for the bright future that may be yours if you just keep on being optimistic.

Food Talk.

"A great deal of steam: The pudding was out of the copper! A smell like a washing day: That was the cloth. A smell like an eating house and pastry cook's next door to that: That was the pudding. In half a minute Mrs. Cratchitt entered—flushed but smiling proudly—with the pudding like a speckled cannon ball, so hard and firm, blazing in half a quartern of ignited brandy and bedight with a Christmas holly stuck in the top. O! What a wonderful pudding!"

Literature has immortalized the plum pudding. We hold it in high regard, but haven't taken to eating it very strenuously. Most people think that plum pudding is much too rich and that it will give them indigestion. If plum pudding is eaten on top of a hearty meal it is certainly likely to have an ill effect. But who wouldn't become ill if he ate another meal just after completin a full one. Plum pudding contains such a great variety of foods that it is a complete meal in itself. If you become ill it is the turkey, dressing, and salad that are to blame. Rare, round, rich plum pudding should be served with a simple meal playing the minor rôle to its lead.

Old plum puddings used to be served covered with blazing brandy and the interior well flavored with it. Now it is just as easy to make a delicious pudding using the brandy and wine flavorings sold for such purposes. The ingredients are combined quite simply. They may then be tied into a cloth and cooked in boiling water or placed in a mold and steamed.

The following recipe makes a plum pudding which I am sure is as good if not better than Bob Cratchitt's.

ENGLISH PLUM PUDDING.

⅓ lb. currants, washed and dried.
⅓ lb. raisins, seeded and lightly floured.
1-3 tsp. baking powder.
8 eggs, beaten.
2 oz. chopped candied peel, either orange or lemon.
2 oz. minced apples.
4 tbsp. brandy flavoring.

Mix all together thoroughly. Put a square of strong white cloth into a pudding bowl and flour it. Pour into it the above mixture and tie it firmly, being sure to allow space for rising, or the cloth will burst. Drop into a kettle of boiling water and keep it boiling for 6 hours; then take it out and hang up in a cool place where it will swing free. When ready to use, drop into boiling water for 1 hour; serve with brandy sauce. This quantity makes 1 large pudding. Twice this quantity makes 3 of medium size. Boil as many as you wish in one kettle. This pudding should be made two or three weeks or even longer before using.

LIGHT PLUM PUDDING.

3 tbsp. molasses.
1 cup grated raw carrots.
1 cup grated raw potatoes.
1 tsp. soda.
1 cup pastry flour.
½ tsp. cinnamon.
½ tsp. salt.
¼ cup ground chocolate.
½ tsp. baking powder.

Cream the butter with the sugar and add the molasses. Let stand while you grate the raw carrots and potatoes into a bowl and add the soda. Combine with the first mixture. Sift the flour with the remaining dry ingredients. Add the washed and dried raisins in order that they may be coated well with flour and stir in the first mixture, beating until well mixed. Fill an oiled double boiler and steam for 3 hours, being careful to replenish the water below as it boils away. Or put it into an oiled covered mold [a coffee can or a lard pail may be used]. Set into a kettle of water [have wa r come up part way on the mold] and boil 3½ hours. Serve hot with hard sauce. This makes a splendid substitute for the traditional rich Christmas plum pudding.

BAKED HAM WITH PINEAPPLE RINGS.

Have a slice of ham cut 1 inch thick from center of ham. This should weigh at least 1½ pounds. Put in a baking pan with 1 cup of juice from canned pineapple and ¼ cup brown sugar. Bake in 400 degree F. oven, basting frequently until tender [about 1¼ hours]. Arrange 5 slices of canned pineapple on meat and place under broiler until delicately browned.

Yield: 5 servings. One serving: Total, 497 calories; protein, 108 calories; fat, 26 calories; carbohydrates, 124 calories.

A FRIEND IN NEED

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

In Desperate Need.

"We are badly in need of clothing for the children—they are almost naked—and blankets and bedding. There has been no work and we just cannot get along. The boys are 8, 3, 2 years, and 8 months. The girls are 9 and 5½. MRS. P. F."

This is a most deserving case and a pathetic one. The children cannot go out of doors because they haven't adequate clothing and the mother is almost frantic. Can you do something to help them?

Paris Design for Wear Under the Fur Coat.

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special Correspondence.]—There are lots of little jacketed affairs in the new Paris fashions that are hard to classify. One doesn't know whether to style them dresses or suits, but although they have coats, if you can dignify such absurdly charming abbreviations by that name, they are not warm enough to step out of doors in, and I find, upon inquiry, that they are intended to be worn under fur coats this winter. Then, if you slip your fur coat off in the restaurant or at a formal reception, you still have the air of being very much dressed.

The Marthe et Renée costume, sketched above, is a pretty example of this genre. It's of turquoise blue crêpe marocain and it has its blouse, skirt top, and lower sleeves all covered with eyelet embroidered flowers—hand done, of course, in turquoise silk. The slender skirt is cut with a low circular flare and is hand embroidered in scallops round the hem. A similarly embroidered circular flounce marks the meeting of embroidered and plain marocain in the skirt and gives the effect of a tunic.

The tiny empire bolero of the plain turquoise marocain is also scalloped and has a hand scalloped hem and a high draped scarf collar of seal, which, as I have already told you, is among the smart furs of this winter. The belt and the three bolero buttons are black patent leather. This frock is designed for wear with a collarless coat of seal and a crush seal muff. The hat is turquoise blue felt.

EVEN though those smart young feet of yours do most of their "stepping out" in a car—don't let that lure you into thinking you don't need Glove galoshes. Stockings can spot in a few seconds—shoes get decidedly moist from even one puddle.

And when you consider how much Glove galoshes add to your smartness—well, you'll hie yourself at once to the smartest shop in town. There you'll find an entrancing variety of Glove galoshes in the newest colorings, and in styles to complete each of your costumes.

QUIZ OFFICIALS OF DIXMOOR ON MOTOR ARRESTS

Demand Village Books in Speed Trap Charges.

As a result of numerous complaints of motorists charging a speed trap at Dixmoor, formerly Specialville, officials of the town were questioned yesterday afternoon by Assistant State's Attorney Robert L. Donigan. Donigan is working in coöperation with Joseph H. Braun, counsel for the Chicago Motor club.

C. J. Thompson, president of the village board; Charles Rajsl, police magistrate, and Albert Beyers, acting chief of police, were the officers questioned. It developed that there are from 150 to 200 arrests for speeding made by the village police each month, largely along Western avenue.

Fines Total $800 a Month.

Fines collected average $700 to $800 a month, according to the village officials. Costs ranging from $2 to $5 with each arrest go to the police magistrate.

Donigan asked how much was spent last year on roads and was told that $2,600 covered this expenditure. The state law provides that all money collected in fines from motorists be used for street improvements.

Charge Melrose Park Trap.

The prosecutor directed the officials to produce the village books. Donigan said if the books show money collected in speed fines was spent for other purposes than street improvements he will take the matter before the grand jury.

Braun said yesterday that charges of a speed trap at Melrose Park are being investigated. He stated that motorists are complaining of being arrested on the St. Charles road just inside the corporate limits of the town. He said that after leaving the built up section of Melrose Park St. Charles road resembles a country highway and to all intents and purposes is one.

VOTE TO SPEND ONIMPROVEMENTS IN LINCOLN PARK

Further improvements in landscaping and harbor facilities were voted yesterday by the Lincoln park board. The plans call for a retaining wall to cost $549,000 off Montrose avenue, a $270,000 dredging job that will provide a new yacht harbor about 33 acres in extent, and a new bathing beach.

Money for the improvements was voted in the bond issues approved at the last election. President Warren Wright of the park board said the work is to be done now to help relieve the unemployment situation, and also because materials can be had at a low price.

JOHN LOVE, IRON TRADE PIONEER, DIES AT AURORA

John Love, 77 years old, a pioneer in the iron and steel industry in Illinois, died last night at his home in Aurora.

Mr. Love and his brother Joy, who died last January, were born in Aurora and more than 50 years ago started their first iron foundry in a shed near their home. From this grew the firm of Love Bros., Inc., manufacturers of ornamental iron, and the Aurora Foundry company. The companies are among the oldest in Aurora.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: The Perfect Servant

MOTHER BATTLES SON IN A SUIT OVER ESTATE

Wants Him Ousted as Conservator.

Mrs. Mary J. O'Keefe of Joliet, a diminutive 89 year old grandmother, took the witness stand in the courtroom of Probate Judge Henry Horner yesterday to protest against the assertion of her son that she is incompetent and unable to handle an estate of $50,000. Mrs. O'Keefe is seeking to have set aside the appointment of her son, Walter H. Krouskup, a Chicago broker, as conservator of the estate.

According to Mrs. O'Keefe, Krouskup, who has offices at 231 South La Salle street, obtained his appointment as conservator illegally. She declared that the Cook county court not only lacks jurisdiction in the case, but that she was not notified of the action and did not learn of it until two weeks later.

Mrs. O'Keefe has survived two husbands. She makes her home at 102 Ivy street, Joliet, with a niece, Miss Grace Mather. Krouskup is her son by her first husband, who died in 1868.

Early this year, Mrs. O'Keefe said, she came to Chicago at her son's invitation. Suffering from a slight cold, she said her son called his physician and she was taken to the North Sh health resort in Winnetka, where she was kept for two months.

During the time she was in the sanitarium she was always under close surveillance by attendants, she said, and was not permitted to receive visitors. On May 15 she was released and returned to Joliet. Then she found that Krouskup had in the meantime been appointed conservator of the estate by the Cook county Probate court.

Following a conference with attorneys for both sides the hearing was continued until Dec. 6, when a plan for the selection of a joint conservator will be discussed.

Peter Schneider Funeral Services to Be Tomorrow

Peter Schneider, 80 years old, one of Chicago's oldest portrait photographers, who died Monday, will be buried tomorrow at Mount Greenwood. Funeral services will be held from the chapel at 6110 Cottage Grove avenue in the afternoon. Born in Gerchsheim, Baden, Germany, in 1851, he came to Chicago in 1866 and started in business as one of the city's pioneer photographers in 1877. He retired in 1927.

LEOPOLD IS 26; 6TH BIRTHDAY IN JOLIET PRISON

Nathan Leopold Jr., who, with Richard Loeb, killed Bobby Franks, was 26 years old yesterday. It was his sixth birthday in Joliet prison. Members of his family made their regular visit to him, but because of the penitentiary rules there were no presents.

Both Loeb and Leopold were sentenced to imprisonment for life and ninety-nine years. It is estimated that it will be 23 years more before they are eligible to apply for parole.

Leopold's father left him $50,000 in a trust fund, which with interest is growing at the rate of more than $3,000 a year and will amount to more than $165,000 in 20 years. Leopold cannot spend the money because prison rules limit him to a total expenditure of $2 a week for candy, tobacco, and newspapers. He is employed in the fiber furniture factory.

LEGION PROTEST STOPS A CHURCH TALK ON SOVIETS

An address entitled "Four Years in the Land of the Soviets," which Karl Borders, traveler and author, was scheduled to deliver tonight before the Westminster Fellowship in the First Presbyterian church of Evanston, was called off yesterday after Evanston post, No. 42, of the American Legion, had protested that Borders was a propagandist of the Russian government.

Maj. W. C. Bechtold, commander of the post, told Arthur Van Deusen, chairman of the Fellowship committee, that Borders was listed in the department of justice files as a Russian propagandist. Bechtold arranged to have Fred A. Busby, chairman of the Americanization committee of the Illinois department of the Legion, fill Borders' place on the Fellowship program with an address on "Enemies from Within."

RAILWAY UNIONS SEEK TO DEFEAT WATERWAY PLANS

Want All Carriers on Equal Basis.

Delegates of the five principal railway trainmen's unions of the United States and Canada, meeting in Chicago to form a program for unemployment relief, yesterday adopted a resolution recommending measures to defeat the inland waterways program of the federal government.

The resolution also urges the 2,000,000 union members in the United States represented by the five organizations to work in conjunction with the railroad owners for increased taxation of all bus and trucking lines, shipping concerns utilizing present government owned waterways, and to place all common carriers on a par with railroads.

A. F. Whitney, head of the trainmen's union, asked to enlarge on the resolution, stated: "We are trying to make all carriers equal. Railroads construct their own roadbeds and lay their own tracks. Carriers using highways should be forced to build their own systems or be taxed heavily for the use of existing ones.

"The proposed waterways system, built with government funds, would allow steamboat lines to compete unfairly with railroads. If they want a waterway they can build it. Railroads are not subsidized."

Other resolutions prepared by the special committee and said to deal with unemployment relief through a change in hours per day or days per month were not voted on by the delegates. After an all day session the resolutions were returned to the committee, which considered them during a secret night session. They will be returned to the general body this morning for a definite vote.

It was learned yesterday from unofficial sources that both the six hour day and the twenty-six day month are under consideration by the committee. Two organizations, the trainmen and the engineers, favored the twenty-six day month if the railroads would accede to a six hour day with eight hours pay. The three other organizations wish the six hour day but do not desire the twenty-six day month.

Warrant Out for Jailer Accused by Prisoner

A warrant charging mayhem was issued yesterday for Hugh Holahan, suspended lockup keeper at the Lawndale police station. He is charged with beating William Wall, 25, 7648 South Sangamon street, when the latter was locked up in a cell at the station for refusing to pay a taxicab bill. The police say that Wall was intoxicated and was beaten by other prisoners. Judge John H. Lyle in the Felony court issued the warrant and fixed bail at $5,000.

HERRIN WOMAN IS DEAD AT 73.

Mothers, Mix This At Home for a Bad Cough

You'll be pleasantly surprised when you make up this simple home mixture and try it for a distressing cough or chest cold. It takes but a moment to mix and costs little, but it can be depended upon to give quick and lasting relief.

Get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist. Pour this into a pint bottle; then fill it with plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey. The full pint thus made costs no more than a small bottle of ready-made medicine, yet it is much more effective. It is pure, keeps perfectly and children love its pleasant taste.

This simple remedy has a remarkable three-fold action. It goes right to the seat of trouble, loosens the germ-laden phlegm, and soothes away the inflammation. Part of the medicine is absorbed into the blood, where it acts directly upon the bronchial tubes and thus helps inwardly to throw off the whole trouble with surprising ease.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form, and known as one of the greatest healing agents for severe coughs, chest colds and bronchial troubles.
